The first 35 volumes were published under provisions of a "Publication Fund," and beginning with the Collections for 1903 (dated 1904

but really issued years later) the name was changed, by order of the Society, on Oct. 6, 1908, to be called "The John Watts de Peyster Publication Fund."

The principal items of this important series have been analyzed and are allocated in this Bibliography to their proper groups.

NEW YORK HISTORICAL SOCIETY. Proceedings for 1843-1849. New York, 1844-1849. 7 vols. 8°.

For an analysis of the contents, see Robert H. Kelby's history of the Society (New York, 1903), pp. 120-142; also Griffling's bibliography in Annual Report of American Historical Association for 1905, vol. 2, pp. 717-712. Principal articles with respect to Manhattan Island are: De Witt's New Netherland (1844); Brodhead's observations respecting two ancient maps of New Netherland (1845); translations of De Rasière's letter and portions of Wassenaar (1847); George H. Moore's Peter Minuit (1849).

NEW YORK HISTORICAL SOCIETY. Quarterly Bulletin, April, 1917, to 1928. 12 vols. 8°. Illustrated.

Has some reproductions of fine manuscripts relating to Manhattan history, and contributed articles of local events. The more important among the latter have been analyzed for the Bibliography.

The Society has a room specially devoted to New York, in which are paintings, views, maps, and other graphic depictions of New York and New Yorkers; also cabinets of relics. Through the Quarterly Bulletin these treasures are being made better known.

NEW YORK STATE HISTORICAL ASSOCIATION. Proceedings. [Albany], 1901-1927. 25 vols. 8°. Illustrated.

Vol. 1 starts with the proceedings of the Second Annual Meeting. Beginning with October, 1919, publication also began of the Quarterly Journal, which is found either under that title or assembled, four numbers to a year, with a title-page, etc. of the Proceedings series continued. There is preliminary matter in the Proceedings not given in the Journal, and the first number of the latter for October, 1919, is not at all included in the former.

There is a general index in Proceedings, vol. 23 (1925), which brings out the articles in the series as well as in the first six volumes of the Journal. The principal items of interest for Manhattan Island are analyzed in our Bibliography, under the heads to which they belong.

OSGOD (HERBERT LEVI). The American colonies in the seventeenth century. New York, 1904-1907. 3 vols. 8°.

A thorough exposition of the development of English colonization in America, in its political and administrative features, and showing the beginnings of self-government as well as the system of imperial control in royal provinces. Important chapters related to New York, are: Vol. 1, chap. X, intercolonial relations with the Dutch; vol. 2, chap. II, the land system; chap. V, the official system in proprietary New Netherland; chap. VI, the transition from Dutch to English government and the executive in proprietary New York; chap. VII, the beginnings of a legislature in proprietary New York; chap. XIV, financial system, taxes, etc.; vol. 3, chap. XII, New York as a royal province under Governor Dongan; chap. XV, the revolt of Leisler and permanent establishment of provincial assembly. There are other chapters with reflections of New York history. The author was a sound scholar who drew upon original sources, many of which had never been used before.

—The American colonies in the eighteenth century. New York, 1924-1925. 4 vols. 8°.

In this work Dr. Osgood has followed in point of view and method the earlier works on the subject, but has had a great advantage to continue the history of such subjects as the land system, the judiciary, finance and the systems of defence in the different types of colonies, which were so necessary in the account of the earlier period. The new series traces the development of the thirteen British colonies during the seventy years from 1690 to 1763. Osgood has brought New York into a position of considerable prominence in his comparative treatment of the colonies, due to New York's strategic position in all military relations with Canada, to its leading rôle in Indian affairs, and in its relation to the centre of trade. New York figures especially in vol. 1, part one, chaps. III, IV, VII, VIII, XII; vol. 2, part one, chaps. XVII-XIX; vol. 2, part two, chaps. IV-VI; vol. 2, part two, chap. XVII; vol. 4, part three, chaps. X, XIV.

VALENTINE (DAVID THOMAS), and others. For Manuals, see New York City—Common Council: Manual; also Brown (Henry Collins).

WINSOR (JUSTIN), editor. Narrative and critical history of America. Boston, 1886-1889. 8 vols. 4° and royal 8°. Illustrated.

The unyielding quarto edition was the first issued to subscribers, followed by a trade edition in royal octavo. In 1906 a reissue of the plates was made on thinner paper, in handier format, of which 150 copies of the "first impression" were issued uncut, with paper label, and followed by a trade edition. The narrative chapters were written by many of the best American historians of the day and, moreover, they were supplemented by most valuable critical sections on the sources by Winsor and his staff.

C. GENERAL HISTORIES OF PROVINCE AND STATE

BARBER (JOHN WARNER) and Henry Howe. Historical collections of the State of New York; . . . relating to its history and antiquities, with geographical descriptions of every township in the State. New York, 1841. 8°.

New York County, illustrated, occupies pp. 284-347. Contains a steel engraving of the "S. W. View of New York from Bedlow's L." and a number of woodcuts of public buildings, institutions, etc., in New York City. There are copies of the original edition on thick paper. The volume was often reissued. A revised edition of the text, under Barber's name alone, was published in 1851.

BECKER (CARL LOTUS). The history of political parties in the province of New York, 1760-1776. Madison, 1909. 8°. (Also in Bulletin of University of Wisconsin, no. 286. History series, vol. 2, no. 1, pp. 1-290.)

The separate edition has a good index, pp. 291-319. A good bibliography of primary and secondary sources, pp. 277-289.

BRODHEAD (JOHN ROMEYN). History of the state of New York. New York, 1853-1871. 2 vols. 8°. Map.

A constructive work of great value and accurately written from primary sources, many of which had never been utilized before by historians. Vol. 1 covers the period 1609-1664; vol. 2, 1664-1691. In his second volume, Brodhead stated that he had completed copy for the printer for a third volume to embrace the years 1691 to 1702; but, declining health and his death, in May, 1873, prevented its publication. The manuscript has disappeared. A second edition of vol. 1 (New York, 1859) is merely a reissue from the original plates, with slight correction of errata; vol. 2 appeared only in 1871.

COLDEN (CADWALLADER). Letters on Smith's History of New York, in Collections of the New York Historical Society, Fund Series, vol. 1 (1868), pp. 177-235; also vol. 2 (1869), pp. 203-212.

Strictures on Smith's History, with recollections of Colden about the governors and government of New York under English rule.

DAVIS (ALICE). The administration of Benjamin Fletcher in New York, in Proceedings of New York State Historical Association, vol. 19 (1921), pp. 213-250.

DE LANCEY (EDWARD FLOYD). Origin and history of manors in the province of New York and in the county of Westchester. New York, 1886. 4°. Also in Scharf (J. T.). History of Westchester county, vol. 1 (Phila., 1886), pp. 31-160f.

DUNLAP (WILLIAM). History of New Netherlands [sic], Province of New York, and State of New York. New York, 1839-1840. 2 vols. 8°.

Included only because one of the pioneer histories of New York, though of little use now.

FERNOW (BERTHOLD). New Netherland, or the Dutch in North America; [with critical essay on the sources of information, in Winsor's America, vol. 4, pp. 395-442.

Winsor contributes "Editorial Notes" on the sources, on pp. 439-442.

FISKE (JOHN). The Dutch and Quaker colonies in America. Illustrated with portraits, maps, facsimiles, contemporary views, prints, and other historical materials. Boston and New York, 1903. 2 vols. 8°.

This is the "Illustrated Edition." The original trade edition was published in 1899, two vols. 12°, and has only eight maps.

In vol. 1, p. 61ff., Fiske has an interesting, if absurd, discussion of Norumbega as located on Manhattan Island, in which he refers to the late Dr. Arthur James Weise as a source. Dr. Weise later told Mr. Faltis that, while he had indeed furnished Fiske with the results of his inquiries into this theory, his data had not been used sensibly, which Weise greatly regretted.

FLOCK (ALEXANDER C.). Loyalism in New York during the American Revolution. New York, 1901. 8°. (Forms Columbia University Studies in History, Economics and Public Law, vol. 14, no. 1.)

Contains a complete list of property confiscated in the city and county of New York as a result of the war, with names of subsequent purchasers, on pp. 215-250.

[FLOCK (ALEXANDER C.).] The American Revolution in New York. Its political, social and economic significance. Albany, 1926. 8°. Illustrated.

This is the official volume "prepared by the Division of Archives and History" for the 150th anniversary of the war in New York. It has a list of "Works relating to the American Revolution in the State of New York," pp. 287-304; and documents, pp. 305-355.

FORD (WORTHINGTON CHAUNCEY). The earliest years of the Dutch settlement of New Netherland, in Proceedings of the New York State Historical Association, vol. 17 (1919), pp. 74-86.

FRENCH (JOHN HEUSTIS). Gazetteer of the State of New York. Embracing . . . a complete history and description of every county, city, town, village, and locality. Syracuse, 1860. Royal 8°. Illustrated.

New York county, pp. 418-448; also considerable on pp. 177-154. This work passed through a number of editions and was finally revised by Franklin B. Hough in 1872. It is the most useful of the State gazetteers.

GREENE (EVARTS BOUTELL). New York and the old empire, in Quarterly Journal of New York State Historical Association, vol. 8 (1926), pp. 121-132.

GRIFFIS (WILLIAM ELLIOT). The story of New Netherland: the Dutch in America. Boston, and New York, 1909. 12°.

A popular story by an author who, from his long experience as a preacher, lecturer, and teacher, wrote to interest the masses.

HOWELL (GEORGE ROGERS). The date of the settlement of the colony of New York. Albany, 1897. 8°. (Publications of New York Society—Founders and Patriots of America, No. 1.)

It is a substantial argument in favor of the year 1624 as the date of the first settlement, at Fort Orange (Albany). A facsimile of the "Carte Figurative," accompanies Howell's monograph.

[IRVING (WASHINGTON).] A history of New York. . . . By Diedrich Knickerbocker. . . . Published by Inskeep & Bradford, New York . . . 1809. 2 vols. 12°.

The first edition of this literary skit. It has a folded view of New Amsterdam, which is repeated in the second edition of 1812. Irving drew his inspiration from original records and old books. Two of his note-books for Knickerbocker are in the Seligman Collection of the New York Public Library, and another was recently sold at auction in New York. In an edition "edited with a critical introduction by Stanley Williams and Tremaine McDowell" (New York, 1927), the editors have gone fully into the methods of Irving's workshop and, besides revealing his sources, have brought out the fact that the motivating idea of the work is a satire on President Thomas Jefferson and his party. Objection to the work by contemporaries, however, was made by descendants of the Dutch of New York, who were stung by the lampooning of Dutch manners. This is seen in "An anniversary discourse," which Gulian Crommelin Verplanck delivered before the New York Historical Society on Dec. 7, 1818 (New York, 1818), reviewed in North American Review, vol. 8, pp. 414-445. Evidently because of this misunderstanding, which continued for years, Irving felt obliged in 1848 to write an "author's apology," for a new edition he was preparing of the Knickerbocker History. The original manuscript of the "apology" is in the New York Public Library.

JAMESON (JOHN FRANKLIN), editor. Narratives of New Netherland, 1609-1664. With three maps and a facsimile. New York, 1909. 8°. (Original Narratives of Early American History.)

The most important single volume of early source-material for the history of New York under the Dutch. It contains extracts from Van Meteren, Purchas, De Laet, Wassenaer, De Vries, and others; gives in full letters of De Rasière, Michaelius, Jogues, Bogaert, etc., and the Verloofte (Representation), the Novum Belgicum of Jogues, and other important pieces, among them a newly-discovered "Description of the Towne of Mannadens, 1661," and a newly-discovered map of New Netherland, known as the Buchellius chart. Each piece is preceded by an illuminating introduction and there are brief annotations throughout. The map, hitherto called erroneously "The Duke's Plan," is here reproduced from the original drawings in the British Museum, and the falsity of the former designation is clearly defined. Older translations of the texts have been greatly improved and some have been virtually prepared de novo. The index is unsatisfactory.

JOHNSON (AMANDUS). The Swedish settlements on the Delaware: their history and relation to the Indians, Dutch and English, 1638-1664. New York, 1911. 2 vols. 8°. Illustrated.

An authoritative work derived from original sources, many of which were never before used. The author has aimed to produce and has succeeded in producing a scholarly work on the political, social, economic, and religious aspects of the Delaware settlements. No student of New Netherland history can fail to take it into account, since it inevitably interlocks with the history of the Dutch government at New Amsterdam. The illustrations are interesting and authentic. Documents and translations of documents are given in appendix C, pp. 727-757. There are helpful biographical sketches of Samuel Blommaert (p. 675), Peter Minuit (p. 684), and Peter Stuyvesant (p. 696). A bibliography with occasional critical evaluations appears on pp. 767-812. It has some egregious errors in author headings, but is particularly valuable for the information given about original manuscripts in the Swedish archives.

JONES (THOMAS). History of New York during the Revolutionary War and of the leading events in the other colonies of that period. Edited by Edward F. de Lancey. New York, 1879. 2 vols. 8°.

Published by the New York Historical Society. The author was justice of the supreme court of the English province and became an ardent loyalist. The editor states that "the text has been given with merely the correction of a few redundancies, colloquialisms, and such obvious errors of the pen as occur in all unprinted prints." The original manuscript has disappeared. See also Observations on Judge

Jones' Loyalist History. . . . How far is it an authority? by Henry Phelps Johnston (New York, 1880).

JOURNAL OF NEW NETHERLAND, 1647, described in the Years 1641 to 1646.

The original Dutch manuscript is in the Royal Library at the Hague, and is unknown, but discussed by Jameson in N. N. Neth., p. 267. It was first printed in an unsatisfactory translation in Doc. Hist. N. Y., vol. 4 (1851), pp. 1-17, and repeated in N. Y. Col. Docs., vol. 1 (1856), pp. 179-188. A greatly revised translation, made directly from the original manuscript by Dr. Johannes de Hullu, is in Jameson's N. N. Neth., pp. 269-284.

Important as giving the government's side with respect to affairs in New Netherland during Kieft's administration.

LAMBRECHTSEN (N. C.). Korte Beschrijving van de ontdekking en der verdere Lotgevallen van Nieuw-Nederland. Middelburg, 1818. 8°. Folded map.

There is an English translation, made in 1819 by Francis Adrian van der Kemp, in Collections of New York Historical Society, 2d series, vol. 1 (New York, 1841), pp. 75-123. An excellent treatise for so early a date, as it was written mainly in 1813-1815. The author made good use of Dutch sources then almost unknown to American writers. Van der Kemp added notes and the editor of 1841 added others, so that the New York Historical Society's volume is amplified. The translation was also improved by the editor. A long contemporary review of the Dutch edition is in North American Review, vol. 9, pp. 77-91.

MCKINLEY (ALBERT E.). The English and Dutch towns of New Netherland, in American Historical Review, vol. 6, no. 1 (October, 1900), pp. 1-18.

MOULTON (JOSEPH WHITE). History of the State of New York, including its aboriginal and colonial annals. New York, 1824-1826. 2 vols. 8°. Maps in part 1; folded plate with view in part 2.

Part 1, copyrighted in 1825, embraces "Ante-Colonial Annals" and on the title-page bears the joint names of John Van Ness Yates and Moulton. Part 2 is entitled "Novum Belgium." The copyright of both parts is in Moulton's name alone. On p. V (footnote) of part 2 Moulton says that Yates "never contributed a sentence or fact" and that in future the work would be published "in his own name only." Part 2 is rare. These volumes must be used with caution and should be employed only by persons thoroughly able to sift the wheat from the chaff.

O'CALLAGHAN (EDMUND BAILEY). History of New Netherland; or New York under the Dutch. New York, 1846-1848. 2 vols. 8°. Also both volumes dated 1848; and a second edition, New York, 1855. 2 vols. 8°. Maps, facsimile et al.

The New York Public Library has an interleaved set with numerous revisions and notes written by the author for a new edition and in which new sources of information were revealed. Vol. 1 takes the history through 1646, and vol. 2 carries it from 1647-1664. The appendices of both volumes contain documents.

Dr. O'Callaghan used the translations which Van der Kemp made from the Dutch manuscripts owned by the State of New York, known in this English dress as "Albany Records." He made good use of the "Holland Documents" and "London Documents," both transcripts made under Brodhead's auspices in Holland and England. He was the first historian to explore the Rensselaerswyck manuscripts through the courtesy of Gen. Stephen Van Rensselaer, and he made much use of contemporary publications in Dutch, English, French, and other languages. Dr. John G. Shea, in Mag. of Amer. Hist. for 1880, p. 78, states that vol. 1 in an edition of 1,000 copies entailed a loss and the author became indebted to the publishers, who had sent out many copies for review and had carried "advertising not limited by prudence." The author, therefore, took out the copyright on the second volume, of which 500 copies were printed in 1848. From this he was able to make enough profit to balance his former losses, but without pay for his expenses and labor of years.

The register of New Netherland, 1626 to 1674. Albany, 1855. Royal 8°.

A civil-list, with "Annals of New Netherland" on pp. x-xx.

PALTSITS (VICTOR HUGO). Daniel Denton's Description of New York in 1670, in Bulletin of New York Public Library, vol. 28 (1924), pp. 599-604.

An account of Denton's Description of New York, analyzing the work, with a sketch of the author, and giving a complete census of all known copies of the original book.

PAPERS relating to the first settlement of New York. . . . and the description and first settlement of New Netherland. Edinburgh: Privately printed, 1888. 2 vols. 8°. (Forms Collectanea Adamantæa, XXVII, vols. 1 and 2.)

Vol. 1 has only a "List of early immigrants" (1657-1664), taken from Doc. Hist. of N. Y., vol. 2 consists of Wassenaer's description of New Netherland, translated from his Historie van Europa.

REDWAY (JACQUES W.). Some side lights on the passing of New Netherland viewed from Westchester County, in Proceedings of New York State Historical Association, vol. 9 (1910), pp. 152-159.

SCHUYLER (GEORGE W.). Colonial New York. Philip Schuyler and his family. New York, 1885. 2 vols. 8°.

The preface gives a pretty good account of the vicissitudes which the early records of New York have passed through. The introduction is in three parts and discusses the patronship in New Netherlands, the Dutch colonies on the Delaware River, and the relations of New Netherlands with New England.

SILLE (NICASIEUS DE). Letters, 1654, [Edited by A. J. F. van Laer], in Quarterly Journal of New York State Historical Association, vol. 1 (1919-1920), pp. 98-108.

Two letters of De Sille written from New Netherlands, of which he was the "fiscæl."

SMITH (WILLIAM). The history of the province of New-York, from the first discovery to the year 1732. London, 1757. 4°. Frontispiece view of Oswego.

The author's own copy, interleaved, with additions and corrections, was sold in the Henry F. De Puy sale, part 3, April 20, 1920, item 2240, at the Anderson Galleries, New York, which see for facsimile page in which Smith explains the purpose of revising this copy. Our careful examination of Smith's corrections and additions has satisfied us that no really outstanding facts are there for the advantage of modern scholars. For Smith's original manuscripts see Bibliography, division I, subdivision B, sub-head (b) 5 New York Public Library. For strictures on this history, by Cadwallader Colden, see Collections of N. Y. Hist. Society (1868), pp. 177-235, and (1869), pp. 203-212; also Monthly Review, June, 1757, p. 517.

A second edition appeared at Philadelphia in 1792. An edition continued by J. V. N. Yates to 1747 (not 1814 as purported on the title-page), was published at Albany in 1817. Smith's own continuation first appeared in Collections of N. Y. Hist. Society, vol. 4 (1836), and then in two volumes (New York, 1839). It brings the history down to 1762, and was derived from a final transcript made and furnished by Smith's son in England. The original manuscript of the author, with numerous changes, suppressed parts, and other elisions, is now in the New York Public Library among the Smith Papers.

VERSTEEG (DINGMAN). New Netherlands's founding. [New York], 1924. 8°. Pamphlet.

Published by the Holland Society of New York. The writer suggests 1625 as the year of first settlement on Manhattan Island.

VOSBURGH (ROYDEN WOODWARD). The settlement of New Netherlands, 1624-1626 and Corrections, in New York Genealogical and Biographical Record, vol. 55 (1924), pp. 3-15, 211-213. Also issued separately in a small edition.

WATSON (JOHN FANNING). Annals and occurrences of New York city and state, in the olden time; being a collection of memoirs, anecdotes and incidents . . . from the days of the founders. Philadelphia, 1846. 8°. Illustrated.

This work has many errors, judged in the light of modern knowledge, but is still useful in spots, if handled critically. Watson added himself of the works of Moulton and Dunlap. There is a creditable appreciation of documentary materials in a chapter on "Ancient Memorials," pp. 154 ff.; also in respect to Brodhead's transcripts, pp. 315 ff. Some of the pictures are fanciful and should be avoided. Some of the text was written in 1828 as an appendix to his Annals of Philadelphia, Philadelphia, 1830; also taken from his Historic tales of olden time, New York, 1832. "The reader of the present day will find the book worthless, except for an occasional fact which he may need to complete some picture of the life and personalities of a past time."—Prof. H. L. Osgood, in Larned's Literature of Amer. Hist., p. 374.

—Annals of Philadelphia . . . to which is added an appendix, containing old time researches and reminiscences of New York city. Philadelphia, 1830. 8°. Illustrated.

The appendix has a half-title which gives 1828 as the date of its conclusion. In that year the author made a short visit to New York and he wrote a series of essays "without any ulterior view to publication." He was induced by friends to print. This material entered into his later annals of New York (Phila., 1846).

—Historic tale of olden time; concerning the early settlement and advancement of New-York city and state. For the use of families and schools. . . . Illustrated with plates. New York, 1832. 16°.

The author's advertisement says: "The facts in the main have been derived from Moulton's recent Historical Notices of New-York, and from Watson's Annals of Olden Time." Some of the plates are stupid, e. g. "Fort Amsterdam Village—1623;" "Stuyvesant on horse-back;" and the Stadt Huys, "built 1602!"

WIEDER (FREDERIC CASPAR). De stichting van New York in Juli 1625. Reconstructies en nieuwe gegevens ontleend aan de Van Rapard documenten. The Hague, 1925. 8°. (Publication no. 26 of the Linschoten Vereeniging.)

The documents he prints in Dutch are the texts of five contemporary copies, 1624-1626, relating to New Netherlands, derived from their first publication in 1924 by the Henry E. Huntington Library, in Documents relating to New Netherlands, from the manuscripts owned by that library. Wieder has added useful notes and a pertinent introduction to the documentary part of his volume (pp. 97-179). In the narrative part, the soundest part is the section in which he discusses the primitive form of government in New Netherlands. In the hypothetical part, which he has sought to make the major part, by naming the book after it, he has alleged that the so-called Van Rapard documents lend themselves to the interpretation that Manhattan Island was first settled by workmen in the employ of the Dutch West India Company, in July, 1625. His theory rests principally in assuming that tentative instructions were carried out literally and that Fort Amsterdam was then begun as a large five-angled fort with buildings, shops, etc., within. He admits that contemporary writings are silent, so far as supporting his theory is concerned. While his demonstrations are ingenious and his reasoning is speculative, the deductions he arrives at are unconvincing. Reviewed in American Historical Review, vol. 31 (1926), pp. 529-531, by V. H. Paltsits.

D. GENERAL CITY HISTORIES

ANDREWS (WILLIAM LORING). New York as Washington knew it after the Revolution. New York, 1905. 8°. Illustrated.

135 copies on French hand-made paper, and 32 copies on imperial Japan paper.

BAHRET (JAMES L.). Growth of New York and suburbs since 1790, in Scientific Monthly, vol. XI (1920), pp. 404-418.

BELDEN (EZEKIEL PORTER). New-York: past, present, and future; comprising a history of the city of New-York, a description of its present condition and an estimate of its future increase. New-York, 1849. 12°.

Illustrated with engravings on steel and a map of the city. The volume is a composite and contains besides the 125pp. of history and description, an account of Belden's twenty-thousand dollar model of New York (2 app.) and "The American Advertiser" (180pp.). Reissues and improved editions were published in 1849, 1850 and 1851.

BOLTON (REGINALD PELHAM). The bombardment of New York and the fight for independence on the waters of New York City . . . in the year 1776. [New York, 1915.] 8°. Illustrated.

BOOTH (MARY LOUISE). History of the city of New York, from its earliest settlement to the present time. Illustrated with over one hundred engravings. New York, 1859. 8°.

This popular history was for some years the only complete history of the city. It was reissued in 1860, 1865 and 1866, and appeared with additions and alterations in 1867, two volumes, octavo; again "revised and brought down to date" in one volume, 1880. There is a copy of the edition of 1867, with privately-printed titles dated 1876, 1877 and 1878, and extended to eight large folio volumes for Dr. Thomas Addis Emmet, of New York City, by the insertion of 1,410 portraits, views and engravings, 337 manuscripts, 57 maps and plans, 48 broadsides, and other materials. This set is now owned by the New York Public Library.

BROWN (HENRY COLLINS). Glimpses of old New-York. New York, 1917. 4°. Illustrated.

—New York of to-day. New York, 1917. 16°. Illustrated.

—New York of yesterday. New York, 1924. 12°. Illustrated.

A Gracie Mansion hand book.

—Old New York. New York [cop. 1922]. 48°. Illustrated.

CHAMBERS (JULIUS). The book of New York; forty years' recollections of the American metropolis. New York, 1912. 8°. Illustrated.

COLTON (JULIA MARIA). Annals of old Manhattan 1609-1664. With numerous illustrations. New York, [cop. 1901]. 8°.

There is scarcely a picture that has authenticity about it. The text, which reads pleasantly, is largely derived from secondary sources and carries with it the cumulative errors of a complex progeny.

DUER (WILLIAM ALEXANDER). New-York as it was, during the latter part of the last century. An anniversary address delivered before the St. Nicholas Society, of the city of New York, December 1st, 1848. New-York, 1849. 8°.

—Reminiscences of an old Yorker. New York, 1867. 4°.

Only 35 copies printed for William Loring Andrews. It is a reprint of a series of twelve articles contributed by Duér between June 5 and Aug. 21, 1847, to The American Mail, under the pen-name of "Peregrine Mindful." The New York Public Library has also two extra-illustrated copies; the Emmet copy has been extended by the insertion of 180 portraits and views, some of which are fine water colors, and plans, manuscripts, etc.; the Stuart copy has inserted about thirty portraits, views, etc.

FRANCIS (JOHN WAKEFIELD). New York during the last half century: a discourse in commemoration of the fifty-third anniversary of the New York Historical Society, and the dedication of their new edifice, November 17, 1857. New York, 1857. 8° and royal 8°.

The original edition was exhausted soon after publication and, owing to a continued demand for the discourse, Dr. Francis materially improved it by additions, and then published it as follows:

Old New York; or, reminiscences of the past sixty years. New York, 1858. 12°.

Dr. Francis died in 1861 and a memorial edition of 100 copies, royal octavo, with a memoir of the author by Henry T. Tuckerman, was published in 1863; reissued in 1866, in 12°. The 1863 edition on large paper has been adopted by collectors for extra-illustration. There are two such sets in the New York Public Library. The Stuart copy is extended to four volumes, with individual and numbered title-pages to each, and about 475 engraved and lithographed portraits and views, as well as a few drawings. The Emmet copy, with privately-printed title-pages dated 1880, is extended to five thick volumes by the insertion of 1,029 portraits, views and other engravings; 84 manuscripts, and other materials. The New York Public Library possesses also with the last named set the original holograph manuscript, on about 303 leaves, from which the edition of 1858 was printed, and has the rough draft on loose octavo sheets.

GOODWIN (MAUD WILDER), and others. Half Moon Series. New York, 1897-98. 12°.

24 monographs in 24 parts, forming two volumes. Republished and extended with notes, maps and illustrations as follows:—Historic New York; being the . . . series of the Half Moon papers. New York, 1898-99. 2 vols. 12°.

GUERNSEY (ROCELLOS SHERIDAN). New York city and vicinity during the war of 1812-15, being a military, civic and financial local history of that period, . . . and a description of the forts, [etc.]. New York, 1880-1895. 2 vols. 8°.

The work is based largely upon records and other contemporary materials. It is valuable for topographical data of the period. A new issue appeared in 1911, called "Centennial edition" and entitled: Chronicles of greater New York City, etc.

HALF MOON SERIES. See Goodwin (Maud Wilder), and others.

HASSELL (CHARLES HAYNES). Reminiscences of an Octogenarian of the city of New York (1816-1860). New York, 1866. 8°. Illustrated.

HUBBARD (NATHANIEL TUTTILL). Autobiography, with personal reminiscences of New York City from 1798 to 1875. New York, 1875. 12°.

Written by an old New York merchant in his ninetieth year. It contains chapters on "Old Mayors," "Old Hotels," "Great Fire of 1835," "Old Landmarks," etc.

INNES (J. H.). New Amsterdam and its people. Studies, social and topographical, of the town under Dutch and early English rule. With maps, plans, views, etc. New York, 1902. 8°.

The author does not reveal either by a list of sources or in footnotes or otherwise, the authorities upon which his text depends, so that the reader is unable to know what is derived from credible sources and what is the author's opinion. This is regrettable, because it may be said that Innes used largely original source-material, manuscript and printed. The fault of the work lies mainly in the author's tendency of forcing from meagre evidence untenable conclusions. His work was the first serious attempt made to treat of the seventeenth-century city with respect to its topography and its social organization.

JANVIER (THOMAS ALLIBONE). The Dutch founding of New York. New York and London, 1903. 12°.

This author also contributed a series of articles on the same subject to the New York Times, May 25-31, 1903. The raison-d'être was the 250th anniversary of the founding of municipal government. —Ibid. New York. New York, 1894. 12°.

A well-written popular account, with the narrative sometimes imaginary.

JOHNSTON (HENRY P.). The campaign of 1776 around New York and Brooklyn. Including . . . the battle of Long Island and the loss of New York, . . . containing maps, portraits, and original documents. Brooklyn, 1878. 8°. (Forms Memoirs of Long Island Historical Society, vol. 3.)

JOURNAL OF AMERICAN HISTORY. Vol. 3, pp. 154-162.

This is entitled: "First Years on Manhattan Island; rare manuscript of old New York."

KING (CHARLES). Progress of the city of New York, during the last fifty-years. . . . A lecture delivered . . . on 29th Dec, 1851. New York, 1852. 8°.

KING (MOSES). King's handbook of New York city. Boston, cop. 1892. 8°. Illustrated.

There were 10,000 copies of this edition and 20,000 copies of the second edition, with corrections and many additional illustrations, printed in 1893.

—New York, the metropolis of the American continent . . . a review of New York's recent development. [Boston, 1894?] 8°.

LAMB (MARTHA J. R. N.). History of the city of New York: its origin, rise, and progress. New York and Chicago, cop. 1877-1880. 2 vols. Royal 8°. Illustrated.

A new edition, New York, cop. 1877-1896, in three volumes, royal 8°, was published in 1896, with additions by Mrs. Burton Harrison in vol. 3, for the period 1880-1896.

LODWICK (CHARLES). New York in 1692. Letter from Charles Lodwick to Mr. Francis Lodwick and Mr. Hooker, dated May 20, 1692. Read before the Royal Society of London, in Collections of New York Historical Society, 2d series, vol. 2 (1849), pp. 247-250.

The original manuscript is in the British Museum.

LOSSING (BENSON JOHN). History of New York city, embracing an outline sketch of events (1609-1884). Illustrated with portraits, views of parks, buildings, etc., engraved . . . by George E. Perine. New York, cop. 1884. 2 vols. Royal 8°.

Severely criticized and called "formless and scrappy to the last degree," in The Nation, vol. 47, p. 39.

MORRISON (JOHN H.). History of New York ship yards. New York [1909]. 8°.

MOULTON (JOSEPH WHITE). New York 170 years ago: with a view, and explanatory notes. New York, December, 1843. 8°.

There is a folded view of "New-York in 1673" designated as "copied from a manuscript copy of one which was originally in Holland, and which copy was made in 1760, by Du Simitière." It is the Restitutio view type and the drawing is still among the Du Simitière manuscripts in the Library Company of Philadelphia.

—View of the city of New-Orange, (now New-York) as it was in the year 1673. With explanatory notes. New York, 1825. 8°.

It is illustrated by a poor copy of the Restitutio view of New York. An incomplete original manuscript draft of the work is among the Moulton MSS. in the New York Historical Society.

NEW YORK CITY DURING THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION. Being a collection of original papers (now first published) from the manuscripts in . . . the Mercantile Library Association. [New York:] Privately printed for the Association, 1861. Royal 8°.

A long and useful introduction was contributed by Henry B. Dawson. The documents printed are only a selection from several hundred papers known as the "Tomlinson Collection." There are two extra-illustrated copies of the book in the New York Public Library. The manuscripts of the Tomlinson Collection have been deposited with the New York Public Library.

ONDERDONCK (HENRY), JR. [New York city in olden times, consisting of newspaper cuttings, arranged by H.O., Jr. Jamaica, L.I., 1863. F°.] This is a scrapbook in the New York Public Library; has an incomplete manuscript index leading to a variety of subjects.

PALTSITS (VICTOR HUGO). The founding of New Amsterdam in 1626. Worcester, Mass., 1925. 8°.

Separate edition from Proceedings of American Antiquarian Society for April, 1924.

The author's conclusions are given on p. 17 of the separate issue.

RICHMOND (JOHN FRANCIS). New York and its institutions, 1609-1872. New York, 1872. 8°. Illustrated.

The author's object was "to furnish in a concise yet sufficiently extended form for ordinary use a history of the American metropolis, with the origin, objects, growth, and present condition of its numerous institutions." A good book when published and still of service if used with discretion.

ROOSEVELT (THEODORE). New York. New York and London, 1891. 12°. One plan, two maps. (Historic Towns series.)

The author defined his "aim less to collect new facts than to draw from the immense storehouse of facts already collected those which were of real importance in New York history, and to show their true meaning, and their relations to one another; to sketch the workings of the town's life, social, commercial, and political, at successive periods, with their sharp transformations and contrasts; and to trace the causes which gradually changed a little Dutch trading-hamlet into a huge American city." . . . Reviewed in The Nation, vol. 52, p. 406.

A new edition, with a postscript covering the years 1890-1895, was published in several reissues.

RUNK (EDWARD J.). Annals of greater New York. New York, 1897. 12°. Just a brief chronology from 1497-1897. Teems with errors and nonsense.

SHEPHERD (WILLIAM ROBERT). The passing of New Amsterdam. An address . . . before the Society of Colonial Wars in the State of New York on March 18, 1912. [New York:] Publication Number 21 . . . November, 1912. 8°.

A popular address founded principally upon the printed Records of New Amsterdam.

—The story of New Amsterdam. New York, 1917. 8°. Reprinted from Year Book of the Holland Society of New York, 1917.

Reprinted again, with some changes in the early part of the text and with the addition of numerous illustrations (New York, 1926).

SMITH (THOMAS EDWARD VERMILYE). The city of New York in the year of Washington's inauguration 1789. New York, 1889. 8°. Folded plan.

A useful monograph on this limited subject.

STEVENS (JOHN AUSTIN). New York city in the nineteenth century. In Amer. Hist. Mag., vol. 1 (1906), pp. 97-109, 201-215, 292-314, 407-426, 500-517.

—Progress of New York in a century, 1776-1876; an address delivered before the New York Historical Society, December 7, 1875. New York, 1876. 8°.

STONE (WILLIAM LEEFE). History of New York city from the discovery to the present day. New York, 1868. 8°.

This edition is on thin paper (25pp.) without illustrations. It has a "Supplement," compiled by E. Cleave, of the prominent mercantile houses, etc., with some illustrations. Another edition (New York, 1872) is the best; is on thick paper, and has many illustrations. There is also an edition published by R. D. Cook of New York, in 1876, on thin paper and without illustrations, called "The Centennial History." Stone's work is only a compilation. Prof. H. L. Osgood says: "It is more truly an account of events which occurred in the city, than a history of the city itself; a large proportion of these events, however, really belong to the history of the province."—Larned's Literature of Amer. Hist., p. 373.

THORBURN (GRANT). Fifty years' reminiscences of New-York, or, flowers from the garden of Laurie Todd: being a collection of fugitive pieces which appeared in the newspapers and periodicals of the day, for the last thirty years; including, tales of the Sugar-House [prison] in Liberty-Street; the yellow-fever in New-York, from 1798 to 1822; . . . &c. obtained from actors in the scenes. New York, [cop. 1845]. 16°. Portrait.

Besides what is mentioned in the title, the book has a chapter on "Old Times; or Reminiscences of New-York," pp. 212-215, which includes the author's recollection of the last days of the old Tea Water Pump.

TODD (CHARLES BURR). In old New York; sketches of old times and places in both the state and city. New York, 1907. 8°. (The Grafton Historical series.)

—The story of the city of New York. New York, 1888. 12°. A picturesque story of the city to the year 1830. Another edition was published in 1890, in the series "Great Cities of the Republic."

VALENTINE (DAVID THOMAS). History of the city of New York. New York, 1853. 8°. Many views, and plans.

The appendix contains a descriptive list from early grants and deeds (1637-1680) of places on Manhattan Island and endeavors to identify them with respect to their modern locations. There are also lists of inhabitants of 1653, 1655, 1674; Selyns's list of members of the Dutch Church, 1686; a list of inhabitants in 1703, etc. Valentine says he "availed himself of extensive private memoranda, gathered through the course of several years." He also acknowledged his indebtedness to John Paulding "for minute information respecting early titles." It has been alleged that Paulding is the virtual author of the volume; but the claim to authorship by Valentine is very definite and he took out the copyright.

VAN PELT (DANIEL). Leslie's History of the greater New York. New York [cop. 1898]. 3 vols. Royal 8°. Illustrated. Popular and unreliable.

VAN RENSSELAER (MRS. SCHUYLER [MARIANA GRISWOLD]). History of the city of New York in the seventeenth century. New York, 1909. 2 vols. 8°. Frontispieces.

This is a capital work—the first really serious endeavor to write a history of the city under the Dutch and early English administrations, in which the affairs of the city have been emphasized and in which the provincial history has been made a background in perspective. Vol. 1 embraces the history of New Amsterdam to 1664, and vol. 2 that of the short interim of New Orange and of the English city of New York to 1691. Mrs. Van Rensselaer has explained her plan fully in her preface, which reveals a thorough grasp of her purpose. The "reference notes" at the end of each chapter and the catalogue of 550 titles at the end of the second volume show how intensive her search had been for materials.

—New York and its historians, in North American Review, vol. 171 (1900), pp. 724ff. and 872ff.

Two excellent chapters, in the first of which the author points out the prejudiced, erroneous and careless writing of the history of the city of New York by the early historians, and the bad effect which Washington Irving's lampoon Knickerbocker history has had. In the second part she gives an excellent sketch of the rise of scholarly historical research in New York and its fruition in the works of O'Callaghan and Brodhead. A lucid understanding of what a New York history should be like.

VAN WINKLE (EDWARD). Manhattan, 1624-1639. New York, 1916. 8°. Illustrated.

A monograph largely based upon the Manuscript map (Harrison copy), prepared with the aid of Dingman Versteeg. Reviewed in American Historical Review, vol. 22 (1917), pp. 387-389.

VERSTEEG (DINGMAN). The city of New Amsterdam, in Year Book of the Holland Society of New York for 1903, pp. 174-204.

WESTERVELT (HARMAN C.). Essays on various features of the history, manners, customs, etc. of the city of New York. 54 articles in manuscript and newspaper clippings, etc. In the Manuscript Division of New York Public Library.

The principal subjects treated are: Broadway Park, charities, early churches, City Hall, commerce and navigation, early directories, education, financial and insurance corporations, fires and fire department, early houses and public buildings, public markets, Merchants' Exchange, etc., municipal administration, New York authors, Negroes and slavery, the press and printing, old prisons and punishments, social clubs, sports and pastimes, early steamboats, early streets, Tammany Hall, and water supply. May be used for suggestions, but should be used with caution.

WILSON (JAMES GRANT). The city of New York in 1848, in Independent, vol. 65 (1908), pp. 1403-1410.

—editor. The memorial history of the city of New York. From its first settlement to the year 1892. New York, 1892-1893. 4 vols. Royal 8°. (A fifth volume published later, ostensibly as a continuation, is not authentic.)

The chapters were written by a number of contributors and have a varying quality. Some important manuscripts were given here in facsimile for the first time. The translations of Dutch documents are far from satisfactory. For a competent criticism by Professor Herbert L. Osgood, see Larned's Literature of Amer. Hist., p. 375.

WILSON (RUFUS ROCKWELL). New York: old and new. Its story, streets, and landmarks. Philadelphia & London, 1902. 2 vols. 12°. Illustrated.

A popular compilation.

E. LOCAL HISTORIES

ADAMS (ABIGAIL SMITH [MRS. JOHN]). Letters of Mrs. Adams, the wife of John Adams. With an introductory memoir by her grandson, Charles Francis Adams. Boston, 1849. 12°.

Contains on pp. 399-404 two letters (1789-1790), in which she describes her residence on Richmond Hill [Charlton and Varick Streets], New York City. A fourth edition, revised and enlarged, was published in 1848.

BARNARD (WILLIAM F.). Forty years at the Five Points. New York, [1893]. 8°. Illustrated.

The author says: "What the Seven Dials and Whitechapel have been to London, the Five Points was to New York." There are descriptions of this notorious section in its worst days and of the changes wrought through the efforts of "The Five Points House of Industry," of which the author was superintendent.

BOLTON (REGINALD FELHAM). Fort Washington. An account of the identification of the site . . . and the erection and dedication of a monument thereon Nov. 16, 1901, . . . with a history of the defence and reduction of Mount Washington. New York, 1902. 8°. Illustrated. (Published by the Empire State Society of the Sons of the American Revolution.)

—Washington's Headquarters. New York. A sketch of the history of the Morris Mansion (or Jumel Mansion) in the city of New York, used by Washington as his headquarters in 1776. New York, 1903. 12°. (Published by the American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society.)

BROOKLYN BRIDGE. Opening ceremonies of the New York and Brooklyn Bridge, May 24, 1883. Brooklyn, 1883. Square 8°. Frontispiece.

BROWN (HENRY COLLINS). Fifth Avenue old and new, 1824-1924. [New York, 1924]. 4°. Illustrated. Souvenir of the Fifth Avenue Association.

CHAPIN (ANNA ALICE). Greenwich Village. New York, 1917. 8°. Illustrated.

DAWSON (HENRY BARTON). The park and its vicinity in the city of New York. Morrisania, 1867. 8°. Illustrated. (Gleanings from the harvest-field of American history. Part I.)

Only 250 copies printed, signed by the author. This monograph on the City Hall Park was Dawson's first attempt at historical writing and was prepared originally for Valentine's Manual for 1855, pp. 433ff. It was reissued from the Manual, accompanied by another article from the same source, entitled, "The old Bridewell," by William J. Davis, as a separate pamphlet, limited to "twenty-five copies printed for the use of mutual friends of the writers."

ENMETT (THOMAS ADDIS). The battle of Harlem Heights. [New York.] Reprinted from the Magazine of History, 1906. 8°.

—The Old Martyrs' Prison, New York. An historical sketch of the oldest municipal building in New York city: used as a British prison during the war for American independence; [etc.]. [New York, 1902. 8°.

This communication was addressed to the Board of Aldermen by the American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society, urging the preservation of the Hall of Records from demolition.

HEMSTREET (CHARLES). The story of Manhattan. New York, 1901. 12°. Illustrated.

The author says: "Here the history of New York City is told as a story in few words. The effort has been to make it accurate and interesting. The illustrations are largely from old prints and wood engravings." The fact is, most of the engravings are bogus pictures and there are many errors in the text. The same author has written two more popular works: Nooks and corners of old New York (1899), and When old New York was young (1902).

HILL (FREDERICK TREVOR). The story of a street. A narrative history of Wall Street from 1644 to 1908. New York and London, 1908. 8°. Illustrated.

The narrative appeared originally in six chapters in Harper's Magazine, vols. 116 and 117 (April to September, 1908). The volume edition has on pp. 161-164 a "Chronological Table of historic events identified with Wall Street."

JENKINS (STEPHEN). The greatest street in the world. The story of Broadway, old and new, from the Bowling Green to Albany. 160 illustrations and 6 maps. New York and London, 1911. 8°. The volume grew out of a lecture. It is a compilation derived mostly from secondary printed books.

JOHNSTON (HENRY P.). The battle of Harlem Heights, Sept. 16, 1776, with a review of the events of the campaign. New York, 1897. 8°. Maps and plates.

JOGES (ISAAC). Novum Belgium. [Dated] Des 3 Riuieres en la Nouvelle France, 3 Augusti, 1646.

In this document Father Isaac Jogues, S. J., narrates his experiences and observations in New Amsterdam in 1643. The original French holograph manuscript is preserved in the archives of St. Mary's College, Montreal. A transcript and translation were presented to the State of New York by the Rev. Felix Martin, when superior of the Jesuit order in Canada, and this translation was printed in Documentary History of the State of New York, vol. 4 (Albany, 1851), which was the first presentation in print, in any form, of this document. Father Martin printed the French text for the first time in 1852, in the appendix to his translation of Bressani's Relations of 1653. A new translation, by John G. Shea, appeared in Collections of the New York Historical Society, 2d series, vol. 3, pt. 1 (1857), pp. 215-219, among his "Jogues Papers," and while in press, in 1856, a separate advance issue of these papers was struck off. Shea brought out in a privately-printed volume (New York, 1862) another translation, which differed somewhat from all of its predecessors, and he accompanied it by a facsimile of the original manuscript of the Novum Belgium and facsimiles of De Laet's map and the Montanus view of New Amsterdam. Shea also published the French text (New York, 1862) as one of his series of Relations, with a facsimile of the De Laet map. Father Martin included the French text, annotated, in his life of Jogues (Paris, 1873, and Quebec, 1874). There have been other excerpts and editions of the Novum Belgium. The best modern presentations are text and translation in Thwaites's Jesuit Relations, vol. 28, pp. 105-115, bibliography by V. H. Palstis, pp. 305-308; and in Jameson's Narratives, pp. 259-263.

the seventeenth century. Its fault lies in the lack of ample citations of sources from which his data were derived. The research student can no doubt trace many of these sources in the Harlem and Riker Papers in the New York Public Library, which were given to the library in 1917 by the Title Guarantee and Trust Company.

F. SPECIAL SUBJECTS

(a) VOYAGES AND TRAVELS

1. VERRAZZANO, 1524

As the result of nineteenth-century controversy and the better evidence of recent discovery, it is now generally established that in 1524 Giovanni da Verrazano, the Italian who sailed in the interest of France, entered the present harbor of New York in the ship Daphnie. He probably did not land on Manhattan Island, although he may have seen it in the distance.

BACCIANI (ALESSANDRO). Giovanni da Verrazano and his discoveries in North America, 1524, according to the unpublished contemporaneous Cellere Codex of Rome, Italy. English version and introduction by Edward Hagaman Hall, in Fifteenth Annual Report, 1910, of the American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society, pp. 135-226.

This newly-discovered codex was owned by Count Giulio Macchi di Cellere of Rome when published for the first time, with comments by Professor Bacciani, in the Bollettino della Società Geografica Italiana, fasc. xi, 1909, pp. 1274-1333, but is now in the J. Pierpont Morgan Library of New York. Dr. Hall's English edition is accompanied by the Italian text of Verrazano's letter to Francis I. A facsimile of the original codex is in our vol. 2, plates 60-80, and its place in the literature is given on pp. 169-171. It may be said that it establishes beyond peradventure the genuineness of Verrazano's letter and the certainty of his discovery of New York harbor in 1524. It presents also for the first time the names he gave to the Bay, the surrounding country and the great river, with explanatory marginalia. See also Verrazano.

BEVOROT (JAMES CARSON). Verrazano the navigator or notes on Giovanni da Verrazano and on a planisphere of 1529 illustrating his American voyage in 1524. With a reduced copy of the map. New York, 1874. 8°.

A critical examination of the letter written by Verrazano to Francis I, of France, on July 8, 1524, and of the world map drawn by Girolamo da Verrazano, brother of the explorer, now preserved in the Vatican Library, Rome, of which the first reproduction in full size was issued privately, on twenty-four folio sheets, by Professor Edward L. Stevenson, in 1906. Bevorot's critical notes alone occupy pp. 65-159 of his monograph. In 1882, he followed up the subject in an article on "Verrazano's discovery of New York harbor in the Atlantic coast of the United States," in Mag. of Amer. Hist., vol. 8, pp. 481-485.

DE COSTA (BENJAMIN FRANKLIN). Verrazano the explorer: being a vindication of his letter and voyage, with an examination of the map of Hieronimo da Verrazano. And a dissertation upon the globe of Ulpius. To which is prefixed a bibliography of the subject. New York, 1880. 4°.

Reprinted, with slight revision of the plates, from Magazine of Amer. Hist., vols. 2 and 3 (1878-1879).

INNES (J. H.). The lost island of Luisa [Verrazano voyage, 1524], in Proceedings of New York State Historical Association, vol. 18 (1920), pp. 87-97.

MURPHY (HENRY CRUSE). The voyage of Verrazano: a chapter in the early history of maritime discovery. New York, 1875. 8°. Maps and illustrations.

The object of the book was "to show the claim of discovery in America by Verrazano to be without any real foundation." In an appendix are documents. There is a lot of valuable information in this work; but the author's main contention has been defeated by later discoveries and Verrazano's letter to Francis I has been found to be authentic.

VERRAZANO (GIOVANNI DA). For an exact facsimile of the Cellere Codex of Verrazano's letter to Francis I, of France, July 8, 1524, see ICONOGRAPHY vol. 2 (1916), plates 60-81.

This text is the latest discovery and is a pure text of the letter. It is notable, moreover, because it presents for the first time the names that Verrazano gave to places he visited, accompanied by explanatory marginalia. See Bacciani (Alessandro), for the first publication of the text, and the first English translation thereof.

Texts or translations of the older corrupt forms of the letter have been often printed, first in Ramusio's Navigazione, vol. 3 (Venezia, 1556), and second edition (1559); then from Ramusio an English translation in Hakluyt's Divers Voyages (London, 1582), and in Hakluyt's Voyages, vol. 3 (London, 1600); in Collections of N. Y. Hist. Society, 2d series, vol. 1 (1841), pp. 37ff., translated by Joseph G. Cogswell, and reprinted in Asher's Henry Hudson (1860), pp. 197-228; in Hart's American History told by Contemporaries, vol. 1, pp. 102-107.

In Verrazano's discoveries are shown on the great world-map by Girolamo da Verrazano, 1529, which is also the first map of Italian origin with the name America on it. The original, formerly in the Library of the Propaganda Fide, is now in the Vatican Library, Rome. A fine photographic reproduction, on original scale, is in the series of twelve maps reproduced by Dr. Edward Luther Stevenson.

2. GOMEZ, 1525

GOMEZ (ESTEVAM). This Portuguese pilot, engaged in the service of Spain, in 1525 sailed along the North Atlantic coast and noted the lands; but it is not probable that he entered New York Bay. None the less, his explorations from Newfoundland to Cape May had great influence upon the map makers of his century, so his name is inseparably linked with the cartography of New York. For the sources of information about this voyage, beyond those given here under his name, see Oviedo y Valdes, Ribero, Martyr, Ramusio, Gómar, Herrera y Tordesillas; also the works of Kohl, and Wieser, in this group.

- Opus Epistolarum. Complutum [Alcalá de Henares], 1530. F°. In this work, on verso of folio 199, there is a reference to the projected voyage of Gomez, in a Peter Martyr letter dated August, 1524.
- OVEDO Y VALDES (GONZALO FERNANDEZ DE). Historia general y natural de las Indias, vol. 1, part 2. (Madrid, 1852). F°. This is a volume in the set of the first complete printing of the Historia from the original codex at Madrid, in 1851-1855. The text of Gomez interest was written in 1537 and gives an account of the North American coast from a map, now lost, made by Alonso de Chaves in 1536, citing Gomez as the source of the names of places. It also refers to the map of Diego Ribero. Consult chapter 10 of book 21. Cf. B. F. De Costa's Cabo de Arenas (New York, 1885), in which he studies "The place of Sandy Hook in the old cartology as indicated in the map of Alonso Chaves."
- Sumario de la natural y general istoria de las Indias. Toledo, 1526. F°. It has the earliest printed reference to the voyage of Gomez, on folio XIV, verso, which tells of the return of Gomez and the extent of his voyage from the Bacaleos to the 40th and 41st degrees.
- [RAMUSIO (GIOVANNI BATTISTA).] Historia del' Indie Occidentali. Vinegia, 1534. F°. A generic title for a collection of three works by Peter Martyr, Oviedo, and Xeres. In a copy in the New York Public Library there is inserted a unique copy of a notable woodcut map, which has on it the name of "Steuq Gomez." The map is entitled: "La Carta Universale della terra ferme & Isole delle Indie occidentali," December, 1534.
- RIBERO (DIEGO). Map of the World, 1529. Wall size. Ribero was acquainted with Gomez, and his maps are interesting because they reflect up-to-date geographical knowledge, and no doubt they particularly preserve first-hand data concerning the discoveries of Gomez. There are two maps, both have been reproduced by process facsimile, the one in reduced size from the original formerly in the Library of the Propaganda Fide and now in the Vatican Library, Rome (known as the second Borgia map), and the other in full-size from the original in the Grand Ducal Library at Weimar, Germany, which is one of the twelve facsimiles brought out by Dr. Edward Luther Stevenson.
- WIESER (FRANZ RITTER VON), editor. Die Karten von Amerika in dem Islario general. Innsbruck, 1908. F°. Santa Cruz was chief cosmographer to Emperor Charles V. His maps are very useful and Tafel III has particular pertinency to the voyage of Gomez.
3. HUDSON, 1609
- ASHER (GEORG MICHAEL), editor. Henry Hudson the navigator. The original documents in which his career is recorded. London, 1860. 8°. (Hakluyt Society, vol. 27). Contains: Introduction, 278pp.; original sources, 194pp. Includes Robert Juett's journal of third voyage, from Purchas; extracts and translation from the 1614 edition of E. van Meteren's Historie der Nederlanden; extracts from De Laet's Nieuwe Wereld, Dutch editions of 1625 and 1630; extracts from the Latin and Dutch editions of Hessel Gerritsz's so-called Hudson tract, and items of lesser importance.
- BACON (EDGAR MAYHEW). Henry Hudson: his times and his voyages. New York and London, 1907. 12°. Illustrated. (American Men of Energy.)
- CARSON (HAMPTON L.). The common origin of the Middle Colonies, in Proceedings of American Antiq. Society, new series, vol. 37 (1927), pp. 43-62.

- Deals largely with Hudson's voyage of 1609 and has some trite comments about its relationship to territorial rights.
- CHAMBERLAIN (FRANK). Hudson tercentenary. An historical retrospect regarding the object and quest of an all-water route from Europe to India; the obstacles in the way; and also Hudson's voyage to America in 1609 and some of its results. Albany, 1909. 8°. The burden of this thesis is to show the pre-Hudsonian discovery of the Hudson River, and to give a history of Hudson as a navigator. There are a good many curious mistakes, which are inexcusable, since he used such authors as Asher, Murphy, Brodhead, etc., but has not been careful in the use he made of them.
- CLEVELAND (HENRY R.). Life of Henry Hudson, in Sparks's Library of American Biography, series 1, vol. 10 (Boston, 1838), pp. 185-261.
- DE COSTA (BENJAMIN FRANKLIN), editor. Sailing directions of Henry Hudson, prepared for his use in 1608, from the old Dutch of Evar Bardsen. With an introduction and notes . . . by B. F. De Costa. Albany, 1869. 8°. GERRITZ (HESSEL). The Arctic North-East and West Passage. Detectio Freti Hudsoni or Hessel Gerritsz's collection of tracts by himself, Massa and De Quir on the N. E. and W. Passage, Siberia and Australia. Reproduced, with the maps, in photolithography in Dutch and Latin after the editions of 1612 and 1613. Augmented with a new English translation by Fred. John Millard. Amsterdam, 1878. Small 4°. In the introduction Frederik Muller, the publisher, gives full bibliographical data of the printed Dutch and Latin editions of Gerritsz's so-called "Hudson Tract." These data have been reprinted in Murphy's Henry Hudson in Holland (edition of 1909), pp. 81-86. Extracts from both versions, with English translations, are in Asher's Henry Hudson (1860), pp. 181-194, 236-243. The original editions are in the New York Public Library.

- editor. Hudson-Fulton celebration 1909. The Fourth Annual Report of the Hudson-Fulton Celebration Commission to the Legislature of the State of New York. Transmitted . . . May twentieth, nineteen ten. Albany, 1910. 2 vols. Royal 8°. Illustrated. Really published in 1911.
- HUDSON (HENRY). Contract with the Dutch East India Company, January 8, 1609, and instructions from the Company to him. The originals are lost; but the full text of the contract and a portion of the substance of the instructions are preserved in an unpublished manuscript of the history of this Company, written by P. van Dam at the end of the seventeenth century, entitled, Beschrijving van den staat en gelegenheid der Oost-Indische Compagnie, preserved in the archives at the Hague. A facsimile of the page of contract appeared in Eleventh Annual Report of the American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society (1906), between pp. 168 and 169. The text, translation, and discussion thereof, are in Murphy's Henry Hudson in Holland, edition of W. Nijhoff (1909), pp. 32-34, 110-111, 117.

- HUDSON-FULTON CELEBRATION, 1609-1909. [Collection of about three thousand newspaper clippings, from December, 1908, to November, 1909, with illustrations. Collected by Henry Romeike.] Mounted in 6 vols. F°. In the New York Public Library.

II-F. (a) VOYAGES AND TRAVELS (Continued)

METEREN (EMANUEL VAN). Het tweede Deel van de Commentarion ende Memorien Van den Nederlandten Staet, Handel, Oorloghen ende Geschiedenissen van onsen tyden, etc. . . . Gedrukt op Schotland buyten Danswijck, by Hermes van Loven. Voor den Autheur. [n. d., but preface dated "Anno 1610 in Februario"]. F^o.

This second part embraces the twentieth to the thirty-first books, and is the last genuine revised edition of Van Meteren's great work, bringing it down to the year 1610. It is here that he presents, once for all, his account of the third voyage of "Henry Hudson," the first account of that voyage to have appeared in print. It is in Boeck 31, folios 275-276. This edition is unrecorded by bibliographers. The only known copy was secured by John Boyd Thacher, of Albany, N. Y., in 1907, who in that year showed it to Victor Hugo Paltsits, then State Historian and a neighbor of Mr. Thacher on South Hawk Street. It is now in the Library of Congress, from which we have reproduced the title-page and pages of the Hudson matter in the ICONOGRAPHY, vol. 4, plates 1B and 1C.

Editions of Van Meteren in the New York Public Library, each in a single folio volume for the complete work, carry the history down into 1608, but are supplemented by an appendix. One of these has a colophon dated 1609, and the other has a colophon dated 1610. The latter brings the history down through May, 1609. Of course, neither of these editions has any reference to Hudson. There is a pirated edition, dated 1611, with the title Belgische Oef Nederlanden Oorloghen ende Geschiedenissen, in quarto, the second volume of which extends from the eighteenth to the thirty-second books. On the verso of folio 413 of this volume there is matter of 1612, showing that the volume could not have been published before that year. It also has a note stating that Van Meteren died at London, on April 17, 1612 (cf. Brodhead's Hist. N. Y., I, 35). This edition has the Hudson matter. It is also in the edition of 1614, from which it has often been quoted or translated, and which was for many years thought to be the earliest original source. But these editions vary textually from the 1610 genuine edition of part 2. Excerpts or translations from the 1611 and 1614 editions have appeared often enough, but reference should be made for the 1611 to Murphy's Henry Hudson in Holland, extended edition of Wouter Nijhoff (1909); and for the 1614 to Asher's Henry Hudson (1860) and Jameson's N. Y. Neth. (1909).

For further bibliographical accounts of the works of Van Meteren, see: "Over de verschillende uitgaven van Emanuel van Meteren's Historien," by Robert Fruin, in Bijdragen van de Vaderlandsche Geschiedenis en Oudheidkunde, Nieuwe Reeks, IV: 82-98, and "Over het ontstaan en de eerste Hogdutchse uitgaven van Emanuel van Meteren's Historien," in ibid., 3de Reeks, IV: 417-429; both reprinted in Fruin's Verspreide Geschriften, VII: 383-408. There is an earlier bibliography by Stübel in Centralblatt für Bibliothekswesen (1899). Consult also an article by D. Mulder Bosgoed in De Navorscher, XXIII (1873): 40-50; also another in ibid., LXVI (1906): 1-10, by J. F. van Soeren, entitled: "Van Meteren's Historiewerk, nieuwe ontdekkingen en verbeteringen," and the same author's Catalogus van geprinte portretten van Nederlanders, vol. 1.

MILLER (SAMUEL). A discourse designed to commemorate the discovery of New York by Henry Hudson; delivered . . . September 4, 1809. New York, 1810. 8°. Also in Collections of New York Historical Society for 1809, vol. 1, pp. 17-45; the volume printed, New York, 1811.

Treats of Verrazano and Hudson.

MURPHY (HENRY CRUSE). Henry Hudson in Holland. The Hague, 1859. 8°.

—[Another edition.] Reprinted, with notes, documents and a bibliography, by Wouter Nijhoff. The Hague, 1909. 8°.

This new edition is particularly the best, because it gives for the first time the known Dutch texts of "all the original documents relating to the third voyage" and adds new notes and bibliographical data.

POWYS (LLEWELYN). Henry Hudson. New York, 1928. 8°.

READ (JOHN MEREDITH). A historical inquiry concerning Henry Hudson, his friends, relatives and early life, his connection with the Muscovy Company and discovery of Delaware Bay. Albany, 1866. 8°.

Also abridged in the Clarendon Society Reprints, first series, pp. 143-230.

Read places the emphasis on the first discovery of Delaware Bay by Hudson.

4. OTHERS (ALPHABETICAL)

BRISSET DE WARVILLE (J. P.). New travels in the United States of America. Performed in 1788. Translated from the French. New York, 1792. 12°. Folded table.

Contains the subject-matter of the French edition, Paris, 1791, somewhat abridged. A London edition in English appeared in 1794. The translation is attributed to Joel Barlow in Dexter's Yale Annals, vol. 4. For New York see pp. 84 (Hell Gate), and 85-96.

BURNABY (ANDREW). Travels through the middle settlements in North-America, in the years 1759 and 1760. With observations upon the state of the colonies. London, 1775. 8°.

The author says his observations were "written upon the spots to which they refer. . . . They are the fruit of the most impartial inquiries, and best intelligence, that I was able to procure." Description of wampum, pp. 104-105; of New York City, pp. 60-66, 105-108, 112-114. It is an important record by a close observer. Perhaps its most famous reference is to the "Klasing-bridge," on p. 114. There are two London editions of 1775; an enlarged edition, which is the best, came out in London, 1798, and has been reprinted, edited by R. R. Wilson, at New York, 1904. A German translation appeared in 1776, and a French translation in 1778. The author was a clergyman of the Established Church and a loyal supporter of the crown.

CASTELL (WILLIAM). A short discoverie of the coasts and continent of America. London, 1644. Small 4°.

The author was a clergyman of Courtenhall in Northamptonshire, England. New Netherland is described on pp. 21-23. As an early English account it is interesting but not important. The whole work was reprinted in Collection of voyages and travels, . . . compiled from the library of the Earl of Oxford, vol. 2 (1745), pp. 733-772. The New Netherland chapter, accompanied by an introduction, is in Collections of the New York Historical Society, 2d series, vol. 3, part 1 (1857), pp. 231-236.

DANKERS (JASPER) and Peter Sluyter. Journal of a voyage to New York . . . in 1679-80. Translated from the . . . Dutch and edited by Henry C. Murphy. Brooklyn, 1867. 8°. Illustrated. (Memoirs of Long Island Historical Society, vol. 1.)

The edition consisted of 1000 copies, octavo; and 100 copies on thick paper, royal octavo. There are twelve plates lithographed by G. Hayward and Co., of New York. The tones of the colored inks vary in copies compared, e. g. plate VI has been found printed in reddish brown, deep brown, and blackish brown in copies that are in the New York Public Library. These plates are nearly all views of New York City and are among the most interesting extant pictorial representations of New York in the seventeenth century.

The original Dutch manuscript turned up in the shop of Frederik Muller, the Amsterdam bookseller, and was acquired by Mr. Murphy in 1864. At the sale of Murphy's library, in 1884, the Long Island Historical Society bought it for $5.50, and it is still preserved there as the Society's choicest manuscript. It is a journal of two Labadists, followers of the theological doctrines of Jean de Labadie, who came over to America to find a suitable locality in which to establish a community. They finally chose lands in Augustine Herman's tract of Bohemia Manor, Maryland, settling the nucleus of a colony in 1683, which was the first communal sect in America. Settling out from Holland in June, 1679, they landed in New York City on September 23, following. They visited places in New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, and Massachusetts. They were religious zealots, and their observations reflect many of the religious conditions, interpreted as they conceived them; none the less they have preserved also much that has great value relative to the topography, government, social and economic conditions, the Indians and white persons they met in their journeyings. They have preserved, no doubt not with absolute accuracy, topographical descriptions of settlements and other places for which no like information of so early a date has been handed down to us. Dankers' was not an expert draughtsman and not all of the drawings he made have been saved. The account given of New York and its vicinity is perhaps the most truthful one which has come down to us from this period. A new edition has been published in the series of "Original Narratives of early American History," with the title: Journal of Jasper Dankers, 1679-1680, edited by B. B. James and J. F. Jameson (New York, 1913). The new edition has a valuable introduction with new information. The translation is Murphy's, with slight revisions, particularly in bringing the spelling of proper names "into accord with that of the original manuscripts," but only partly so. Portions of the long descriptions of the Atlantic voyages have been omitted in this edition. The long view of New York City as seen from Brooklyn is here printed for the first time by direct photographic process; but other original illustrations are omitted. The annotations are more numerous than in Murphy's edition; they are also more serviceable.

DE ROOS (FREDERICK FITZGERALD). Personal narrative of travels in the United States and Canada in 1826. Illustrated by [fourteen] plates. With remarks on the present state of the American navy. London, 1827. 8°.

Descriptive matter of New York is in chap. I, IV, V and VII. Opposite p. 81 is a view of "New York and the Narrows taken going up the Hudson," drawn by the author and printed by C. Hullman.

DRAYTON (JOHN). Letters written during a tour through the northern and eastern States of America. Charleston: S. C. 1794. 8°.

Eleven letters written from New York City, Boston and Portsmouth between June 15 and Nov. 4, 1793. Publication was intended in November, of that year, but was delayed a year by the scarcity of paper in South Carolina. Letter I (June 15) is "A description of the entrance to New-York;" letter II (June 25) contains "An account of the City of New-York. Its commerce and public buildings. Its library and Museum," etc.; letter X (Oct. 16) tells about "Mobs at New-York." There are plates opposite pp. 20, 79 and 86, in order as follows: "A View of the Battery and Harbour of New-York, and the Ambuscade Frigate," drawn by Drayton and engraved by S. Hill, of Boston; "A Bridge over the Merrimack River in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts;" and "A Cannon disabled." The author dated his preface Oct. 6, 1794, which was the day of his marriage. Drayton rose to the governorship of South Carolina, serving two terms, 1800-02, and 1808-10.

DWIGHT (TIMOTHY). Travels in New-England and New-York. New-Haven, 1821-1822. 4 vols. 8°. Also London, 1823. 4 vols. 8°.

Illustrated with maps, etc. Six of the journeys were made in New York during the years 1796-1815. The printed volumes are derived from the author's notes and from information he got from manuscript records, persons, and printed books. The city of New York is described particularly in letters IV-VI of vol. 3. President Dwight had the intellectual capacity and keenness to understand what he saw and knew how to portray the same in his narrative.

HAMILTON (ALEXANDER), M. D. Hamilton's Itinerary being a narrative of a journey from Annapolis, Maryland through Delaware, Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts and New Hampshire from May to September, 1744. Edited by Albert Bushnell Hart. Printed only for private distribution by William K. Bixby. Saint Louis, Missouri, 1907. 8°. Illustrations and facsimiles.

Printed for Mr. Bixby by the De Vinne Press in an edition of 487 copies. It is an intelligent if rather feeble commentary on the people and customs of the time and had never been printed before. New York references are on pp. 45-117; 209-229.

INGRAM (DAVID). The Relacan of David Ingram of Barking in the Com' of Essex, Taylor, . . . of sundry things which he with others did see in travelling both for the most northerly pte of the Baye of Mexico where he with many others were sett on shore by Mr' Hawkins through a grate pte of America until they came within fives leagues . . . of Cape Britton . . . August and September, 1582, in Beazley's An English Garner, vol. 1, pp. 161ff., printed from Sloane MSS., no. 1447, British Museum. A transcript of this manuscript is in the Library of Congress. In the Public Record Office, London, are some manuscripts in relation to Ingram, for which see Calendar of State Papers, Colonial Series, America and West Indies, 1574-1660 (London, 1860), pt. 1, doc. no. 3, erroneously under 1580, as shown in the supplement to Calendar, 1675-1676 (addenda 1574-1674), p. 21, doc. 26; and doc. 23 is "Certain Questions to be demanded of David Ingram. . . . What he observed in his travels on the north side of the River of May, where he remained three months or thereabouts. How long he travelled there, which is dated by the editor "probably 1583."

Ingram has been thought by some to have crossed over the region of New York, but this is dubious if not, indeed, spurious.

JOSELYN (JOHN). An Account of two Voyages to New-England. [Also] A large chronological table of the most remarkable passages, from the first discovering of the continent of America, to the year 1673. London, 1674. Small 8°.

The references to New York on pp. 153-154, 272-273 are curious and of no particular historical value. There is a reissue of 1675 called "Second Addition." It was reprinted in Collected Works of John H. Society, 3d series, vol. 3; also reprinted as a distinct volume, with annotations (Boston, 1865), in a limited edition.

KALM (PETER). Travels into North America. . . . Translated into English by John Reinhold Forster. London, 1770-1771. 3 vols. 8°. Map and plates.

The translator has added some footnotes which are recognizable by his initials. There is matter about the province of New York in vols. 1 and 2; but the city of New York is described in vol. 1, pp. 247ff., and the reference to the famous tea water spring is on p. 252. The second edition of the English translation (London, 1772), has the description of the city in vol. 1, pp. 192ff., and of the spring on pp. 196-197. The original text was published as En Reise til Norra America, Stockholm, 1753, 1756, 1761. 3 vols. 8°. Illustrations mostly in the text. New York in vol. 1, pp. 348-377; vol. 3, pp. 134ff., and the spring in vol. 1, p. 362.

KLINCKOWSTRÖM (AXEL LEONARD), Baron. Bref om de Föränta Staterna, författade under en resa till Amerika, åren 1818, 1819, 1820. Stockholm, 1824. 2 pts. 8°.

Accompanied by an atlas, oblong folio, which contains large copper-plate maps and views, among them one of Broadway and another of New York harbor as seen from Brooklyn. The text is in the British Museum, Library of Congress and the New York Public Library. Pp. 109-112 are omitted in the pagination of the text. Complete copies of the atlas, which are very rare because dissected by print dealers and extra-illustrators, are in the New York Historical Society, the collection of the author, and the British Museum; and an incomplete set is in the Library of Congress. The two New York views are in the New York Public Library. See ICONOGRAPHY for an account of the atlas, III: 563-564; and for translations of the text, so far as it relates to New York City, V: 1596-1597.

KNIGHT (SARAH KEMBLE) and Thomas Buckingham. The journals of Madam Knight, and Rev. Mr. Buckingham. From the original manuscripts, written in 1704 & 1710. New York, 1825. 12°.

The Knight journal relates a journey from Boston to New York from October 2, 1704, to March 3, 1705. Mrs. Knight's experiences in and comments about New York are on pp. 49-56. The Buckingham journal has a separate title-page on which his prenomen is given as John instead of Thomas, as it should be. He was a Presbyterian minister of Hartford, Conn., and kept journals during the naval expedition against Port Royal in 1710, and the land expedition against Crown Point in 1711, the manuscript originals being still preserved. Another edition of the Knight journal was published at Albany in 1865.

LAMBERT (JOHN). Travels through Canada, and the United States of North America, in the years 1806, 1807, & 1808. . . . Second edition, corrected and improved. London, 1814. 2 vols. 8°. Illustrated with maps, charts, views, and costume plates.

New York City is treated in vol. 2, chaps. 27-29, and 39. The first edition was published at London, 1810.

MAY (JAN CORNELISZ). De reis . . . naar de Ijzeen en de Ameri-kaansche kust, 1611-1612. . . . uitgegeven door Mr. S. Muller Fz. The Hague, 1909. 8°. Publication no. 1 of Linschoten Vereniging.

This is a journal of May's voyage of discovery in the ships De Vos and De Craen. He made additions to the geographical knowledge gleaned from Hudson's voyage of 1609, and May's voyage spurred on the Dutch skippers to greater activity. It is also interesting to note that he was an uncle of Cornelis Jacobsz. May, the commander who brought over the first settlers in 1624 and became the first Director of New Netherlands.

MELTON (EDWARD). Zeldzaame en gedenkwaardige Zee- en Land-Reizen . . . Aangevangen . . . 1660 en geëindigd . . . 1677. Amsterdam, 1681. 4°. Plates.

An account of New Netherlands, on pp. 121-128, is taken from vander Donck's Beschryvinge and Montanus. Melton has virtually no independent historical value. A reprint, with a new preface, appeared at Amsterdam in 1702, of which there are two issues, 4°, plates. New Netherlands is on pp. 139-160. Another reprint came out at Amsterdam in 1705, 4°, with New Netherlands on pp. 16-46.

The title of this edition is "Aenmerkenwaardige en Zeldzame West-Indische Zee- en Land-Reizen." In the work entitled: "Beschryvinge Van eenige voornamste Kusten in Oost- en West-Indien," published at Leeuwarden, 1716, 4°, there is a description of New Netherlands on pp. 50-76, copied from Melton.

O'CALLAGHAN (EDMUND BAILEY). Editor. Voyages of the slavers St. John and Arms of Amsterdam, 1659, 1663; together with additional papers illustrative of the slave trade under the Dutch. Translated from the original manuscripts, with an introduction and index. Albany, N. Y., 1867. (Forms New York Colonial Tracts. Nq. 3.) 100 copies printed.

Shows how negro slavery came to New Amsterdam, especially by direct traffic.

SUTCLIFFE (ROBERT). Travels in some parts of North America, in the years 1804, 1805, & 1806. York, 1811. 16°. 6 plates.

The author was a Quaker. In the year of publication above, he settled in the United States. His travels were not edited by himself. New York City figures on pp. 24-25, 38-39, 79-80, 89-90, 115-117, 280-281. A second London edition appeared in 1815; meanwhile an American edition had been printed at Philadelphia, in 1812. The narrative is honest, amusing, and useful.

VRIES (DAVID PIETERSZ. DE). Korte Historiële ende Vrijheids Aentekeninge van verscheyden Voyagien in de vier deelen des Wereldts-Ronde, als Europa, Africa, Asia, ende Amerika gedaen. Alckmaer, 1655. Small 4°.

Records his various voyages in the four parts of the world, including his three voyages to New Netherlands in 1631-1644. His interest in New Netherlands arose from a conversation he had with Samuel Goddin in 1630, which led to the founding of the patronship of Zwanendael (now in the State of Delaware). De Vries later had interests on Staten Island. He gives most intimate information respecting Kieft and the difficulties of his administration.

The only reprint of the Dutch text was edited by H. T. Colenbrander, issued by the Linschoten-Vereniging, Publication no. 3 (The Hague, 1911), with a supplement of reduced facsimiles of two maps from Prince Bonaparte's collection. There is a good review of this reprint, by F. C. Wieder, in Tijdschrift of de Koninklijk Nederlandsch Aardrijkskundig Genootschap, 2d ser., pt. XXIX (1912), pp. 281-288; also in the separate "Twee belangrijke Reisverhalen van oude Hollandse Zeevaarders" (1912). Wieder refers to the two maps found in a copy of the original edition, sold in 1894 by Frederik Muller & Co., of Amsterdam, now in the collection of Prince Roland Bonaparte, Paris. He also refers to another copy, having but one of these maps, in the collection of P. A. Pijnappel, of Hilversum. These maps are "Pas Caert van de Suyd-Rivier in Nieuw-Nederland," and a marine chart of the coast from Virginia to New England. See also Muller catalogue: "Geographie, Cartographie, Voyages" (1894), item 1006, for the first notice of these maps; and review of Colenbrander's edition in American Historical Review, April, 1912, pp. 709-710.

Extracts from a Dutch manuscript transcript in the Du Simithère MSS. of the Library Company of Philadelphia were translated unsatisfactorily into English by G. Troost, in Collections of N. Y. Hist. Society, 2d ser., vol. 1 (1841), pp. 243-280. The sections relating to Newfoundland, New Netherlands and Virginia were translated by H. C. Murphy and published for James Lenox as Voyages from Holland to America, A. D. 1632 to 1644 (New York, 1853). This version is also in Collections of N. Y. Hist. Society, 2d ser., vol. 3 (1857), pp. 1-229. A revision of Murphy's translation of the parts relating to New Netherlands is in Jameson's Narratives, pp. 186-234. There is an excerpt on "New Netherlands in 1640" in Old South Leaflets, vol. 7, no. 168.

(b) TRADING COMPANIES

BRAKEL (S. van). De Hollandsche Handelscompagnieën der Zeventiende Eeuw. 's-Gravenhage, 1908. 8°.

Contains chapters on the New Netherlands Company (pp. 29-31) and the West India Company, pp. 31-36), as part of the general history of the origin and organization of the Dutch trading companies during the seventeenth century.

KESSLER (C. K.). Willem Usselinx en de oprichting van de West-Indische Compagnie, in West-Indische Gids, III Jaarg. (1921), pp. 65-78; IV deel, pp. 65-78.

LAET (JOANNES DE). Historie ofte Jaerlijck Verhaal van de Verrechten der Geoeitoyerde West-Indische Compagnie. Leyden, 1644. Folio. Maps and plans.

Covers the activities of the West India Company from its beginning to the end of 1630. There is virtually nothing about New Netherlands in this able work by De Laet, who was a director of the Company. He expected to continue the history, but did not bring it to the point of publication. The preliminary pages contain the text of the charter of 1621 and other documents, as well as a list of the directors of the Company. A copy in rare state was sold at Sotheby's, London, on July 8, 1914, with the plates colored, and a portrait of the author by J. van Brunchorst.

LAMB (MARTHA J. R. N.). The origin of New York. Glimpse of the famous Dutch West India Company, in Magazine of American History, vol. 18 (1887), pp. 273ff. Illustrated.

REES (O. VAN). Geschiedenis der Nederlandsche volkplantingen in Noord-Amerika, beschouwd uit het oogpunt der koloniale politiek. Drie voorlezingen. Tiel, 1855. 8°.

The author was a lawyer of Utrecht. In the three addresses he sets forth the work of the Dutch West India Company in settling the province of New Netherlands and of the administration of the successive Directors at New Amsterdam. He has drawn upon O'Callaghan, Brodhed, De Vries, de Voetoght, Van der Donck, Bancroft, and others, for his material, as shown more particularly in his appendix on pp. 135-162.

SALMON (LUCY MAYNARD). The Dutch West India Company on the Hudson. Poughkeepsie, N. Y., 1915. 8°.

UNITED NEW NETHERLAND COMPANY. Charter granted by the States-General, October 11, 1614, bestowing a limited monopoly of trade to New Netherlands for four voyages to be undertaken within three years.

The original manuscript is in the archives at the Hague. A facsimile is in Wilson's Mem. Hist. N. Y., vol. 1; a translation needing revision is in N. Y. Col. Docs., vol. 1 (1856), pp. 11ff.

WEST INDIA COMPANY (DUTCH). Minutes of the Amsterdam Chamber . . . of the Company, 1635-1636, translated by A. J. F. van Laer, in New York Genealogical and Biographical Record, vol. 49 (1918), pp. 217-228.

The original record is in the archives at the Hague. These extracts are important for the history of the Company and the history of New Netherlands.

—Octroy, By de Hooghe Mogende Heeren Staten Generael, verleent aende West-Indische Compagnie, in drie den derden Junij 1621. In 's-Graven-Haghe, by Hillebrandt Jacobssz. . . . Anno 1621. Sm. 4°.

This is the original and official Dutch edition of the charter granted to the West India Company, of which the New York Public Library has a copy. An English translation appeared in the same year and, what is perhaps a unique copy of it, is in the Henry E. Huntington Library at San Marino, Cal., acquired with the purchase of the E. Dwight Church Collection. The Dutch text was reprinted with additions three times in 1623, once in 1624, twice in 1629, and once in 1642. The official text was given in the Groot Placat Boeck, vol. 1 (1658), cols. 565-578, and in other early works. An English translation of an inferior character was printed in Hazard's Hist. Collections of State Papers, vol. 1, pp. 125-131, and reprinted in O'Callaghan's Hist. of New Neth., vol. 1, pp. 399-407. A new and reliable translation, made from the 1621 original text is in Van Rensselaer Bowier Manuscripts, translated by A. J. F. van Laer (Albany, 1908), pp. 86ff. His translation is parallel with the Dutch text.

—Placcaet By de Hoogho: Heeren Staten Generael der Vereenighde Nederlanden, ghemaeckt op 'beslyut vande West-Indische Compagnie. The Hague, 1621. Sm. 4°.

This is the edict issued by the States-General paving the way for a charter.

—Vryheden By de Vergaderinghe van de Negentien vande Geoeitoyerde West-Indische Compagnie vergaent aan allen den gheenen die eenighe Colonien in Nieuw-Nederlandt sullen planten . . . t'Amsterdam . . . 1630. 4°.

This is the original printed edition of the Privileges and Exemptions (also called Freedoms and Exemptions), granted by the West India Company, on June 7, 1629, for encouraging the planting of colonies and settlers in New Netherlands. It is also the first separate publication relating entirely to New Netherlands. Copies of the original are in the New York Public Library and in the New York Historical Society. A facsimile reprint of 50 copies was made from the latter, in 1875, for George H. Moore, then librarian of the Society. The Dutch text was also printed in Wassenaer's Historisch Verhaal, part XVIII, 94 recto-98 verso; and as an appendix to the Dutch "Articulen" relating to Brazil, printed at Amsterdam, 1631. An English translation made by Abraham Lott, Jr. in 1762, was used by Moulton in his Hist. of N. Y. (1826), pt. 2, pp. 389ff., and this translation with slight modification has often been reprinted. A revision of the Wassenaer text is in Jameson's Nar. N. Neth., pp. 90ff., and a revision of the 1631 text with material changes by A. J. F. van Laer is in the Van Rensselaer Bowier Manuscripts. His translation is parallel with the Dutch text.

(c) CONTEMPORARY PUBLICATIONS AND ACCOUNTS, ETC.

ARTYKKELEN, VAN'T OVERGAEN VAN NIEUW-NEDERLANDT. Op den 27 Augustij, Oude Stijl, Anno 1664. Folio broadside.

Evidently issued in Holland as a poster, to show the articles of the surrender of New Netherlands to the English. Also printed in Hollandsche Mercurius, part 15, pp. 153-154.

BAUDART (WILHELM). Memorien. 2d edition. Arnhem and Zutphen, 1624-1625. 2 vols. F°.

The author was a preacher of Zutphen and designed his work to be a continuation of Van Meteren (q. v.). In this second edition he brought the annals down through a supplementary book 16 to cover the year 1624. On p. 63 is one of the earliest printed references to the first colony of immigrants in New Netherlands, together with a letter written from there describing the advantages of the country. Books 13 and 15 of the second part of the work contain the text of the establishing the Dutch West India Company and subsequent modifications thereof. An extract, concerning the immigrants, is in Doc. Hist. N. Y., vol. 4.

BAYARD (NICHOLAS) and Charles Lodwick. A Narrative Of An Attempt made by the French of Canada upon the Mohaques Country Being Indians under the Protection of their Majesties Government of New-York. [Colophon:] Printed and Sold by William Bradford, Anno 1693. F°.

The only known copy was discovered by Miss Adelaide R. Hasse, in 1902, among the papers of Governor Fletcher in the Public Record Office, London. It is a pamphlet of fourteen pages. A facsimile, with an introductory note by Miss Hasse, was published in 1903. American bibliographers had known that Bradford printed an edition, yet had never been able to discover a copy. The text, however, was known from the London, 1693, edition, entitled: A Journal of the Late Actions of the French at Canada, where Bayard's name was misprinted "Reyard." It has been claimed for this newly-discovered pamphlet that it is the first book printed in New York, an honor formerly awarded to Bradford's edition of the Loves, printed by him in 1694. Of course, there is virtually nothing in the Narrative relative to the city of New York. It is included here on account of the claim set up, a claim that is rather overdrawn. It is, however, the largest piece of printing produced in the year when printing was first introduced into New York.

BESCHRIJVINGHE van Virginia, Nieuw Nederlandt, Nieuw Engelandt, en d'Eylanden Bermudes, Brakadoe, en S. Christoffel. t'Amsterdam, By Joost Hartgers . . . 1651. Small 4°.

This anonymous compilation is often quoted by the publisher's name. It is merely a reprint of parts of the Verlooph, 1650; of the second Dutch edition of De Laet, 1630, and the Mohawk tract of Megapoleenis, entitled: Een kort Ontwerp vande Mahakuse Indiae, originally printed at Alkmaar, in 1644, of which the only known copy is in the library of the University of Ghent. The whole work has never been translated, but the Short Account of Megapoleenis first appeared in an imperfect English translation in Hazard's Historical Collections, vol. 1 (1792), pp. 517-526; revised by J. R. Brodhead, in Collections of the New York Historical Society, 2d series, vol. 3, pp. 137-160; and a further revision by Prof. A. C. Crowell, in Jameson's Narratives of New Netherland, pp. 168-180. The work was quoted by O'Callaghan and by Brodhead in their respective histories. An analysis of its composition is given in Asher's Essay, p. 3. Its chief interest, apart from its rarity, is the fact that it contains what is alleged to be the first engraved view of New Amsterdam, on p. 21, entitled: "T' Fort nieuw Amsterdam op de Manhatsen," and a plate of a Mohawk village. It has also a map of "Virginia, Nieu Nederlandt, Nieu Engelant," which is a reduced copy of the 1630 De Laet map, with additional names on the Delaware, the Hudson, along the New England coast, etc. It shows the St. Lawrence River in part as "De Groote Rivier van Nieu Nederlandt." The engraver has not, in a few instances, copied the nomenclature accurately. An interesting additional name is "Groote Waterval" (Great Cataract), for Cohoes Falls. The configuration of Long Island is also altered in the copy. Copies are in the New York Public Library, John Carter Brown Library, Library of Congress and the British Museum; several more are in private collections.

BLOME (RICHARD). The Present State of His Majesties Isles and Territories in America. London, 1687. 8°.

The province of New York is described on pp. 201-209. Contains maps by Robert Morden, one plate being New England and New York, opposite p. 210. This popular book was also translated into German and French.

BREDEEN-RAEDT aende Vereenichde Nederlandsche Provincien . . . Gemaect ende gestelt vut diverse vae en waerachtige memoten Door I. A. G. W. C. Tot Antwerpen . . . 1649. Small 4°.

This is the earliest separate publication about affairs in New Netherland. It is in the form of a conversation held aboard ship between a fictitious skipper and nine other persons, who are made to assume different stations or nationalities. The skipper is the principal speaker and he arranges the administrations of Kieft and Stuyvesant in New Netherland unsparingly. It is evident that the author of this tract had intimate personal knowledge of affairs in the colony, or received the details directly from somebody who had a close association with the public authorities. The tract was written by General and the representatives of the community. This led Brodhead (in International Magazine, December, 1851, p. 597) to attribute its authorship to Cornelis Melyn, which Asher controverted in a learned discussion (Essay, pp. 183-200). The title-page ascribes the authorship to "I. A.," followed by the initials "G. W. C." The only person prominent enough in New Amsterdam, who could have had sufficient inside knowledge of the affairs, and whose name fits the initials, was Isaac Allerton, one of the Eight Men, but it is inconceivable that he had anything to do with the composition of the tract. The initials "G. W. C." may well mean Geortyweerde West-Indische Compagnie, and the object of their use may have been to make it appear that the tract was composed by someone officially connected with the West India Company.

An English translation of extracts was made by F. W. Cowan for the first time and included in Frederik Muller's Catalogue of books relating to America (Amsterdam, 1850), pp. 38-46. These translated extracts were also issued as a separate pamphlet by Muller in the same year, and were reprinted in Documentary History of N. Y., vol. 4 (1851). A new translation of the entire tract, with the dubious title Broad-Advice, was made by Henry C. Murphy and accompanied his translation of the Verlooph van Nieu Nederlandt, published for James Lenox (New York, 1854), pp. 125-137, and reprinted in Collections of the New York Historical Society, 2d series, vol. 3 (1857), pp. 237-284. The New York Public Library has two copies of the original Dutch edition which vary in the alignment of two lines of their respective title-pages.

BRIEF (A) RELATION OF THE Discovery and Plantation of New England; and of sundry accidents therein occurring, from the yeere . . . M.D.C.VII. to this present M.D.C.XXII. London, 1622. Small 4°.

This is the first English publication to mention the Dutch on the Hudson. It contains also what is believed to be the earliest application in print of Hudson's name to the river. It was first reprinted, in large part, in Purchas, part IV (1623), pp. 1827-1832, from which it was reprinted in the Hakluyt Society's edition of Purchas, vol. XIX (1906), pp. 269-284. Complete reprints have appeared in Collections of Mass. Hist. Society, 2d series, vol. 9 (1822 and reprint of the volume, 1832), and in Baxter's Sir Ferdinando Gorges, vol. 1 (Boston, 1890), published by the Prince Society. It should not be confounded with Mourt's Relation of the same year. Although anonymous, it is an official publication of the Council for New England. Copies are in the New York Public Library, the John Carter Brown Library, the Library Company of Philadelphia, and two in the British Museum. BURTON (ROBERT). The English Empire in America. London, 1739. 12°.

A curious compilation in which New York is included.

CHALMERS (GEORGE). Political annals of the present united colonies, from their settlement to the peace of 1763: Compiled chiefly from records, and authorised often by the insertion of State-Papers. Book I. London, 1780. 4°.

The title is a misnomer. It is not in the form of annals, but is a history of the English colonies in America. The work was not carried down to 1763. This volume terminates with the year 1689, Chap. XIX (pp. 507-612) relates to New York. Chalmers left in manuscript three chapters of Book II, continuing the history from 1689 to 1696, when the Board of Trade was established. This manuscript came ultimately into the possession of the New York Historical Society, which printed it in its Collections, Publication Fund series, vol. 1 (1868).

COLDEN (CADWALLADER). Papers relating to an act of the Assembly of the Province of New-York, for encouragement of the Indian trade, &c. . . . With a map. New York: William Bradford, 1724. Small folio. Folded map.

Excessively rare, only about six copies known: New York Public Library (the fine Brinley copy); New York Historical Society (has only the rightside half of the map); British War Office, London; Public Record Office, London; immaculate copy discovered at Salem, Mass., offered by Woodspeed of Boston, in catalogue 95 (Oct., 1912), passed to Co. of Rosenbach of New York, who secured since a second copy from a London dealer, discovered in Scotland. It was reprinted in the London editions of Colden's History of the Five Indian Nations, second edition, 1747, after p. 204 (pp. 1-42); the same in the reissue of 1750; and third edition, 1755, vol. 1, pp. 214-256.

The New York edition has a copperplate map entitled: "A Map of the Country of the Five Nations" [belonging to the province of New York and of the Lakes near which the Nations of Far Indians live with part of Canada taken from the Map of the Louisiana done by M^r. De Lisle in 1718]. The map of Guillaume De Lisle here mentioned was his "Carte de la Louisiane et du cours du Mississippi," published by him at Paris, in June, 1718. The map in Colden's Papers is an extract, follows De Lisle in general outline, copies many of his place-names, but adds names to the middle colonies independently. The impression is faint. It bears neither name of draughtsman, engraver, nor place of execution. It has been claimed for this map that it is the first map engraved in New York. There is not a tissue of evidence to support that view. All that is known about it will be stated here for the first time. Colden was surveyor-general of the province. As late as Oct. 31, 1719, when Col. Peter Schuyler wrote to the Lords of Trade, no map of the country of the Five Nations had yet been made (N. Y. Col. Docs., V, 532). On Dec. 16, 1723, Gov. Burnet transmitted to Lord Carteret a map of this [New York] province, drawn by the surveyor gen^l D^r Colden, with great exactness from all the surveys that have been made formerly and of late in this province, which are in his hands, and from the French map of the lakes corrected by some late informations in those places that lie near this province" (N. Y. Col. Docs., V: 704). This description agrees so well with the 1724 copperplate map, that it seems likely that Colden made the draught for an engraver, deriving it from the prototype draught of the map transmitted to Lord Carteret. We do know that it was first engraved to form an integral part of Colden's Papers. This was an official publication, ordered, printed by Gov. Burnet and his Council (N. Y. Col. Docs., V: 712, 751, 756), to combat the memorial of merchants in which they protested against the operation of an act of assembly, passed in 1720, prohibiting the fur-trade with the French in Canada. A copy of the Papers, accompanied by the map, had been sent by Burnet to the Lords of Trade, and was conveyed by them to the Lords Justices on June 16, 1725, together with other evidence about the controversy then awaiting adjudication (N. Y. Col. Docs., V: 760). The map was included "to make the whole as clear as possible" (Ibid., 712). Bradford announced in his New York Gazette, no. 69 (Feb. 20-27, 1727) that he had then "in the Press" Colden's History of the Five Indian Nations, and offered for sale an edition of the Indian map. From no. 70 (Feb. 27-March 6) we learn that the History was yet unpublished; but in no. 71 (March 6-13) it is announced as "Just Published," which fixes the date. At that time the reissued Indian map had been on sale for several weeks. It was also advertised for sale in the History itself, but in no way to justify the inference that the map was an integral part of the History. They were complementary to one another, or, as Bradford announced, "Both Printed and Sold by William Bradford in New York." Colden's History was the first local history written and printed in New York, and the first history of the Iroquois. Of the edition of 300 copies only about eleven are now known, in public and private collections. The map issued at this time, 1727, was a reimpression from the original plate of 1724, without alteration. We come now to a record in a letter written by Colden, on Nov. 6, 1728, to Gov. Montgomerie, in which he recommended acceptance of his offer to make a map of the Indian country as far as Oswego (Cal. Hist. MSS., English, 503). The engraved Indian map was published again in 1726, but with the plate revised. It came about in this way. Bradford advertised it in his Gazette, no. 513 (Aug. 18-25, 1735), as follows: "On Monday next will be published a Map of the five Nations of Indians, with the Road from Albany to Oswego, and the Situation of the Lakes." Now, "Monday next" was August 31, and in no. 514 (Aug. 25-Sept. 1) Bradford announced the map as "Just Published . . . To be SOLD by the Printer hereof." In the same number, under the date of Sept. 1, we find the reason in public interest for the reissue of the map, as follows: "This day his Excellency William Cosby, Captain General and Governor in Chief of the Provinces of New-York and New-Jersey intends to imbarque for Albany to meet the six Nations of Indians, and Renew the Covenant Chain (as the Indians call the Treaty of Peace)." Cosby did embark on that Tuesday, "and was attended to the Water side by the Gentlemen of his Majesty's Council, the Corporation and most of the Principal Merchants and Gentlemen of the City; their being a greater concourse on the occasion than usual," as reported in the Gazette, no. 515 (Sept. 1-8), where the map was now advertised as "Lately Published." The New York Public Library has the Brinley copy of this reissued and altered state of the map, as well as the Papers (1724) with the map in the original state. The reissue is also in the New York Historical Society and the Newberry Library. It is much rarer than the earlier state and it is also more important. The altered plate of 1735 had the advantage of knowledge gained during ten years from Colden's surveys. In the meantime the English fort at Oswego had been finished (Aug. 1727). The 1735 plate was the result of material alterations, first by beating out the plate in spots to change the longitudinal designations and to revise coast lines, etc., and secondly by the addition of about fifty new Indian, or other, place-names on the plate, for example: "Oswego," "Palatine," "Esopus," "Pekepeky," "High Lands," "Philadelphia," etc. The inscription of the title of the map was abridged by leaving out all reference to De Lisle. Borders were placed around the longer inscriptions, the plate was cut deeper in places to give a sharper impression and a very great improvement was made to the configuration of Manhattan Island, Staten Island and the coast lines of lower New York and eastern New Jersey. In fact, it is within the confines of the province of New York and the harbor of New York City that the plate was peculiarly altered. Otherwise the changes were additions of names. The 1724 plate has the older form of name, "Jagara," which is altered in this reissue to "ONAGARA FALLS." The whole thing fits well the raison d'être of the published map of 1735. It is pertinent to recall that early in 1735 Bradford advertised for sale the copperplate map of the harbor of New York, and it is not unlikely that the engraver of the harbor map recut the Indian map with its material alterations about the harbor of New York. The copperplate map in the London editions of Colden's History is a reduced copy after the 1724 original printed map. It not only perpetuates the errors, but adds a few new ones, for example, "Jagara," omits "Detroit or," and misspells "Outawas" as "Oulawas."

DENTON (DANIEL). A Brief Description of New-York: Formerly Called New-Netherlands. With the Places thereunto Adjoining . . . Also Some Directions and Advice to such as shall go thither . . . Likewise A Brief Relation of the Customs of the Indians there. London, 1690. Small 4^{to}.

The first separate printed account of New York in English. Most of the extant copies have the title-page mutilated by the binder's knife. The first reprint was edited by John Pennington for the Proceedings of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, vol. 1, no. 1 (March, 1845), and was also issued separately. A new edition with notes by Gabriel Furman was published as Gowans's Bibliotheca Americana, no. 1 (New York, 1845), in 8^{vo} & 4^{to}. The introduction was copied from Pennington's edition. The latest and best reprint, with a bibliographical introduction by Felix Neumann, was published as no. 1 of the Burrows Brothers reprints (Cleveland, 1902). For a sketch of Denton and the circumstances attending this publication, see Executive Council Minutes, edited by V. H. Palisits, vol. 1 (Albany, 1910), p. 132, where a correct facsimile of the complete title-page is given; also the latest definite census of known copies, with an account of Denton and his work, in Bulletin of New York Public Library, vol. 28 (1924), pp. 599-604.

DE RASIERE (ISAACK). Letter to the Directors of the Dutch West India Company, Chamber of Amsterdam, Dated at Fort Amsterdam on the Island of Manhattes, September 23, 1626.

This is the earliest letter written on Manhattan Island, the text of which has been preserved. This text is a contemporary copy now in the Henry E. Huntington Library and was printed for the first time in facsimile, with translation and an English translation, in Documents relating to New Netherlands, edited by A. J. F. van Laer, published by the Library in 1924. The Dutch text has been reprinted in F. C. Wieder's De stichting van New York (1925), pp. 161-179, with critical and explanatory notes.

—New Netherlands in 1627 [sic], in Collections of New York Historical Society, 2d series, vol. 2 (1849), pp. 339-354; also as Letter of Isaac de Rasières [sic] to Samuel Blommarkt, 1628 (?), in Jameson's Narratives of New Netherlands, pp. 97-115.

This letter may have been written in 1628 or later, but not as early as 1627. Its allusions to the fort as in process of building are substantiated by other authority as having taken place in 1628. The New York Historical Society has an early nineteenth-century transcript of the Dutch text copied from the original manuscript, which is in the Royal Archives at The Hague in "Collectie Verspreide West-Indische stukken n^o 2." The Dutch text in large part is printed in Jessurun's Kilken van Rensselaer (1917), appendix, pp. VI-IX, and for the first time in full on pp. 265-278 of Nederlandsch archief voor Kerkgeschiedenis, new series, vol. 15 (1919), in a paper by A. Eekhof. There is a photograph of the original Dutch letter in the Manuscript Division of the New York Public Library.

DONCK (ADRIAEN VANDER). Beschryvinge van Nieuw-Nederland, (Ghelijck het tegenwoordigh in Staet is) Begrijpende de Nature, Aert, gelegentheit en vruchtbaerheit van het selve Land; mitsgaders de profijtelijcke ende gewenste toevallen, die aldaer tot onderhoude der Menschen, (soo yut haer selven als van buyten ingebracht) gevonden worden . . . t'Aemsteldam . . . Anno 1655. Small 4^{to}. Illustrated.

First edition of this important and rare work entitled: "Description of New Netherlands (particularly its present state), containing the nature, character, situation and productivity of the same; together with the profitable and customary chances that are to be found there for the support of people, whether natives or foreigners." The book was privileged by the States General on May 24, 1653 and by the States of Holland and West Friesland on July 21, 1653; the Amsterdam Chamber of the West India Company consented to its publication on Feb. 25, 1655. The author died in New Netherlands in 1655, so may never have seen the published work and of course could not have been concerned in the second edition, of 1656. The first edition has the view "t' Fort nieuw Amsterdam op de Manhattans," on p. 9, repeated from the plate first used in the Beschryvinge van Virginia, [etc.], published by Joost Hartgers, in 1651. The second edition of vander Donck was brought into New Netherlands by a Dutch bookseller, who also published the first edition. He added a map, being a reengraving of a section of the Nicholas J. Visser map and view of "Nieuw Amsterdam op t' Eylant Manhattans," which took the place of the earlier view and bears the name of the publisher in lower left-hand corner of the copperplate. This particular map and view, as extracted for the 1656 edition, has been often called "Vander Donck's Map," a wholly unjustifiable designation, because vander Donck was deceased, because it is a section of the Visser map and because it was borrowed by the publisher Nieuwenhoff. The second edition of the book is entirely reset and has added at the end: "Conditie die door de Heeren Burgemeesters van State Amsterdam," [etc.], or regulations for immigration into New Netherlands. An English translation was made by the Rev. Dr. John Bassett, an Albany clergyman, who sought subscriptions through printed proposals for printing it. Not receiving sufficient encouragement, he offered to dispose of his manuscript to the New York Historical Society for publication, and a committee of the Society reported in August, 1820, on the same, but nothing materialized. This society printed another translation, by Jeremiah Johnson, a former mayor of Brooklyn. It follows the second edition of 1656, and is in Collections, 2d series, vol. 1 (1841), pp. 125-122. An extract concerning Hudson's third voyage in Asher's Henry Hudson, pp. 167-172, and a longer extract forms Old South Leaflets, no. 69. Copies of the 1655 edition are in the Boston Public Library, John Carter Brown Library, Watkinson Library (Hartford), Long Island Historical Society, New York Historical Society, New York Public Library, Cornell University Library, Library of Congress and British Museum. The second edition, 1656, is in the New York Historical Society, New York Public Library, John Carter Brown Library, Library of Congress and British Museum.

[DONCK (ADRIAEN VANDER), and others.] Vertoogh van Nieu-Nederland, weghens de Ghelegenheit, Vruuchtbaerheit, en Soberen Staet desselven. In's Gravenhage . . . 1650. Small 4^{to}.

This work is the first in point of time that reveals the early history of New Netherlands. It was not printed, however, until the year following the publication of the Breeden-Raet (1649). The character of the work and the circumstances that led to its preparation are given in Murphy's translation, 1849, and in O'Callaghan's History of New Netherlands, vol. 2, pp. 90-99, 111-126, as well as in Brodhead's History, vol. 1, pp. 506-507, 511-512. It contains a description of the natives and of the physical features of the country, an account of the events from the first settlement to 1649, and the remonstrance of the Board of Nine Men to the States General. It is of primary importance for the history of New Netherlands. It was prepared with the object of obtaining redresses from grievances—most against the arbitrary acts of Kieft and Stuyvesant. An English translation was edited by Henry C. Murphy for Collections of the New York Historical Society, 2d series, vol. 2 (1849), pp. 251-338, and was issued also separately. This translation appeared again (New York, 1854), accompanied by his translation of the Breedend-Raet. As issued in this version it is known as The Representation of New Netherland. Murphy's translation, revised by A. Clinton Crowell, is in Jameson's Narratives, pp. 293-354. The original manuscript of the notarial copy is preserved in the royal archives at The Hague, but it does not differ very materially from the printed text of 1650. This manuscript was translated by E. B. O'Callaghan as Remonstrance of New Netherland, appearing first in N. Y. Col. Docs., vol. 1, pp. 271-318, and also separately (Albany, 1856); and again in Penn. Archives, 2d series, vol. 5, pp. 124-170. See also "Tienhonden" in an answer to the protestants. Copies of the original edition of 1650 are in the British Museum, John Carter Brown Library, Library of Congress, Newberry Library, New York Historical Society and New York Public Library; also in the collection of the author of the present work.

DOUGLASS (WILLIAM). A summary, historical and political, of the first planting, progressive improvement, and present state of the British settlements in North America. Boston, 1749-1751. 2 vols. 8°.

A history of New York province is in vol. 2, pp. 220-266. The work was issued originally in numbers from 1747 to 1751. No. 36 completed vol. 1 and contained also the title of 1749, the author's preface, and the table of contents. These numbers when stripped of wrappers and bound make two volumes. Vol. 1 was also published bound (Boston, 1749), of which there are two issues, one with an aspersation upon Commodore Knowles, which led to a libel suit, and one with that matter (sig. Ff, pp. 233-240) suppressed. Although vol. 2 has the date 1751, it must have been completed as late as 1752, because the author refers to Boston newspapers of the latter year, on p. 414. There is, in fact, a Boston edition of vol. 2 dated 1753, with new matter on pp. 417-440. Douglass died, October 21, 1752. He had nothing to do with these additions; moreover, the date 1753 is misleading, as the chronology on p. 440 has an item as late as November 24, 1758. A London reprint of the Boston edition of 1749-1751 came out in 1755, and another London edition was published in 1760, with some alterations and corrections, and accompanied by Huske's map of 1755.

FRANCUS (JACOBUS). Relations historie continuatio, . . . Historische Beschreibung aller hochwürdigen Historien, so sich hin und wider in Europa, in hoch und nider Teutschland, auch in Frankreich, England, Hispanien, Hungarn, Polen, Siebenbürgen, Wallachei, Moldau, Turkey, &c., hierzvischen nechstverschienener Franckfurter Herbstmess bis auff diese Fastenmess dies 1615. Jahrs, verlaufen und zugetragen. Aus überschickten glaubwürdigen Schrifften continuirt, und mit etlich Kupferstücken delinirt. Franckfurt am Mayn, bey Sigismundo Latomo. M. DC. XV. 104pp. Sm. 4°.

On pp. 44-45, under the year 1614, the following reference is made to the Dutch in New Netherland, viz: "Umb diese Zeit [1614] sind etliche Holländische Schiff zu Amsterdam ankomen, welche jenseit Virginia nicht weit von Nova Francia ein neue Landschaft entdeckt, welche sie Nouam Hollandiam genennet, daruss sie 2. Personen von den Inwohnern mit gebracht, soll ein sehr reich und fruchtbar Land seyn, vornemlich von Getreid, derweil die Herrn Staten beschossen solches einzunehmen, vnd die See Custen mit starken Forten zu besetzen. Soll die Reysss aus Holland jinner 6. Wochen hin und her können verrichtet werden."

Translation: "About this time [1614] there arrived at Amsterdam some Dutch ships which had discovered a new country beyond Virginia and not far from New France, which they named New Holland, bringing with them from there two of the natives; it is said to be a very rich and productive country, especially in grain; therefore the Lords States determined to lay hold thereof, and to occupy the seacoasts with strong forts; the voyage from Holland, there and return, it is said, can be made within six weeks."

This is, so far as now known, the earliest account in print of the discoveries made by Hendricksen and Block; of Block's return to Amsterdam with the two Indian lads, nicknamed Orson and Valentine; of the naming of the newly-discovered country, etc. It has been entirely overlooked by writers on New York history. Cf. Wassenaar, in Jameson's Nar. N. Neth., 78, 81.

GARDYNER (GEORGE). A Description of the New World. Or, America Indians and Continent: and by what people those Regions are now inhabited. London, 1651. Small 8°. Colophon reads: "November 13. 1650. Imprimatur Nathaniel Brent."

Chap. 27 (pp. 93-94) relates to "New Holland." Referring to New Amsterdam, which he does not name, the author said: "This Village lyeth on Hudsons River in 40 and a half, three miles within the mouth of the River, and almost joyning to a Fort that hath Guns, but they are unmounted." Of the Dutch he says: "These Dutch are mischievous neighbours, for with their Indian trade they supply the natives with Guns and Ammunition, which in time may prove their own confusion, and doth already prejudice their neighbours."

The author asserts that he has "related nothing but what my own knowledge or good intelligence persuades me is certainly true," and that he had intended to produce a larger volume, but was prevented by being captured on his way from America by "Flemmings and Irish," who took from him "the greater relation, which I intended instead of this Epitome from thence." For a fuller extract from this work see the chronology, under 1649.

The date is taken from the engraved title, whereas the printed title is dated 1657 and called "The second Edition." The special titles to the third and fourth books are dated 1656. America is covered by part 2 of the fourth book, where, on p. 1027, "Novum Belgium or Nieuw-Nederland" is described; but this description has no positive value.

HOLLANDSCHE MERCURIUS, 1650-1690. Haarlem, [1651, etc.]. 40 parts. Small 4°.

Material relating to New Netherland is found under April, 1653, in part 4, pp. 41-43; under September 16, 1655, in part 6, pp. 130-131; under November, 1656, in part 7, pp. 146-147, 149; under January, 1662, in part 13, pp. 3-4; under 1664, pp. 10-15, 153-155; and under January, 1666, in part 17, p. 16. Very little about New Amsterdam or New York, except what is in part 15, under 1664.

HUNTER (ROBERT). Androborus. A Bogographical [sic] Farce, in three acts, viz. The Senate, The Consistory, and The Apotheosis. Printed at Monopolis since 1st August, 1714. [New York: Printed by William Bradford, 1714.] Small 4°.

It is the first play written and printed in English America, but was never acted. It is a lampoon, severely castigating the clergy and others of Trinity Church, especially the Rev. Dr. Vesey. The characters are well-known persons in the province at the time, under disguise, and the language is often racy. Two copies of the original book are known, one in a Scottish collection and a copy formerly owned by John Philip Kemble, the tragedian, and later by the Duke of Devonshire, but now in the Henry E. Huntington Library. A transcript from the latter copy was made decades ago for Dr. George Henry Moore and passed from his library to the late Evert Jansen Wendell. It is now at Harvard University. It is said that Gov. Hunter was assisted in the composition of the farce by Chief Justice Lewis Morris. The New York Public Library has a photostat of the printed work. See Wegelin (O.). Early American Plays, 2d edit. (New York, 1905), p. 50; and particularly the review of Wegelin's work in Boston Evening Transcript, May 31, 1905.

KORTE VERHAEL van Nieuw-Nederlands Geleghentheit, Deughden, Natuurlijke Voorrechten, en byzondere Bequaemheit ter Bevolkingh. [Amsterdam:] Gedrukt int Jaer, 1662. Small 4°.

The preface is dated October 10, 1662. There is also another issue, with a different title-page, beginning, Zeekere Vrye Voorslagen, with imprint Amsterdam, 1663, of which the John Carter Brown Library has the only known copy. Both issues have 84pp., and the 1662 issue is also very rare; there are copies in the New York Public Library (with printed slip pasted on verso of title), New York Historical Society, John Carter Brown Library, British Museum, Henry E. Huntington Library, and two or three others.

This tract gives a concise account of the situation, virtues, and natural advantages of New Netherland and its particular fitness for colonization, accompanied by petitions, remonstrances, etc., which were presented about the close of 1661 to the burgomasters, etc. of Amsterdam. The object of the publication was to direct the authorities and others to the desirability of colonization in New Netherland. A printed slip in the N. Y. P. L. copy is an address to the confiding reader, in which the object is given thus: "The author is of opinion or believes . . . that he has brought together in this work all the most considerable, the only and necessary fundamentals of a free government of the people." The book is valuable as an argument for the Dutch title to New Netherland; for a description of the country, especially on the Delaware River, and for an account of the Indians. New Amsterdam is mentioned, e. g. on p. 18. The author used De Vries, Vander Donck, the Verloogh, and other earlier Dutch Publications. For a long account of the book, see Asher's Bibliographical Essays, no. 13.

longer additions of the Dutch edition of 1630 and the variants of the Latin and French versions, is in Jameson's Narratives, pp. 36-60. De Laet's account of Hudson's voyage of 1609 is probably based on a journal of Hudson, now lost, and other papers of Hudson.

—Beschryvinghe van West Indien. Tweede Druck. Tot Leyden . . . 1630. F^o.

This second Dutch edition has additions to the chapters on New Netherlands; also a highly important map, entitled: "Nova Anglia, Novum Belgium et Virginia." A Latin version (Leyden, 1633) and a French version (Leyden, 1640) conclude the series of editions. Concerning these two versions Jameson (Narratives, p. 35) writes: "The text of the former is more carefully prepared than that of the latter. In both, the map . . . appears unchanged; nor are additional authorities cited in the preface. But both these later editions show signs of that increasing interest in natural history which marked De Laet's later years. They contain many excellent plates of American animals and plants. There are similar additions to the text, so that chapters 10 and 11 of Book III are mostly new matter; on the other hand, many passages of the Dutch are much abridged in these later translations."

MILLER (JOHN). New York considered and improved, 1695. Published from the original manuscript in the British Museum. With introduction and notes by Victor Hugo Paltsits. Cleveland, 1903. 8^o. (Burrows Brothers Reprints.)

This is the best edition of this important account of the province of New York, based upon the intimate observations of the chaplain of the garrison of New York City, from 1602-1605. It presents plans of New York City and the fort, as well as other places, in the exact size of the original drawings and by direct process. The editor has restored the correct title of the work and has given an accurate text for the first time; also the first connected account of the career of the Rev. John Miller, and the bibliographical status of his work (pp. 20-24). Miller's manuscript was acquired by the British Museum from Thomas Rodd, a London bookseller, who had purchased it at the sale of the part of the library of George Chalmers sold in 1842. But Rodd, before he sold it, printed a small yet faulty octavo edition in 1848. This text was reprinted in 1862, accompanied by an introduction and copious notes by John G. Shea, as Gowans's Bibliotheca Americana, no. 3, in octavo and quarto. It is given a modern title in these two editions, namely: A description of the province and city of New York.

MONTANUS (ARNOLDUS). De Nieuwe en Onbekende Wereld: of Beschryving van America, en 't Zuid-Land. . . . Verciert met Afbeeldsels na't leven in America gemaakt, en beschreeven Door Arnoldus Montanus. t'Amsterdam, By Jacob Meurs Boek-verkooper en Plaet-snyder . . . 1671. F^o. Illustrated.

New Netherlands is described on pp. 123-134, with a map of Novum-Belgium and an engraved view of New Amsterdam. This chapter is based on De Laet, N. J. Visscher's map, and principally Vander Donck's Beschryvinge. There is an excellent analysis of its composition in Asher's Essay, pp. 20-23. Jacob Meurs was an engraver as well as a publisher. It is possible that the copperplates were cut in his establishment. Some copies have a large map of America with "per Jacobum Meursum," but in other copies the map of America bears the name of Gerard A. Schagen. It is alleged that the Schagen map and a variation of the view of Cosco between pp. 342 and 343, as well as a portrait of Joan Maurits, prince of Nassau, are only found in the first issue of Montanus, whilst the second issue lacks the portrait, which is not called for in the table, has a different view of Cosco, and has the large American map in a copy by Meurs. None of the pictorial plates is signed and the same can be said of the other plates, except the map mentioned. Meurs obtained his privilege or copyright on July 28, 1670, to issue the volume in large or small form, and these are large and small paper copies in the New York Public Library. The view of "Novum Amsterdamum" is on p. 124. Copies of the volume can be found also in the Harvard College Library, Library of Congress, John Carter Brown Library and the British Museum. English and German versions are described more particularly, as follows:

—America: being an accurate description of the New World; . . . Collected and translated from most Authentick Authors, And Augmented with later Observations; Illustrated with Notes, and Adorn'd with peculiar Maps, and proper Sculptures, By John Ogilby, Esq., Master of His Majesties Revels in the Kingdom of Ireland. London: Printed by Tho. Johnson for the Author, and are to be had at his House in White Fryers, M.D.C.LXX. F^o.

A copy with this date is in the Harvard College Library, and the New York Public Library has a copy with this title-page and the title-page dated 1671, which follows:

—America: being the latest, and most accurate description of the New World; . . . Collected from most Authentick Authors, Augmented with later Observations, and Adorn'd with Maps and Sculptures, by John Ogilby, Esq.; His Majesty's Cosmographer, Geographical Printer, and Master of the Revels in the Kingdom of Ireland. London, Printed by the Author, and are to be had at his House in White Fryers, M.D.C.LXXI. F^o.

The description of New Netherlands, now New York, is given on pp. 168-182, and the view of "Novum Amsterdamum" on p. 171. The description is not a mere translation from Montanus. It is amplified materially by large extracts taken bodily from Denton's A Brief Description of New-York (London, 1670); but without acknowledgment. Ogilby carried out this scheme of amplification in other chapters, particularly for places under British dominion. He also replaced several maps of Montanus by new ones, for example, the large map of America, engraved by F. Lamb; a map of Carolina, engraved by James Moxon; a map of Jamaica, engraved by F. Lamb, and a map of Maryland. Because Ogilby is known with the date 1670 and Montanus only with the date 1671, there has been some speculation as to which is the actual prototype. This can now be settled in favor of Montanus. With very few exceptions, of the kind mentioned above, Ogilby's illustrations are from the same plates as were used in Montanus. The engraved frontispiece is from the Montanus plate, but the Dutch publisher's imprint has been beaten out of the plate and the space is blank. We have seen that Meurs obtained his privilege on July 28, 1670. No stationer's record is associated with Ogilby. But there is even better evidence against the priority of Ogilby, which is furnished on p. 674, by Ogilby himself. Speaking of voyages sent out to discover a northwest passage, he says that an expedition returned "about the beginning of October the Year following [1669], giving so satisfactory an Account of their Voyage, that in the Year 1670, the same Adventurers thought fit to send out two ships more, so furnish'd, as to endure a Wintering there, which they did, with greater hopes than ever of finding out the North-West Passage, besides a handsome Cargo of rich Furs, which made it more than a saving Voyage." This appears in the "later Observations," to which Ogilby refers on his title-page. This is the first evidence to show that Ogilby was not published until 1671. But the clinching evidence is found in Asher's Term Catalogue, p. 45, 63, and 94. On p. 94, under date of Nov. 20, 1671, the book is advertised and the publication date is given there as Nov. 3, of that year. Copies of Ogilby are in the New York Public Library (one with the 1670 and 1671 titles, and the other with only the 1671 title); Harvard College Library (1670 title), and the 1671 form in John Carter Brown Library, Boston Public Library, Boston Athenaeum, and British Museum. It is a curious fact that Ogilby masquerades as the author; and, while on the 1670 title he admits that Tho. Johnson is the printer, on the 1671 title he himself claims to be the printer, as well as "His Majesty's Cosmographer, Geographical Printer."

Montanus belonged to a series of volumes, being a kind of collection of voyages and descriptions of foreign countries in Dutch, of which Dr. Offert Dapper, an alleged doctor of medicine, was general editor, published at Amsterdam, from 1670-88, in twelve folio volumes. English translations appeared in London under Ogilby's name of the America; Africa (1670); Japan (1670); China (1671), and Asia (1673). It is evident, therefore, that Ogilby had an arrangement with the Dutch publisher, Meurs, to bring out the English volumes. Meurs himself published the German version of America, as follows:

—Die Unbekante Neue Welt, oder Beschreibung des Welt-theils Amerika, und des Sud-Landes: . . . Durch und durch mit vielen nach dem Leben in Ameriken selbst entworfenen Abbildungen gezieret. Durch Dr. O. D. Zu Amsterdam, Bey Jacob von Meurs 1673. F^o.

New Netherlands described is on pp. 142 ff., and the view of "Novum Amsterdamum" on p. 143. Meurs obtained a privilege for the volume from Emperor Leopold, at Vienna, Aug. 9, 1670. Curiously enough this privilege actually states that the work was written originally in Dutch by Dr. Dapper and is "now moreover translated into German." Neither this statement nor its attribution on the title-page to Dapper is a fact. This German version is merely a translation of Montanus. Although it was privileged in 1670, its publication was delayed until 1673, first that Montanus might appear in Dutch, then that the copperplates might be used for the Ogilby issue and, perhaps, to give time for the completion of the German translation. The copperplates are the same as in Montanus, except worn. The engraved title-page has a German imprint of Meurs as publisher. This has been reengraved in the place where the Dutch imprint had been beaten out for Ogilby, and a new cartouche has been engraved around the imprint. The Dutch publisher made the most of his copperplates, and his business activity has produced a bibliographical puzzle. Copies of the German edition are in the New York Public Library, Boston Athenaeum, British Museum and Bibliothèque Nationale of Paris. The historical value of any of these publications for New York is very slight.

[OLDMIXON (JOHN).] The British empire in America. London, 1708. 2 vols. 8°. Maps by H. Moll.

The province of New York is described in vol. 1, pp. 117-133. In a long preface the author reveals his sources, as well as the difficulties which he encountered in his compilation. He was never in America. So far as New York is concerned, he says that after he had written about it "he corrected the mistakes which others had led him into, by better information from Capt. Congreve, who has had a Command in the Regular Forces there several Years." The author repeats fallacies from earlier English accounts with regard to alleged usurpation of the country by the Dutch and through subsequent compilers gave force to this error, greater, perhaps, than had his predecessors. His account of New York is so full of errors that only a specialist can extract the slight facts which remain. A second edition, corrected and amended, was published in 1741.

PAIRALET (JEAN). A concise description of the English and French possessions in North-America, for the better explaining of the map published with that title. London, 1755. 12°.

The very brief description of the city of New York is on pp. 33-34. In the original French text (Paris, 1755), it is on p. 30.

PALTSITS (VICTOR HUGO), editor. See Miller (John).

PLANTAGENET (BEAUCHAMP), pseudonym. A description of the province of New Albion. London, 1648. Small 4°.

This is the very rare original edition. It was printed again at London for J. Moxon, in 1650. Peter Force reprinted it in his Tracts, vol. 2, and Gideon D. Scull did likewise in The Evelyns in America (Oxford, 1881), pp. 67-115. See also documents in Collections of New York Historical Society, Fund series, vol. 2 (1869).

Among other extraordinary statements in this singular tract is one that says "Sir Thomas Dale and Sir Thomas Argall" on their return voyage from the English settlements in Acadia, in 1613, made a visit "at Manhatas late in Hudson's River where they found four houses built and a pretended Dutch governor under the West India Company of Amsterdam," etc. So far as there is a shadow of truth in this tract, it can be traced to the printed works of Purchas, Capt. John Smith, and other contemporary authors, as well as to the diplomatic history of the times, from which the fabricator had drawn his cues for the distortion of truth and the concoction of statements that are contrary to all contemporary history. This tract, unfortunately, was accepted by compilers of history for many years as gospel truth. In the history of New York it had been accepted largely through its use by George Folsom, in Collections of the New York Historical Society, 2d series, vol. I (1841), pp. 333-342. Folsom accepted the work as of "undoubted" authority; but his article shows no critical acumen and he ran to definite conclusions without definite authority. It is singular indeed, that Folsom did not know that only a year before, in 1840, John Pennington's excellent critical examination and analysis of the Plantagenet tract had been printed in Memoirs of the Hist. Soc. of Penn., vol. 4, part 1, pp. 133-165. Pennington exposed with lucidity many of the falsehoods of the tract and concluded that even the name of the author was a fabrication—the whole motive being to bolster up unworthy speculative schemes. But instead, in his History, vol. 1, p. 54, 160, 754-755, gives also a sane exposition of the subject. Henry C. Murphy showed his disbelief in Collections of the New York Hist. Society, 2d series, vol. 2, pp. 323-326, and vol. 3, part 1, p. 131-136. Berthold Fernow, in Winsor's America, vol. 4, p. 427, discredits the alleged visit and the assumed authorship. Mrs. Van Rensselaer, in her History of the City of New York, vol. 1, p. 24-25, shows how the "belief in the four houses which Argall was said to have seen on Manhattan topples down in the general destruction of the story." Other recent doubters have been Brown, in First Republic in America (1898), pp. 193-194, and Johnson, in Swedish Settlements, vol. 1, p. 400 and footnote on p. 806. James Grant Wilson, in Memorial History, vol. 1, p. 123 (note), accepted Folsom hypothetically, but without original investigation on his own part. This story of an alleged visit to Manhattan by Argall or any other Englishman in 1613 rests entirely upon the tract of 1648 and later works of Heylin, Ogilby, and others, who copied from it or copied from one another. Brodhead said of the tract, in 1853, that it was then "generally held to be a mass of absurd and inconsistent errors," and added: "It is extraordinary that no English or Dutch State Papers corroborates the story." The fact is as well true that Father Biard's Relation and letters tend not an iota of hope to the story. Argall had not been knighted in 1613, and Sir Thomas Dale did not go with him on either of the Acadian expeditions. The Dutch West India Company was not chartered until 1621. There was no "Dutch Governor," pretended or otherwise in 1613, and the allusion to "the next pretended Dutch Governor" is a garbled reference to Minuit, in whose time

"maps and printed Cards, calling this part New Netherland," were made and published. Minuit sailed for Holland in the Eendragt, in March, 1622; but stress of weather drove the ship into the harbor of Plymouth, England, where she was held, as alleged, for trading illegally in the domains of the British sovereign. The fact was communicated to Holland by Minuit and diplomatic negotiations resulted (cf. Brodhead, vol. 1, pp. 140-143, 213-218). Stuyvesant, who is called "Stuy" in the tract, was appointed in 1646 and arrived at New Amsterdam in 1647, so could not be guilty of the acts attributed to him about three years prior to his arrival. So far as the acts mentioned have a modicum of truth in them, they are applicable to Kieft. This baseless fabrication may be allowed to rest in the cabinets of collectors; it should no longer intrude itself in the writing of history. [Cf. the author's remarks, Chron., 1613.]

REMONSTRANTIE, vande Bewinthebberen der Nederlandsche West-Indische Compagnie, aende d'Heeren Staten Generael over verscheyde specien van Tyrannye, ende gewelt, door de Engelsche in Nieuw-Nederlandt, [etc.]. Schidam, voor Pieter Sanders, Anno 1663. F°. Broadside.

This piece is excessively rare. The only known copies are in the Thysiana collection of the University of Leyden and another, purchased in 1916 by the John Carter Brown Library from Martinus Nijhoff, bookseller at The Hague. This remonstrance was made by the Directors of the Dutch West India Company to the States-General, charging acts of tyranny and violence of the English as committed against the Dutch in New Netherland, asking reparation and justice. The complaint refers specifically to the New England invasion of the Dutch settlements on Long Island and the unsettled boundary disputes with Connecticut. An English translation is in Asher's Bibl. Essay, pp. 208-210. A further complaint, entitled: Naeder Klagh-Verloogh, was made to the States-General, printed in an eight-page pamphlet, 1664, which is even more interesting than the original remonstrance of the previous year, and an English translation is in Asher, pp. 210-213.

ROGERS (ROBERT). A concise account of North America. London, 1765. 8°.

New York city is described on p. 65, the province itself on pp. 59-72. In his explanation of the territorial rights as against the early Dutch possession, the author makes repetition of the singular and inaccurate English claim; but the rest of the account, particularly that which was derived from his own observations, is worthy.

SCHACHEN (PIETER). Letter written at Amsterdam, November 5, 1626, announcing that the day before the ship "Wapen van Amsterdam" (Arms of Amsterdam) had arrived loaded with furs and bringing news of the purchase of Manhattan Island from the Indians.

The original manuscript is in the archives at the Hague. A large photograph of it is in the New York Historical Society, and facsimiles have appeared in Wilson's Mem. Hist. N. Y., vol. 1; Putnam's Mass., vol. 7 (1909-1910); Avery's Hist. U. S., vol. 6 (1905), p. 92, and elsewhere. English translations are in N. Y. Col. Docs., vol. 1, pp. 37-38; Jameson's Nar. N. Neth., and other places. The Dutch text with an accompanying English translation is in Year Book of the Holland Society of New York for 1890, pp. 152-153.

SECOND (THE) part of the tragedy of Amboyna; or, a true relation of a most bloody, treacherous, and cruel design of the Dutch in New Netherlands [sic] in America. For the total ruining and murdering of the English colonies in New-England. Being extracted out of several letters very lately written from New-England to several gentlemen and merchants in London. London, 1653. 78°. 8°.

Of this excessively rare tract known copies are: British Museum; Henry E. Huntington Library; Henry F. De Puy copy, sold Nov. 17, 1919; Christie Miller copy, offered in 1917 by a Philadelphia bookseller for $3500.

It was reprinted in another tract, now also very rare, entitled: Commonwealth's Great Ship (London, 1653 [i. e. 1653/4]), of which the New York Public Library has a copy.

A facsimile of the original tract, made from the De Puy copy, with an introduction by Henry F. De Puy, was issued in 1915, in an edition of 95 copies. He alleged it to be the first separate publication in English relating to the region of New York, which is technically correct, though Denton's work of 1670 is the real first publication, because the Amboyna tract belongs to the "false alarm" literature of the world and its historical interest is negligible. See also O'Callaghan's Hist. New Neth., vol. 2, pp. 571-572. A detailed collation of both editions is in Cole's Church Catalogue, pp. 1203-1205, 1214.

Murphy's translation, revised from the original manuscript by William I. Hull is in Jameson's Narratives, pp. 359-377.

UNDERHILL (JOHN). News from America; or, A New and Experimental tall Discovery of New England. London, 1638. Small 4^o. Folded plate of Indian stockade.

Includes a description of Long Island and the Hudson River, and is one of the earliest English works in which reference is made to New Netherland. A beautiful copy of this very rare work is in the New York Public Library, from which a facsimile was published by the Underhill Family Association.

T' VERHEERLIJCKTE NEDERLAND door d'Herstelde Zee-Vaart; Klaerlyck voorgesteld, ontdeckt en aengewezen . . . Gedrukt Anno 1659. 4^o.

This treatise on Netherland glorified by the restoration of commerce is fully analyzed by Asher in his Essay, pp. 5-10. He says: "For though it is in reality on the advancement of navigation and commerce, it is not of this commerce itself that the author speaks, but of an efficacious means of terminating its languishing state,—and this means is a new system of colonization for New Netherland, Florida and Guyana." He continues: "And if it is an essential part of history to know what would have been if circumstances had not prevented; that is to say, to know not only the positive but also the negative influence of events, this book must be numbered among the best sources for the history of New Netherland." It is on pp. 12-25 that the principal description of New Netherland is given. The structure of the work is in the nature of a dialogue between a farmer, a burger or citizen, and a skipper. There is no translation of it. Frederic Muller in his Catalogue, 1872, p. 126, said he had found it only twice. The only copy we have met with in the United States, was sold in the Henry De Puy sale, Jan. 27, 1920, item 1695. Another copy was offered in 1919 by R. W. P. De Vries, bookseller of Amsterdam.

VERSTEEG (DINGMAN), editor. Manhattan in 1628 as described in the recently discovered autograph letter of Jonas Michaeüls written from the settlement on the 8th of August of that year and now first published. With a review of the letter and an historical sketch of New Netherland in 1628. New York, 1908. 8^o. Illustrated.
 The edition of Versteeg's volume consisted of fifty copies on Imperial Japan paper and 175 copies on Holland hand-made paper. The original letter is now in the Henry E. Huntington Library, at San Marino, Cal.

WASSENAER (NICHOLAEUS JANSZON) and Barent Lampe. Verhaal der gedenck-waerdichste geschiedenissen die hier en daer in Europa . . . voorgevallen syn. Vt'Amsterdam, 1622-1635. 21 parts in 5 vols. Small 4^o.

Parts 18-21 are a continuation of Wassenaer by Dr. Barent Lampe, an Amsterdam physician. Accounts of the first settlement, with history and descriptions, of New Netherland; are in pt. 6, fol. 144; pt. 7, fol. 10 and 11; pt. 8, fol. 84 and 85; pt. 9, fol. 37, 40, 44, 123; pt. 10, fol. 82 and 83 (misnumbered 83 and 84); pt. 12, fol. 37 and 38; pt. 16, fol. 131; pt. 18, fol. 94 to 98. The first use made of this source by American historians was by Brodhead, for his Memoir on the early colonization of New Netherland, in Collections of New York Historical Society, 2d series, vol. 2 (1849), pp. 355-366. The first translation in English of the portions relating to New Netherland was printed in Doc. Hist. of N. Y., vol. 3 (1850), and included again in Papers relating to the first settlement of New York by the Dutch (Edinburgh, 1888) in the series of "Collectanea Adamantaea," vol. 27. Everything bearing on New Netherland has been translated anew for Jameson's Narratives, pp. 67-96.

The original parts were issued semi-annually as contemporary annals of the events narrated. For the early history of New Netherland they give unique information and they are outstanding among the few really important contemporary sources. There is a résumé of the set in the auction catalogue of the Henry F. De Puy sale (Jan. 1920), item 1711. In deel 12, folios 37-38 may be found the earliest printed account of the settlement of Manhattan Island in 1626.

WEST-INDISCHE SPIEGEL . . . Door Athanasius Inga, Peruaen, van Cosco. Amsterdam, by Broer Jansz. ende Jacob Pietersz. Wachter . . . 1624. Sm. 4^o. Plates and maps in text, and 2 maps at pp. 64 and 150, respectively.

Among other things, this volume relates to the Spanish tyranny in the island of Espagnola (Cuba) and other places; it also presents an account of the discoveries of Jacob la Maire in 1616. The work was published while the Dutch were at war with Spain. In 1693 the Dutch had attacked Peru and had conquered large possessions of Spain in South America. There is every reason to believe that the work is a composite and that Athanasius, Peruvian Inca, of Cosco, has been used as a pseudonym. In the book, singularly enough, the publishers, use the form of name "Ignatium Inga Peruaen," instead of the form put on the title-page. Indeed, Berthold Fernow, in Winsor's Narr. & Crit. Hist., IV: 416-417, suggested that the volume was "probably" a work of Willem Usselin, the originator of the Dutch West India Company, chartered in 1621. The publishers in their address to the Directors of this Company reveal the object of the work, in the hope that the King of Spain, who had the whole world trembling and under tribute, would be forced in a corner.

There is nothing in the text of the volume that has relation to New Netherland or New England. Its only interest to these regions is the very unusual North American map between pp. 64 and 65, entitled: "t Noorder deel van West-Indien," engraved by A. Goos (see our vol. 2, p. 96, and pl. 33). It is the oldest map which contains the name "Hudsons R." and the only map published in Holland during this early period with that name. Other important place-names found on it are: "New England," "C. Codd," "Plymouth," and "De la war bay." The presence of the settlement of New Plymouth reveals a source not earlier than 1621 and as the preface of the volume is dated July 10, 1624, we have the period of origin and antecedents fixed between these years. The book is rare but not costly. The author has a copy and it is in the larger collections of Americana, as the New York Public Library and the John Carter Brown Library.

WOOLLEY (CHARLES). A two years journal in New-York: and part of its territories in America. London, 1701. 16^o.
 The period covered by Woolley's observations is 1678-1680, when he was chaplain to the garrison at New York. There are two issues of 1701, with varying title-pages. The work was first reprinted, with an introduction and notes by E. B. O'Callaghan, as Gowans' Bibliotheca Americana, no. 2 (New York, 1860), 8^o and 4^o. Gowans erred in introducing the form of the name as "Wooley" on the title-page and binding of the reprint, notwithstanding the correct form given by O'Callaghan in the body of the volume. This curious and inexcusable error has been repeated by others. Another reprint, with an introduction and notes by Edward Gaylord Bourne, was included in the Burrows Brothers Reprints (Cleveland, 1902), 8^o.

Benson was one of the founders and the first president of the New York Historical Society until 1815. This Memoir was not published by the Society owing to a disagreement, as revealed in his second edition, pp. 97-99. In a few copies of the first edition, "designed for particular distribution," Benson inserted extensive manuscript notes. One of these copies is in the New York Public Library. These annotations were printed as "Notes" to the second edition, Jamaica, L. I., in 1825. There are also copies of the second edition with additional notes in the handwriting of the author. In 1848, the Historical Society reprinted it "from a copy, with the Author's last corrections," in Collections, 2d series, vol. 2 (1849), pp. 77-148, from which a publisher's reprint has been made more recently as a separate pamphlet.

It is a petition from New Netherlands, dated October 31, 1655, which was among the Dutch Manuscripts then in the office of the secretary of state and later transferred to the New York State Library. An appendix, pp. 21-48, has illustrative documents, such as the treaty with the Indians of August, 1645, and pieces of 1655-1656.

RUTTENBER (EDWARD MANNING). Footprints of the red men. Indian geographical names in the valley of Hudson's River, [etc.]. Published under the auspices of the New York State Historical Association. 1906. With Proceedings of seventh annual meeting, in vol. 6 [Newburgh,] 1906. 8°. Illustrated. Also issued separately.

This monograph is pagged separately and fills 241 pages. Manhattan and its local names are described on pp. 13ff.

SKINNER (ALANSON). The Indians of greater New York. Cedar Rapids, Iowa, 1915. 12°.

With his no. 3 of a series of "Little Histories of North American Indians" and is a readable as well as interesting portrayal of the subject. Treats also the archaeology of the Indians of the greater city.

—The Indians of Manhattan Island and vicinity. A guide to the special exhibition at the American Museum of Natural History. Prepared for the Hudson-Fulton Celebration Commission by the Museum. [New York, 1909.] 8°. (Guide leaflet, no. 29, September, 1909.)

SKINNER (CHARLES M.). Myths and legends of our own land. Philadelphia and London, 1896. 2 vols. 12°. Illustrated.

It contains in vol. 1, pp. 107-181, a chapter on "The Isle of Manhattans and nearby."

TOOKER (WILLIAM WALLACE). The origin of the name Manhattan. With historical and ethnological notes. New York, 1901. 12°. Map. (Algonquian series, no. 1.)

Edition 250 copies. First read before section H of the American Association for the Advancement of Science in 1896, and printed in the Brooklyn Eagle Almanac for 1897. In its present form it is revised and enlarged. The author concludes that the name was derived from Manahatin, the oldest form, and is descriptive, signifying "the island of hills."

WISSLER (CLARK), editor. The Indians of greater New York and the lower Hudson. New York, 1909. 8°. (Anthropological Papers, American Museum of Natural History, vol. 3.)

It includes the Lenape Indians of Staten Island, by Alanson Skinner; aboriginal remains on Manhattan Island, by James K. Finch; The Indians of Washington Heights, by Reginald P. Bolton.

(e) TOPOGRAPHY—GUIDE BOOKS, LAND RIGHTS, STREETS, MAPS, PLANS, AND VIEWS

AA (PIETER VANDER), publisher. La galerie agreable du monde, où l'on voit en un grand nombre de cartes tres-exactes et de belles tailles-douces, les principaux empires, royaumes, republiques, provinces, villes, bourgs et fortresses, [etc.]. A Leide, [1729]. 66 vols. F°.

A remarkable collection of copperplates, engraved from time to time by the best Dutch masters of the art for vander Aa, as well as for Blaeu, Visscher, de Wit, Meurs, Goerle, Halma, Mortier, Allard and others, whose plates had been acquired by vander Aa from the estates of these publishers. The plates are arranged on a geographical system in sixty-six volumes, of which vols. 63 to 66 relate wholly to America. Each empire, kingdom, etc., is preceded by a short geographical description, apropos of the plates. Vol. 1 has a table of the divisions of the set (p. 6) and a list of the nearly three thousand plates and maps (pp. 7-37). In vol. 63 (America, vol. 1), chap. II has a short account of "Nouvelle Hollande," mainly about the Indians of the colony. Vol. 64 has a reissue from the worn plate of the Carolus Allard view of New Amsterdam with human figures, plate 28a; and plate 29 contains a reengraving of the Montanus view, with two other inset views of Indians and animals of New Netherlands. The publisher himself states that the edition was limited to one hundred sets. The work has been a rarity almost from the period of publication (see Frederik Muller's Catalogue. Amsterdam, 1872, pp. 1-2). An unusually clean and intact set is in the New York Public Library.

ADAMS (JOHN). Works. [Edited by Charles Francis Adams. Boston, 1850-56. 10 vols. 8°.]

This was the way to Philadelphia to attend the Congress in 1774. Adams passed through New York City, stopping over from August 20 to 26. In his diary he entered full observations of his sojourn and gave a picture of the places and persons of New York of that time. It is an exceedingly interesting item and is printed in vol. 2 (1850), pp. 345-355.

ALLARD (CAREL). Orbis habitabilis oppida et vestitus, centenario nomen complexa, summo studio collecta, atque in lucem edita à Carolo Allard—Des bewoonde Waerelds Steden en Dragen, in een honderd-getal begrepen [etc.]. Amsterdam, [n. d.]. F°.

A collection of one hundred views of the principal cities and towns of the world engraved on copper, giving precedence to places in Europe, designed for the general public as a pictorial tour around the world. There are nearly ten unnumbered pages of notes descriptive of the plates by Rudolph Smids, M. D., of Groningen. Many of the places are given double, one being a full view and the other showing costumed figures of inhabitants with the same view as a background. The full views are engraved by T. Doesburgh and the costume views are by A. Meijer. Plate 75 is a full view of "Nieu Amsterdam," and plate 76 is the same view with natives in the foreground. The printed catalogue of the British Museum queries the date of publication as 1690; but judging from the publications of Carel Allard and also the works edited by Dr. Smids (died 1720), the volume was more likely issued after 1700 and it may be, as late as 1710. Nothing has been found about the engraver, A. Meijer. There is a notice of Thomas Doesburgh, the engraver, in Oud-Holland, vol. 18 (1900), pp. 242-243. The New York Public Library has a copy of this book with the plates colored.

ANDREWS (WILLIAM LORING). The Bradford Map. The city of New York at the time of the granting of the Montgomerie charter; a description thereof . . . to accompany a facsimile of an actual survey made by James Lyne and printed by William Bradford in 1737. New York, 1893. 8°. Illustrated.

Gives a reduced facsimile of the Bradford map, or Lyne survey, for the first time by direct process from the original engraving and establishes its history. There are many other reproductions from rare prints and drawings of New Amsterdam and New York, mostly from originals in the author's private collection, as well as historical accounts of buildings, etc., and a brief chronology of historical events from 1609 to 1882. Edition limited to 142 copies on plate paper and ten copies on Japan paper.

—The iconography of the Battery and Castle Garden. New York, 1901. 8°. Illustrated.

This little monograph is an interesting and attractive excursion to the Battery during some two hundred years of its existence as a predominating place of rendezvous in the life of the city of New York. Its illustrations show the changes that were made from time to time. The edition was 135 copies on American hand-made paper, 32 copies on Japan paper, and there were 30 additional copies struck off of the Van Dyck plan, the latter for private distribution.

—James Lyne's Survey or, as it is more commonly known the Bradford map. A plan of the city of New York at the time of the granting of the Montgomerie charter in 1737. . . . appendix to an account of the same compiled in 1893. New York, 1900. 12°.

Prepared particularly as a protest against the use of faulty reproductions. Gives history of the original map; discusses early American engravings; records, in a postscript, successive so-called reproductions of the Lyne survey. Included are process facsimiles by Bierstadt of the original Lyne survey (one-half reduced), of Hayward's lithographic copy from Valentine's History of the city of New York, 1853 (one-half reduced), and of the original Duyckinck or Maerschclack map (one-third of original size). Limited to 170 copies on Holland paper and 32 on Imperial Japan paper.

—The journey of the iconophiles around New York in search of the historical and picturesque. New York, 1897. 8°. Illustrated.

Frontispiece is "A View of the Battery and Harbour of New York, and the Ambuscade Frigate, 1793," copied on copper by E. D. French from Drayton's Tour (Charleston, S. C., 1794).

The edition of the work was limited to 87 copies on Imperial Japan paper and six copies on American hand-made paper. Not all copies have the twelve plates which are so fully described in the text. The work discusses the older and newer styles of the city's architecture and describes early engraved views in the New York Mirror; G. M. Bourne's collection; Peabody's set; Blunt's Stranger's Guide; Goodrich's Picture of New York; Nichol's New York Illustrated, etc., etc.

—New Amsterdam, New Orange, New York. A chronologically arranged account of engraved views of the city from the first picture published in MDCL until the year MDCCC. New York, 1897. 8°. Illustrated.

The first iconographic guide prepared for collectors of prints of New York City, of which thirty copies were printed on Imperial Japan paper, with extra impressions of the copper engravings by E. D. French, and 179 copies on American hand-made paper. In four chapters the views from 1651 to 1800 are discussed in chronological sequence. There is a brief bibliography, also an appendix and addenda. The book is handsome typographically and pictorially. Plans, maps, views, portraits, title-pages, etc., are reproduced by photo-engraving, photogravure and gelatine processes, and there are about sixteen line-engravings on copper by E. D. French.

ARNOUX (WILLIAM HENRY). The Dutch in America. A historical argument. New York, 1890. Royal 8°.

This historical argument was presented to the court of appeals of the State of New York "in an elevated railroad case then pending, in which the fundamental question involved was whether the Dutch Roman law prevailed in Manhattan Island before 1664, under which law the railroad claimed that the State absolutely owned the streets and that adjacent owners had no rights or easements therein."—Preface. The same subject is treated in its legal aspect in his The Discovery and Settlement of New York, in which he concludes "that the Dutch-Roman law never had any application to the Bowery as a Dutch highway; that the common law of England must be held to prevail, and, therefore, that the judgment that abutting owners upon the Bowery had no right title or interest in or to the said highway was erroneous."

BANCKER (EVERETT). A list of farms on New York Island, 1780, in Bulletin of New York State Historical Association, vol. 1 (1917), pp. 8-11.

From the Banker survey note book in the New York Historical Society.

BELLIN (JACQUES (NICOLAS)). Le petit atlas maritime. Recueil de cartes et plans des quatre parties du monde. [Paris], 1764. 5 vols. 4°.

A handsome collection of 575 engraved copperplate maps and plans of all parts of the world. Two plates in vol. 1 relate to New York, namely: Plate 32 shows the "Baye et Port d'York Capitale de la Nouvelle-York," and plate 33 is a plan of "Ville de Manthe ou Nouvelle-York." A fine set is in the New York Public Library.

BLACK (GEORGE ASHTON). The history of municipal ownership of land on Manhattan Island to the beginning of sales by the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund in 1844. New York, 1891. 8°. (Forms Columbia College. Studies in History, Economics and Public Law, vol. 1, no. 3).

The title by no means indicates the extent of this scientific monograph. It traces the municipal ownership of land from the grants to the corporation of the city by the apostle of 1658 and the Dongan charter of 1686, down to the ordinance of 1844, which authorized the commissioners of the sinking fund to sell and dispose of all real estate owned by the city that was not in use or required for public purposes. Some of the subjects discussed are quit-rents reserved in granting water lots and leasing of upland; conservation of municipal land; encroachments; grants to institutions and corporations. There are sixteen reproductions of topographical maps. It is perhaps the only distinct work which treats of the subject in a scholarly fashion.

BLUNT (EDMUND MARCH). Blunt's Stranger's guide to the city of New-York. Comprising a description of public buildings, dwelling houses, [etc.]. To which is prefixed an historical sketch, general description, plan and extent of the city. Embellished with a plan of the city, and engravings of public buildings. New York, 1817. 16°.

The plates are a plan of the city and views of the City Hall, Almshouse, State Prison, etc. Republished in London, 1818. See also Goodrich, Andrew T. The Picture of New-York (New York, 1825).

BOURNE (G. M.). Thirty-five views of New York city, drawn by C. Burton and engraved by Hatch & Smillie. 1831.

For description and list see Andrews (William Loring) Journey of the Iconophiles, pp. 10 and 43.

BRIDGES (JOSEPH F.). [Survey of William Street, New York, from Wall Street to Duane Street, with names of owners or lessees from Cedar to Duane Streets. Compiled by Joseph F. Bridges, City Surveyor; Miller, lithographer. New York, July, 1845.] F°.

A copy in New York Public Library (Stuart Collection).

BRIDGES (WILLIAM). Map of the city of New-York and Island of Manhattan; with explanatory remarks and references. New York: Printed for the Author, 1811. 8°. Text, with map issued separately. The text consists of the legislative acts of 1807 and 1809 for laying out streets and roads; the "Commissioners' Remarks" explanatory of the survey, and a key of references to the location of public buildings, churches, etc. on the island.

CITY HISTORY CLUB OF NEW YORK. Excursions planned for the . . . Club. By Frank Bergen Kelley, and others. New York, 1897-1910. 12 nos. Illustrated.

Historical tours from City Hall to Wall Street, Greenwich village and Lispenard's meadows, Bowery and East Side, Central Park to Kingsbridge, 14th to 170th Streets, Fraunce's tavern, South of Wall Street, and to places outside of Manhattan. For a revision and extension of this material see Kelley's Historical guide.

—Plan of New York city in the English period. [With explanatory marks.] [New York, 1907?] F°.

COBURN (ALVIN LANGDON). New York. . . . with a foreword by H. G. Wells. London and New York, [1910]. Folio.

A series of twenty photographic studies of famous buildings, street scenes, etc., in New York, each picture being mounted on a grey mat.

COLLES (CHRISTOPHER). A survey of the roads of the United States of America. [New York], 1789. Small 4°.

Engraved by Cornelius Tiebout. From the original printed proposals issued by Colles it is evident that subscribers were to engage "to take 100 pages." Not more than 83 plates and the engraved title-page are known to have been published. The plates run from 1-33, 40-47, 48-49, 48-86. No known set has plates numbered 34-39. Probably they were not issued, as they are not needed to complete the topographical connections of the series. Each of these plates shows about twelve miles of the road on a scale of about 1½ inches to the mile, "particularly specifying all the cross roads and streams of water which intersect it, the names of the most noted inhabitants of the houses contiguous to or in view of the road; the churches and other public buildings; the taverns, blacksmiths'-shops, mills," etc. Plates 1 and 2 show New York City highways to Stratford, Conn., etc. A very full analysis of the work is in Cole's Church Catalogue, vol. 5, pp. 2404-2407. In New York Public Library, New York Historical Society and Library of Congress.

There is also a facsimile reprint.

COLONIAL ORDER OF THE ACORN, New York Chapter. Views of early New York with illustrative sketches. New York: privately printed, 1904. 8°.

Only 21 copies printed. Contains reproductions on copper by Edwin Davis French of the Hartgers, Montanus, Allard, Pople, Carwitham and Rollinson views of New York City. The six chapters of text, a setting for these six views, were contributed by Fordham Morris, William Cary Sanger, William Gordon Verplanck, William Loring Andrews, Henry Astell Prince and William Gilbert Davies. The chapter by Davies, on "New York in 1801," is reprinted in his Papers and Addresses. New York, 1907, pp. 111-118.

COMSTOCK (SARAH). Old roads from the heart of New York; journeys today by ways of yesterday, within thirty miles around the Battery. New York and London, 1915. Illustrated.

Reviewed in American Historical Review, vol. 21 (1916), pp. 636-637.

COZZENS (ISSACHAR), JR. A geological history of Manhattan or New York Island, together with a map of the island. New York, 1843. 8°. Nine lithographic plates.

The earliest separate monograph on the subject. The New York Public Library has a copy with extra illustrations, including an original drawing of the vicinity of "Dykeman's Bridge"—Harlem River with Kingsbridge in the distance 1860, and another drawing of Rhineland's sugar house and residence in William Street, looking toward Rose Street.

[CRÉVECOEUR (J. HECTOR SAINT JOHN DE)]. New York City in 1779 as described by St. John de Crèvecoeur, in Mag. of Amer. Hist., vol. 2 (1878), pp. 748-751, translated from Lettres d'un Cultivateur Américain (Paris, 1787). Also in appendix of reprint of the English edition (London, 1782), edited by W. P. Trent in 1904. See also Proc. of Mass. Hist. Society, 2d ser., vol. 20, 32ff., 582-586; Saint John de Crèvecoeur, sa vie et ses ouvrages, by Robert de Crèvecoeur (Paris, 1883).

DAVIS (GHERARDI). The establishment of public parks in the city of New York. Read before the New York Historical Society, Apr. 6, 1897. [New York, 1897.] 12°.

DENGLER, ADOLF. Descriptive index of the maps on record in the office of the Register of city and county of New York. New York, 1875. 8°.

The intention which guided . . . in compiling this Index, was to prepare a key for obtaining from the records in the Register's Office such information as might be gained from examination of maps of property in the City of New-York, and the documents referring to these maps, on file or recorded in said office."—Preface.

The first or major part of the volume "contains the descriptions of nearly 1400 maps on file" in this office, covering twenty-four wards of Manhattan Island. Two pages list "Miscellaneous Maps," mainly in other parts of the State. There are also three pages of old street names with their modern equivalents.

DES BARRES (JOSEPH FREDERICK WALLET). Atlantic Neptune. Published for the use of the Royal Navy of Great Britain. London [various years]. Large folio.

- For discussions about the origin of this remarkable series of charts and views, with respect to the variability of states of plates, the contents of sets, and concerning Des Barres and his associates, see ICONOGRAPHY, I: 346-352; and Joseph Frederick Walley Des Barres and The Atlantic Neptune, by John Clarence Webster, in Transactions of the Royal Society of Canada, 3d series, vol. 21, section II, pp. 21-40, also issued separately (Ottawa, 1927).

- EDMONDS (JOHN H.). The Burgis views of New York and Boston, in Proceedings of Bostonian Society, 1915, pp. 29-50.
- ERLICH (MORRIS WILLIAM). Historic traces on upper Manhattan or the village of New Harlem. With the present lines of city streets. [New York], Copyright, 1917. This is a compiled historical map of which but few copies were struck off.
- EMERSON (F. V.). A geographic interpretation of New York City, in Bulletin of American Geographical Society, vol. 40 (1908), pp. 587-612, 726-738; vol. 41 (1909), pp. 3-21. Also issued separately.
- FAY (THEODORE SEDGWICK). Views in New-York and its environs, from . . . drawings by Dakin, architect; with historical, topographical & critical illustrations, by T. S. Fay. New York and London, 1831. 4°. There are 33 views, of which 9-12, 10-33 are not numbered. The engraved title-page with vignette is dated 1831; the preface is dated June, 1831, but the last plate of views is dated 1833. Some of the plates are marked "Proof." The subjects were drawn by J. H. Dakin, Lundie, A. J. Davis, A. Dick, H. Fossette, M. Osborne and G. P. Morris. They were engraved on steel by Barnard & Dick, H. Fossette, J. Archer, A. Dick, M. Osborne, F. Kearney, and Jos. Harris. There is also a folded colored "Map of the city of New York Compiled & Surveyed by William Hooker," who is also its engraver. Described from a copy in the New York Public Library. A copy owned by the author of the ICONOGRAPHY has 37 views.
- FIELDING (MANTLE). American engravers upon copper and steel. Biographical sketches and check lists of engravings. A supplement to David McNeely Stauffer's American Engravers. Philadelphia, 1917. 8°. 3 illustrations.
- The edition consisted of 220 copies for subscribers.
- FIFTY PHOTOGRAPHIC VIEWS of greater New York. Chicago, 1899. 16°. A collection of contemporary views in good halftones.
- FRANCIS (C. S.), and Company, publishers. Francis's new guide to the cities of New-York and Brooklyn, and the vicinity. New York, 1833. 26°. Map and illustrations.
- Also called "Stranger's Hand-Book." There were later editions. Also, "Picture of New York in 1846" (New York, 1846).
- FREY (JOHN W.). The port of New York, in Journal of Geography, vol. 21 (1922), pp. 207-213.
- Deals with geographic factors in their effect on the growth of New York City.
- FRIDENBERG (ROBERT), editor. Illustrated catalogue of the notable collection of views of New York and other American cities formed by Mr. Percy R. Pyne 2d. New York [1917]. 8°. The descriptions were written by Fridenberg for this auction catalogue for the sale by the American Art Association. The edition de luxe has numerous full-page illustrations in color. Fridenberg also prepared the earlier (1917) privately-printed catalogue of this collection.
- GERARD (JAMES WATSON), JR. The old streets of New York under the Dutch. A paper read before the New York Historical Society, June 2, 1874. New York, 1874. 8°.
- A treatise on the title of the corporation and others to the streets, wharves, piers, parks, ferries and other lands and franchises in the city of New York, [etc.]. New York, 1872. 8°.
- An important guide to the evolution of title in the city. Chap. X is devoted to the Commissioners' map, as established by law in 1807. Chaps. XII to XIX relate specifically to streets and roads; wharves, piers and slips; exterior streets and made land; ferries; the Battery; ancient streets and roads.
- GOODRICH (ANDREW T.), publisher. The picture of New-York, or the stranger's guide to the commercial metropolis of the United States. New-York, 1825. 18°.
- The Goodrich title appeared first in 1818. It is a copy of Blunt's Stranger's Guide of 1817 (q.v.), without that work's last leaf of advertisements. The date are not later than October, 1817, to p. 306 in either the 1818 or 1825 Goodrich, both of which are alike to p. 306, but the former continues with an "appendix for 1818" of fifty pages, while the latter has only 3pp. of advertisements after that page. The New York Public Library has the 1825 title-page edition in an original bound copy bearing this imprint: "New-York: A. T. Goodrich & Co. (Proprietors), 124 Broadway, corner of Cedar-street, J. Seymour, print. 1826." It is said that no two copies of the 1818 Goodrich are alike as to illustrations. This we have not verified. But the 1825 issue closely resembles Blunt in illustrations, with some variations in the maps, and otherwise.
- Publisher. The picture of New-York, and stranger's guide to the commercial metropolis of the United States. New-York, [c. 1828]. 18°.
- This edition differs materially from that of 1825; though some of its title is built upon the earlier work. A very noticeable addition here is a "Chronological History of the city of New-York," from 1609 to Jan. 1, 1828, on pp. 1-135. The plates are: Frontispiece, of the "Exchange," drawn by A. J. Davis and engraved by J. Yeager; p. 28, "City Hall," engraved by W. Hooker; p. 210, "View in Broad Way," engraved by Grace Church; p. 244, "Fulton Market," engraved by Balch, Rawdon & Co.; p. 250, "U. S. Branch Bank," engraved by J. Yeager; p. 268, "South St. near Dover St.," drawn by A. J. Davis and engraved by J. Yeager; p. 288, a woodcut in the text of "College of Physicians and Surgeons, in Barclay-street," p. 374, a woodcut in the text of "The Panoramic Rotunda" of John Vanderlyn; p. 377, "Park Theatre," engraved by Balch, Rawdon & Co.; p. 452, "Coffee House Slip," engraved by M. I. Danforth. There is also a large folded "Plan of the City of New York and of the Island As laid out by the Commissioners Altered and arranged to the present time," engraved by J. F. Morin; and a map of "New-York, and Adjacent Country," engraved by B. Tanner.
- GOURLAY (R. F.). Plans for beautifying New York. . . . to illustrate the science of city building. Boston, 1844. 8°.
- A pioneer treatise on city planning.
- GRATACAP (LOUIS POPE). Geology of the city of New York: with numerous illustrations and maps. Third edition, enlarged. New York, 1909. 8°.
- This edition contains sixty-five illustrations and four geological maps. It is a substantial volume; whereas the first edition (1901) and second edition (1904) were not more than good pamphlets. On pp. 146-151 is a list of literature on the geology of Manhattan, from 1816 to 1907.
- GREAT (THE) METROPOLIS; or New York in 1845. New York, [1845?]. 24°. Map.
- This popular little guide book was first brought out by John Doggett, Jr. He also published the 1846 issue; but from 1847-1854, if not later, H. Wilson was its publisher.
- GREATOREX (ELIZA). See Despard.
- GREEN (ANDREW HASWELL) Communication . . . on the subject of a consolidation of areas about the city of New York under one government. Mar. 4, 1890. (N. Y. Assen. Docs. 121st session, vol. 11, no. 71.) 8°.
- This address to the legislature led to the consolidation act of Greater New York.
- Communication to the commissioners of the Central Park, relative to the improvement of the sixth and seventh avenues, from the Central Park to the Harlem River; the laying out of the island above 155th street; the drive from 59th street to 125th street, and other subjects. New York, 1866. 8°.
- Valuable for the street-improvement history of the city.
- Municipal consolidation inquiry. Communication of A. H. G., to the legislature of the State of New York. Copy of act creating commission of inquiry, and addresses of the president to the commissioners. [New York, 1893]. 4°.
- Cover-title: New York of the future. It was issued also on large paper in an edition of 200 copies, with cover-title: "Greater New York; Writings and Addresses by Andrew H. Green."

—New York of the future. Writings and addresses of A. H. G. since December 7th, 1892. New York, 1896. 4°. Relates to movement for creation of Greater New York.

There are other editions; that of 1837 has a frontispiece of New York University, drawn and engraved by Hinshelwood; the 1840 edition has a view of Bowling Green, drawn by Burton and engraved by J. Smillie.

GUIGNARD (PHILIPPE). Notice historique sur la vie et les travaux de M. Fevret de Saint-Memin. Dijon, 1853. 12°. Illustrated.

Separate issue from the Mémoires de l'Académie des Sciences, Arts et Belles-Lettres de Dijon. On p. 9 is a reference to his two New York views.

HALSEY (R. T. HAINES). Pictures of early New York on dark blue Staffordshire pottery [etc.]. New York, 1899. 4°. Illustrated. Edition 260 copies on hand-made paper.

HARDIE (JAMES). A census of the new buildings erected in this city, in the year 1824, arranged in distinct classes, according to their materials and number of stories. Also . . . statistical documents. New York, 1825. 12°.

The author says, that in order to gather the data, he "carefully traversed every street, lane and alley, from the battery to the utmost limits of the Lamp and Watch Districts."

—The description of the city of New-York, containing its population, institutions, public buildings, places of amusement, &c., with an account of its first settlement [etc.]. New York, 1827. 12°. Illustrated with map, having insets of the City Hall and Merchants' Exchange.

HARRISSE (HENRY). The discovery of North America. A critical, documentary, and historic investigation, with an essay on the early cartography of the New World, including descriptions of two hundred and fifty maps or globes existing or lost, constructed before the year 1536. London, 1892. 4°. With 23 facsimiles on separate plates and also cuts in the text.

The edition of this monumental work was limited to 380 copies.

HASKELL (DANIEL C.). American historical prints, early views of American cities, etc., in Bulletin of New York Public Library, vol. 31 (1927), pp. 901-1026. Also issued separately. 53 half-tone reproductions.

Prepared under the direction of I. N. Phelps Stokes. Largely New York or of New York interest, but has also many of the finest and rarest views of other American cities.

HILL (GEORGE EVERETT) and G. E. Waring, Jr. Old wells and water-courses of the Island of Manhattan, in Half Moon Series. Papers on historic New York, ser. 1 (1897), nos. 10 and 11; again in Historic New York, vol. 1 (1898), pp. 193-262.

HINE (CHARLES GILBERT). The New York and Albany post road, from Kings Bridge to "the ferry at Crawler, over against Albany." New York: the Author, 1905. 12°. Illustrated.

The title-page is dated 1905, but the copyright on the verso is 1906. Not much directly touching New York city, but is included here as related to the city's outlet to Albany and to call attention to the pretty illustrations of buildings along the post road.

HISTORIC BUILDINGS now standing in New York, which were erected prior to 1800. New York: Bank of the Manhattan Co., 1914. 8°. Illustrated.

HOBBS (WILLIAM H.). The configuration of the rock floor of greater New York, in Bulletin, no. 270, February 14, 1905, of the U. S. Geological Survey.

Contains geological information of the greatest importance to engineers engaged in construction work which involves excavations for foundations and other purposes.

HOFFMAN (MURRAY). A treatise upon the estate and rights of the Corporation of the city of New York as proprietors. New York, 1853. 8°.

This edition has a fictitious lithographic view of Manhattan Island representing Hudson's "Half Moon" at anchor, on September 13, 1609. At p. 320 there is a folded plan of grants as far north as the Fresh Water.

—2d edition. New York, 1862. 2 vols. 8°.

This edition was materially revised in its historical and legal data. The "Appendix, containing notes and diagrams" fills the second volume. There are fourteen diagrams of lots on the island below Chatham and the Bowery. The work is valuable for tracing the development of the water front and for studying the city's jurisdiction over streets, ferries, and markets.

HOLLEY (ORVILLE LUTHER), editor. A description of the city of New York: with a brief account of the cities, towns, villages, and places of resort within thirty miles. New York: J. Disturnell, 1847. 18°.

The views and maps are: Frontispiece, "Castle Garden, From the Battery," engraved by Dougal; p. 89, "Steamboat Landing, Pier No. 1, North River," also eng. by Dougal; opp. p. 9, small folded map of "City of New York with part of Brooklyn and Williamsburgh," and another, opp. p. 112, of "Vicinity of New-York Showing the line of the Croton Aqueduct," etc.

HOLLIER (SAMUEL). Old New York. Views. New York, 1905-1913. 4°.

150 plates, etchings, with accompanying letter press for series 1-3. The last eight plates were delivered in 1913, when Hollier was 88 years of age. He died Dec. 27, 1919.

HUDSON RIVER PORTFOLIO (THE). Painted by W. G. Wall and engraved by J. Hill. Published by Henry J. Megarey and Carvill, New York [1824]. Oblong atlas folio. 20 aquatint views in colors, of which the last is New York from Governors Island.

HULBERT (ARCHER BUTLER), editor. The Crown Collection of photographs [and blueprints] of American maps [and plans]. Selected and edited by A. B. Hulbert. Series 1-4. Cleveland, etc., 1904-1928. F° and 4°.

The New York maps are in the first series, for which there is a separate index volume (Cleveland, 1909).

JONES and NEWMAN'S Pictorial directory of New York, exhibiting a continued series of colored elevations, of all the dwellings, stores, and public buildings fronting on the principal streets. New York, 1848. 4 parts. 8°. Colored lithographs.

This is the title of no. 2. The title of no. 1 reads: "The Illuminated Pictorial Directory of New York, by Jones, Newman, & J. J. Ewbank."

JORDAN (JOSHUA HAWKINS). Catalogue of loan exhibition of rare views of old New York. Exhibited by Lawyers Title Insurance and Trust Co., 1909. [New York, 1909.] 8°.

It has 53pp. with 545 items.

KELLEY (FRANK BRENGE), editor. Historical guide to the city of New York. New York [1913]. 12°.

This is the revised edition. Prepared for The City History Club of New York. Largely superseded by A. E. Peterson's Landmarks of New York (1923).

[KENDALL (ISAAC C.)]. The growth of New York. New York, 1865. 8°.

A pamphlet with some interesting prognostications about the growth of population and recommendations for the proper building up of the city.

KING (MOSES). King's New York views. New York, 1895, etc. F°.

There are annual issues of these picture books with different half-tone views of prominent contemporary buildings and views. The latest we have seen is 1908.

LAMB (MARTHA J. R. N.). Historic homes and landmarks: their significance and present condition, in Magazine of American History, vol. 21 (1889), pp. 1, 177; vol. 22 (1889), p. 177. Illustrated. Relates to New York city sites.

LAWRENCE (RICHARD HOE), compiler. Catalogue of the engravings issued by the Society of Iconophiles of the city of New York . . . With an introduction by William Loring Andrews. New York, 1908. 4°. Illustrated.

It lists the illustrations issued from 1894 to 1908. The Society has continued to issue plates to the present, consisting of copperplates, lithographs, aquatints, and etchings, by Edwin D. French, Charles F. W. Mielatz, Francis S. King, Sidney L. Smith, Joseph Pennell, and others.

LOSSING (BENSON JAMES). The Hudson, from the wilderness to the sea. New York [cop. 1866]. 8°. Illustrated.

The New York Public Library has also an extra-illustrated copy with eighty plates added.

LOW (JOHN). An alphabetical table, of the situation and extent of the different streets, roads, lanes, wharves, and slips, public buildings, and justices' courts, of the city of New-York. New York, 1807. 24°.

Called second edition. Another dated 1808 is likewise so designated.

MACAULEY (JAMES). The natural, statistical and civil history of the State of New-York. New York, 1829. 3 vols. 8°.

The first volume is devoted to physiography and natural history; the second to the Indians, to general history to 1759, and has also a gazetteer; the third to the last intercolonial war, the American Revolution, etc. Severely compilatory and a strange medley, viewed in the light of modern knowledge.

MIELATZ (CHARLES F. W.), engraver. The finest set, his own set, of his large etchings of New York City places and scenes, is in the Spencer Collection of the New York City Public Library. He also made a number of views of New York for the Society of Iconophiles of the city of New York, some of which are noted in R. H. Lawrence's Catalogue of that Society's issues (q. v.).

MILLER (JAMES), publisher. Miller's New York as it is; or stranger's guide-book . . . with map and numerous illustrations. New York, 1859. 16°.

There are a number of reissues or editions to 1876. The illustrations of prominent edifices, etc., are useful when contemporary with the year of issue; but many of the cuts were used without change throughout, so that street scenes of 1859 are repeated as late as 1876.

[MILNES (J. F.).] The island of Manhattan. A bit of earth. By Felix Oldboy [pseud.]. New York, 1893. 8°.

—Walks in our churchyards. Old New York. Trinity Parish. By Felix Oldboy [pseud.]. New York, 1896. 12°.

[MITCHELL (SAMUEL LATHAM).] The picture of New-York; or, the traveller's guide, through the commercial metropolis of the United States. By a gentleman residing in this city. New York, 1807. 16°. The first New York city guide book. Although called "Picture," there are no illustrations or even a map; but the author realized the deficiency and promised to add these things "for the improvement of the next edition."

MIX (DAVID E. E.). Catalogue Maps and surveys in the offices of the Secretary of State, State Engineer and Surveyor, and Comptroller, and New York State Library. Albany, 1859. 8°.

A very useful catalogue, though among the important items noted many were in the New York State Library and destroyed in the Capitol fire of 1911. There is a list of the maps and plans in the office of the State Engineer and Surveyor, printed in 1911, and those maps were not affected by the fire.

MOTT (HOPPER STRIKER). The road to the Bowwrie; historically, cartographically and genealogically considered, in Americana, vol. 8 (1913), pp. 483-504, 573-607, 719-738.

Carries the history of the Bowwry down to post-Revolutionary times.

[MOTT (WILLIAM F.).] Old buildings of New York city, with some notes regarding their origin and occupants. New York, 1907. 8°.

MULLALLY (JOHN). The new parks beyond the Harlem, with thirty illustrations and map. Descriptions of scenery. Nearly 4,000 acres of free playground for the people. New York, 1887. 12°.

The author was secretary of the commission that inaugurated this movement which proved to be so successful for the city. It is the only authentic history of the subject.

NEW YORK CITY. A coming New York centenary, in American Historical Magazine, vol. 1 (1906), pp. 189-192.

An editorial article calling attention to the centenary of "An act relative to improvements, touching the laying out of streets and roads in the city of New York," passed April 3, 1807.

NEW YORK CITY.—ART COMMISSION. Works of art belonging to the city of New York. New York, 1909. Royal 8°. Illustrated.

Describes the portraits and other paintings, and sculptures and other works of art in the City Hall, or in the parks, squares, etc., which are the property of the city.

NEW YORK CITY.—BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS OF TAXES AND ASSESSMENTS. Tax map of the first to sixth wards of the city of New York. Printed under the direction of William T. Black, 1870. 6 vols. F°.

NEW YORK CITY.—COMMON COUNCIL: MANUAL. An index to the illustrations in the "Manuals of the Corporation of the City of New York," 1841-1890. New York: Published by the Society of Iconophiles, 1906. 8°. Portrait of David T. Valentine, by C. W. Jarvis.

The introduction sketches the life of Valentine and describes a set of the Manual. It was written by William Loring Andrews. The "Index" was compiled by Richard H. Lawrence, the secretary of the Society. It is subdivided into four lists, as follows: Plates and maps to a full set in the order of the annuals; map and plans of the city of New York and vicinity; miscellaneous maps; facsimiles, letters, signatures, documents, broadsides, and certificates. There is also a general index. The edition of this useful guide to the illustrative matter was limited to 250 copies.

NEW YORK CITY.—DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE. Colonial highways of greater New York. A discussion of the present interest of the city therein. Reports of Herman A. Metz, Comptroller, to Commissioners of the Sinking Fund, 1907-1908. [New York, 1908.] 4°. Maps, etc.

Prepared by Robert Jordan, Examiner. The facsimile maps showing Kingsbridge and Boston Post Roads are taken from the Commissioners' map of 1811. The comptroller says the investigation "made it apparent that the City should take some definite steps toward reclaiming old records," and that "care should be taken to preserve the old documents."

NEW YORK CITY.—DIRECTORIES. Lists of taxable inhabitants have been printed in Rec. N. Am., for 1653 (I: 66ff.), for 1653 (I: 367ff.); a census of houses in New Amsterdam was made on July 10, 1660

(see ICONOGRAPHY, II: 349ff.); list of subscribers for a loan to the city in February, 1664, in Rec. N. Am., V: 30ff.; street directory "of the burghers and inhabitants" assessed in 1665, ibid., V: 221ff.; contributors to the repair of Fort James, July 4-26, 1672, in Min. Exec. Coun. (Palists), II: 704ff.; assessment list of Nov. 10, 1676, in M. C. C., I: 29ff.; list of members of the Dutch Church, and their residences, 1686, by Domine Selyns, is printed in several places, but best in Year Book of the Holland Society of New York, 1916; census of "about the year 1703," in Doc. Hist. N. Y. (1850), I: 393ff. Three poll lists of 1761, 1768, 1769, were printed privately in an edition of fifty copies, each (New York, 1880), and some other lists are shown in Flagg and Jennings's Bibl. of N. Y. Colonial History, 425ff. Contemporary printed directories began to appear in 1786. See a chronological list, 1653-1900, in Bulletin of New York Public Library, vol. 5 (1901), pp. 190-195.

The first printed directory was compiled by David Franks, advertised in The New-York Packet, Dec. 1, 1785, and in the New York Gazetteer, and The County Journal, from Dec. 9, 1785, to Feb. 10, 1786. It was actually published on Feb. 11, 1786. Announcement was made that "The New-York Directory, will, in future, be published every twentieth day of May in each Year." Franks was a "Conveyancer and Accountant," who, before coming to America, as he says, "served a regular apprenticeship to his father, a very eminent attorney in Dublin." He issued another directory in 1787, from which one learns that his full name was David Carroll Franks. This was his last and is so rare as to be known in only one copy, that of the New York Historical Society, from which the New York Public Library has a photostat copy. His first directory of 1786 is also a collector's nugget. The very fine Robert Hoe copy was bought from a dealer by J. Clarence Davies for $2750 in 1912 (N. Y. Times, Oct. 20, 1912). Other copies are in the Henry E. Huntington Library, New York Historical Society (two), American Geographical Society, Columbia University, Association of the Bar of the City of New York, New York Public Library (title in facsimile), Frederick R. Halsey's collection (title in facsimile). The first directory has been reprinted in 1851, 1874, 1876, and, by the Trow Directory Co. [1886]. Reprints have been fixed up, stained to give them the appearance of age, put in an old cover, and offered the unwary as originals. See Hebermann's article on "New York's first directory," in Records of U. S. Catholic Hist. Society, vol. 5 (1907), pp. 52-72. The two directories of Franks embrace really only a selective list of names for business uses, rather than a list of heads of families, or to serve as a general directory. The 1786 issue has about 1000 names, whilst the population of the city in that year was about 24,000.

Due to confusion in street numbers, the common council, on Dec. 30, 1793, ordered readjustment of numbering, changed certain streets' names, etc. Some results of this order are to be seen in the directory of 1794, which has "an account of the Alterations of the Names of several of the Streets in the City of New York."

No directory was issued in 1788, but in 1789 a volume was published by Hodge, Allen and Campbell, entitled: "The New York Directory and Register for the Year 1789. Illustrated with an accurate and elegant Plan of the City of New-York, and part of Long-Island, including the Suburbs, with all the Streets, Lanes, Public Buildings, Wharves, &c. exactly laid down, from the latest Survey." From this time onward a directory was published for the city, in some years more than one, down to our times, when the telephone directories have filled with greater frequency and accuracy the needs of swift intercommunication.

The directories down into the War of 1812 period continue to reveal the vagaries of street numbers in the city. They have for the historian many chances of discovering almost unconscious evidences in the detective work required of research. Longworth's directories are a noteworthy series of volumes. That for the year 1811-1812 gives a list of names in the directories from 1790 (about 4250) to the current directory (17,500).

NEW YORK CITY.—MAPS AND ATLASES. Check list of maps and atlases relating to the city of New York [1610-1900] in the New York Public Library, in Bulletin of the library, vol. 5 (1901), pp. 60-73.

NEW YORK CITY.—VIEWS. Check list of engraved views of the city of New York in the New York Public Library in Bulletin of the library, vol. 5 (1901), pp. 222-226.

NEW YORK MIRROR. New York, 1828-1838. Vols. VI-XVI. Royal 8°.

The periodical was founded by Samuel Woodworth and was continued by George P. Morris, Nathaniel P. Willis, and Theodore S. Fay. It has many fine engravings by Asher Bunn Durand and James Smillie. For a list of more than 40 views in the above volumes, see Andrews (W. L.). Journey of Iconophiles, pp. 41-42.

NEW YORK PICTORIAL BUSINESS DIRECTORY. New York: Published by E. Jones, etc., 1849-1850. 8°.

Consists of Fulton Street east of Broadway, Maiden Lane, William and Wall Streets.

NEW YORK STREET VIEWS. New York, published by Tallis & Co., 1863. 8°.

- [STANFORD (THOMAS N.).] A concise description of the city of New York. Giving an account of its early history, public buildings, amusements, exhibitions, benevolent and literary institutions; together with other interesting information. New York, May, 1814. 24^s.
This curious little pocket guide has a frontispiece view of Stollenwerck's mechanical panorama, which was being exhibited on Broadway at the time. There is also a copy of the Bridges plan of the city, 1807, engraved by Peter Maverick, in the copy of the book in the New York Public Library.
- STAPLEY (MILDRED). The last Dutch farmhouses in New York City, in Architectural Record, vol. 32 (1912), pp. 23-36.
- STAUFFER (DAVID MCNEELY). American engravers upon copper and steel. Part I Biographical sketches illustrated—Part II Check-List of the works of the earlier engravers. New York: The Grolier Club, 1907. 2 vols. 8°. Illustrated.
The edition consisted of 350 copies on imported mold-made paper, and three copies on imperial Japan paper. For a supplementary volume, see Fielding (Mantle).
- STEVENS (JOHN AUSTIN). The physical evolution of New York city in a hundred years, 1807-1907, in Amer. Hist. Mag., vol. 2 (1907), pp. 24-43, 92-128, 173-186, 242-260.
- STEVENS (S.). New York city water front. Letter . . . to the commissioners of the sinking fund, giving some account of how New York acquired her water front [etc.]. New York, 1886. 8°.
From the City Record, September 22, 1886.
- TAYLOR (ASHER). A hand book of streets & distances, showing the length, and intermediate distance from street to street, of all the streets in the city of New-York. Compiled for use in the Mayor's office. New York, 1851. 24°.
The compiler was "First Marshal" in the Mayor's office. One of the uses of the table was to determine distances travelled by cartmen and hackmen, so that persons employing them might verify the charges for service.
- TIEHNOVEN (CORNELIS VAN). Information relative to taking up land in New Netherlands, 1650, in Doc. Hist. of N. Y., vol. 4.
- TUTTLE (H. CROWSWELL). Abstracts of farm titles in the city of New York, between 30th and 120th streets, East side, and between 39th and 73d streets west of the common lands, excepting Glass house farm. With maps. New York, 1877-1881. 3 vols. Royal 8°.
The above title is a composite of the three volumes. The work is important and forms a kind of real estate title plant, with numerous colored maps. Printed with wide margins and supplied with blank interleaved paper, so as to admit of annotation by lawyers. The work is based upon original records and maps in the New York county Register's office, in the Land Office at Albany, etc.
- ULMANN (ALBERT). A landmark history of New York. Also the origin of street names and a bibliography. New York, 1901. 12°. Illustrated.
Told in story form "particularly to interest the young," but having in view to interest the teacher and the student of history. Most of the earlier illustrations are fictitious. The book gives the wording of many landmark tablets, but does not point out the fact that some of them are erroneous either as to location or data; and the text, even when allowance is made for the story-telling form, has egregious mistakes.
- New York's historic sites: landmarks, monuments and tablets. [New York], cop. 1902. 31 pp. Oblong 32°.
- UNITED STATES GEOLOGICAL SURVEY. Geologic atlas of the United States. New York City folio, no. 83. Washington, D. C., 1902. F°.
Besides the maps it contains text on the general geography, geology and physiographic features of the district. Thoroughly scientific.
- VAN NEST (ALEXANDER T.), chairman. Report to the Holland Society of New-York . . . on "tablets" to be placed on sites of historic interest in the city. New York, cop. 1890. F°.
This report is dated December 26, 1889. In its present form it is a reprint from the Year Book of this society.
- VIELE (EGBERT LUDOVICKUS). The topography and hydrology of New York. New York, 1865. 8°.
Has a large topographical map showing original watercourses and made land. There is a reissue of the map on five sheets, New York, 1874.
The topographical and physical resources of the State of New York. An address. New York [1875?]. 8°.
- The transal of the city of New York. New York, 1880. 16°.
With a map, 53 x 13 inches, from 130th Street, north, to Spuyten Duyvel.
- The west plateau of the city of New York. New York, 1879. 16°.
- WADE AND CROOME'S. Panorama of the Hudson River from New York to Albany. Drawn from nature & engraved by William Wade. New York, 1845. 16°. Text and panorama view.
Published by J. Disturnell; original copyright of the panorama, 1845. There is a reissue with text dated 1846; and an edition of the panorama with copyright, 1846 and dated 1847, having the text dated 1847. In this edition "Waterford" replaces "Albany" in the title of the panorama. This long panorama view was issued both plain and colored.
- WALLACE (W. H.). Views and prints of old New York. A notice of some prints and sources of pictures and maps of old New York, 1633-1878, in Journal of American History, vol. 17 (1923), pp. 149-168.
- WEITENKAMPF (FRANK). The Eno collection of New York City views. New York, 1915. 8°. Illustrated.
The collection was willed to the New York Public Library by Amos F. Eno. Also in the Library's Bulletin, vol. 25, pp. 327-354, 385-435.
- WILLIAMS (EDWIN). New-York as it is, in 1833; and citizens' advertising directory. Containing, a general description of the city and environs . . . with a correct map of the city. New York: Published by J. Disturnell, 1833. 24°.
The map is copyrighted 1833. There is a steel-engraved frontispiece of the "Brooklyn Ferry, Fulton St.," drawn by C. Burton, engraved by Hatch & Smillie.
- WILLIAMS (JESSE LYNCH). New York sketches. With illustrations. New York, 1902. 8°.
Contents: The water-front; the walk up-town; the cross streets; and rural New York city. All contemporary description.

Issued for a number of years with some variations of title.
- WINSON (JUSTIN). The cartography of the northeast coast of North America, 1535-1600, in his America, vol. 4, pp. 81-102.
- ZEISLOFT (E. IDELL), editor. The new metropolis. Memorable events of three centuries, 1600-1900, from the Island of Mana-ha-ta to greater New York at the close of the nineteenth century. New York [1899-1900]. Text volume with illustrations, oblong 4°, and two oblong portfolios with 12 cardmounted views in each.
An autograph memorial edition de luxe of 250 copies. There are 1,000 engravings, half-tones, etc. including a number of reproductions of early New York views, portraits, maps, etc., many being full-page plates in colors and tints on Japan paper; also a sectional map with prominent buildings in the margins. The two portfolios are labeled "Pictures of old New York," the plates they contain are copies from Valentine's Manual and from original prints in private collections. Each plate is printed on linen paper and mounted on a mat.

(f) BENCH AND BAR

- BROOKS (JAMES W.). History of the Court of Common Pleas of the city and county of New York. With full account of all important proceedings. New York, 1896. 8°. Illustrated. Edition 100 copies.
For the original records of Common Pleas see the Bibliography division I, subdivision A, sub-group (m).
- DALY (CHARLES PATRICK). Historical sketch of the judicial tribunals of New York, from 1623 to 1846. New York, 1855. 8°.
This is the separate issue of the sketch written as an introduction to the first volume of E. Delafield Smith's reports of New York Court of Common Pleas. Very important and done in the thorough manner characteristic of Judge Daly.
- McADAM (DAVID), and others. History of the bench and bar of New York. New York, 1897. 2 vols. Royal 8°.
Vol. 1 in part contains: "State of Jurisprudence during the Dutch Period, 1623-1674," by Charles P. Daly; English Colonial Policy and Judicial Administration, 1664-1776," by A. A. Redfield; "Judicial Organization and Legal Administration from 1796 to the Constitution of 1846," by Charles H. Truax; "Constitutional and related Aspects, from 1801 to the Constitution of 1894," by Robert Ludlow Fowler. Part of this volume and all of the second volume consist of legal biography.
- RUTHERFORD (LIVINGSTON). John Peter Zenger. His press, his trial and a bibliography of Zenger imprints . . . also a reprint of the first edition of the Trial. New York, 1904. 8°.
Important for the history of New York in the third decade of the eighteenth century. The bibliography, pp. 137-169, covers the years 1725 to 1751. A census of Zenger's newspaper fills pp. 259-267. There are 17 illustrations, portraits and facsimiles. Edition 325 copies on deckle-edge paper and 35 copies on Japan paper.
- VOUSBURGH (ROYDEN WOODWARD). Surrogates' courts and records in the Colony and State of New York, 1664-1847, in Quarterly Journal of the New York State Historical Association, vol. 3 (1922), pp. 105-116.
An interesting and illuminating study on the subject with reference to the law and the practice.

(g) EDUCATION

ANDREWS (WILLIAM LORING). The old booksellers of New York and other papers. New York, 1895. 12°. Illustrated.

These papers were prepared for and appeared in part in The Bookman. In this book form they are given "with embellishments consisting of head and tail pieces, initial letters and three full-page copper-plate engravings by Mr. E. Davis French." The three engravings are Trinity Church, Nassau Street in 1895, and Government House in 1795. The booksellers are discussed in part i; the first illustrated magazine published in New York forms part ii; and part iii is about the early American almanac. The edition of the book was limited to 142 copies, of which 122 were on hand-made paper, with plates on Imperial Japan paper; ten copies on hand-made paper, with plates on India paper, mounted; and ten copies on Imperial Japan paper, with additional proof of each plate before letter.

BOESE (THOMAS). Public education in the city of New York: its history, condition, and statistics. An official report to the Board of Education. New York, 1869. 8°. Illustrated.

Particularly important for the history of the Board of Education of New York City, founded in 1842, of which board the author was clerk. Chap. XVII gives an account of the schoolhouses of the city; chap. XVIII contains the laws relative to public instruction, and chap. XX is a chronological table from 1614 to 1842.

BOURNE (WILLIAM OLAND). History of the Public School Society of the city of New York. New York, 1870. 8°.

Based upon original records and researches, this work presents the only reliable history of public education in the city for nearly half a century, until the dissolution of the society in 1853, when it became merged in the Board of Education, constituted by law in 1842. Full particulars are given of its buildings. Chapter XX contains historical notes of public schools nos. 1 to 15. Documents are printed throughout the text and there is also an appendix with documents from 1825 to 1841. The original records are in the New York Historical Society, reported upon in division I, subdivision A, sub-head (h).

DUNSENE (HENRY WEBB). History of the school of the Collegiate Reformed Dutch Church in the city of New York, from 1633 to 1883. Second edition, revised and enlarged. New York, 1883. 8°. Illustrated.

First published in 1853. The cut on p. xix of the second edition represents the Garden Street church as remodeled in 1766, hence the inscription it bears on the plate is incorrect. A view of the church as rebuilt in 1807 was issued in 1887 to be inserted between pp. xviii and xix and is found in some copies.

KEEF (AUSTIN BAXTER). History of the New York Society Library, with an introductory chapter on libraries in colonial New York, 1698-1776. [New York], 1908. 8°. Illustrated.

The introductory chapter on libraries was also issued separately (New York, 1909). Aside from its main subject, this work has value for the educational, social, and political history of New York City.

KEMP (WILLIAM WEBB). The support of schools in colonial New York by the Society for the propagation of the gospel in foreign parts. New York, 1913. 8°. (Teachers College, Columbia University. Contributions to Education, no. 56.) Also issued separately, 1914.

KILPATRICK (WILLIAM HEARD). The Dutch schools of New Netherlands and colonial New York. Washington, 1912. 8°. (United States Bureau of Education. Bulletin, 1912, no. 12; whole number 483).

The fifteen chapters of this worthy monograph were derived mainly from source-material. They "trace the history of these Dutch schools, beginning with their first transplanting from the United Netherlands and continuing down to the American Revolution, by which time the Dutch population was in large measure merged in the common American stock."

LYDENBERG (HARRY MILLER). History of the New York Public Library. New York, 1923. Royal 8°. Illustrated.

Appeared first in Bulletin of the library, at various times from July, 1916, to September, 1921. As revised and reprinted, the articles make this interesting volume about the consolidated library history.

II-F. (h) ECONOMICS AND GOVERNMENT (Continued)

- An excellent study and of much value for an understanding of the various New York City political committees and activities of the State of Liberty. A fine bibliographical list is on pp. 277-289.
- Nominations of colonial New York, in American Historical Review, vol. 6 (1901), pp. 260-275.
- CHAMBER OF COMMERCE OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK. Colonial records, 1768-1784, edited by John Austin Stevens. New York, 1867. 8°. Also large paper, royal 8°.
- These are the regular minutes of the Chamber.
- Earliest arbitration records. . . . Committee minutes, 1779-1792. Printed from the original manuscript in the New York Public Library. [New York, 1913. Small 4°.
- These records supplement the regular minutes of the Chamber, being the full minutes of the committee which settled commercial disputes that arose among the merchants and with others. They are the earliest records of the Chamber relating to arbitrations. The system of commercial arbitration has been followed by the Chamber from that time to the present day.
- COSTELLO (AUGUSTINE E.). Our firemen. A history of the New York fire departments. Volunteer and paid. New York, 1887. 8°. Illustrated.
- Published by subscription. An "Extra Library Edition," bound in full turkey morocco, was printed on a calendared paper.
- Our police protectors. History of the New York police from the earliest period to the present time. [New York, 1885. 8°. Illustrated.
- At least three editions were published in this year. The author was a reporter in charge of the Police Bureau of the New York Herald. The proceeds from the sale of the book were devoted to the Police pension fund.
- DALY (CHARLES PATRICK). The origin and history of the New York Fire Department, printed first in chap. XII of William L. Stone's History of New York City. New York, 1872, pp. 563ff.
- DAVIES (HENRY E.). Laws of the State of New York relating particularly to the city of New York. New York, 1855. 8°.
- Prepared at the request of the Common Council and contains the titles of acts from 1691-1854; the charters of the city; and such portions of the Revised Statutes as relate to the city. Indexed. There was an earlier work of this kind published in 1833, and a later edition by D. T. Valentine.
- DAWSON (HENRY BARTON). The Sons of Liberty in New York. Printed [at Poughkeepsie], as manuscript, for private circulation, 1859. 8°.
- This paper was read before the New York Historical Society, May 3, 1859. The errata printed at the foot of p. 118 are dated Nov. 14, 1860. It is really a survey of the struggle for popular rights during the entire English colonial period.
- DE VOE (THOMAS FARRINGTON). The market assistant; containing a brief description of every article of human food sold in the markets of New York, Boston, Philadelphia, and Brooklyn. [New York, 1867. 8°.
- The market book containing a historical account of the public markets in the cities of New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Brooklyn. New York, 1862. 8°. Vol. I, all published.
- The author was a butcher and cattle-dealer and served for a time as superintendent of markets in New York.

- DOMETT (HENRY W.). A history of the Bank of New York, 1784-1884. Compiled from official records and other sources. New York, 1884. Square 8°.
- The New York Public Library has a copy of this edition with extra illustrations, autographs, etc., inserted. A third edition of the history was printed by the Riverside Press, Cambridge, Mass., in 1902. This edition was entirely reset and has additions to the appendix and changes in the illustrations.
- DURAND (EDWARD DANA). The finances of New York City. New York, 1898. 12°.
- The periods covered in this excellent treatise are: The early city, 1652-1830; council government under the charter of 1830, from 1830-1849; period of independent executive departments and of legislative interference, from 1849-1869; the Tweed Ring, 1869-1871; the modern period, 1871-1897. Has a few curious errors, e. g. p. 53, locating the Kolck or Collect pond "north of what is now Central Park," instead of City Hall Park.
- EASTMAN (WILLIAM REED). Some municipal problems that vexed the founders. An address . . . delivered . . . December 14, 1906. [New York, 1906.] 8°. (New York Society of Order of Founders and Patriots. Publication no. 17.)

- HARDENBROOK (WILLIAM TEN EYCK). Financial New York. A history of the banking and financial institutions of the metropolis. New York and Chicago, 1897-[1898]. 4°. Illustrated.
- The "édition de luxe" issued in four sections, forming together a volume of pp. vii + 382. The author says: "The scope of this history will not permit the discussion and elaboration of those important questions of finance which a perusal of the records offer temptingly to view, and it may suffice for our readers to find in these pages those salient points of interest which testify to the inception, growth, and present maturity of the financial institutions of the metropolis." He adds: "The author has endeavored to execute his trust with candor and fidelity, avoiding as much as possible all false coloring and exaggeration, having had recourse when possible to original documents and manuscripts, records and archives, which may with safety be relied upon for historical purposes." The work is very fully illustrated, especially with authentic portraits "secured from the families or descendants." A chapter of considerable value on the "Financial History of the City of New York, 1652-1897," fills pp. 308-364. The early portions, however, to about 1857, are drawn almost literally from Valentine's Manual for 1859, pp. 496-537. Other chapters of the volume are: "The Clearing House Association;" "Colonial Money and Credit Issues;" "The Bank of New York National Banking Association;" "The First Bank of the United States;" "The Second Bank of the United States;" "The Merchants' National Bank;" "The National Bank of Commerce in New York;" "The Independent Treasury System—The New York Sub-Treasury," contributed by Maurice L. Muhleman; "The Chase National Bank;" "The Bank of Savings," and "The Greenwich Savings Bank."

O'CALLAGHAN (EDMUND BAILEY), editor. Laws and ordinances of New Netherland, 1638-1674. Albany, 1868. 8°.

This is an indispensable volume for the administrative, legal, economic, and social history of the Dutch province. The translations were made from the original archives in the possession of the State of New York. Different translations from the city clerk's archives, covering some of the same ordinances, are printed at the beginning of Fernow's Records of New Amsterdam, vol. 1.

PALTSTITS (VICTOR HUGO). The transition from Dutch to English government in the city of New York, in Pine's Seal and Flag of the city of New York (1915).

Refers to the inauguration of mayor, aldermen, and sheriff, in June, 1665, and of which the 250th anniversary was celebrated on June 24, 1915.

PANICS. The panics may be traced in the general work of William Ten Eyck Hardenbrook's Financial New York (New York and Chicago, 1897-1898), and in Fifty Years in Wall Street, by Henry Clews (New York, 1908). For the panic of 1857 see The banks of New York . . . and the panic of 1837, by J. S. Gibbons (New York, 1858); the panic of 1873 is covered in Bulls and bears of New York, with the crisis of 1873, and the cause, by M. H. Smith (Hartford, 1874).

PETERSON (ARTHUR EVERETT) and George William Edwards. New York as an eighteenth century municipality. New York, 1917. 8°.

Dr. Peterson wrote part I, covering the period prior to 1731, and Dr. Edwards in part II has covered the years 1731-1776. These studies were prepared as dissertations for the doctorate in Columbia University, appearing first in that institution's Studies in History, Economics and Public Law, and they were also published together in book form, with illustrations and a documentary appendix. The result is a particularly valuable contribution to the history of municipal methods during the Dutch and English periods of the city's career. There is much to show the way in which the people lived as a community; how trade and industry were regulated; how streets were laid out, paved, and lighted; how docks and ferries began and were administered; how police protection and fire prevention were provided; how charities and correction were disposed of, etc., etc. The studies are derived from the public archives of the city, as well as from manuscripts in other jurisdictions, and from printed official documents and other contemporary sources.

SCHOOLCRAFT (HENRY L.). The capture of New Amsterdam, in English Historical Review, vol. 22 (1907), pp. 674-693.

An economic interpretation and goes into the diplomatic phases. The author says: "The capture of New Amsterdam by the English was one in a series of events which issued into the first Dutch war of the Restoration. The war itself grew out of the struggle for trade which was bequeathed to the two countries by the war of 1652."

TENEMENT HOUSE DEPARTMENT OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK. First to seventh reports. January 1, 1902, to 1914. 8 vols. 8°. Illustrated. Continued.

The first report, in two substantial volumes, covers January, 1902, to July, 1903. It is an exceedingly important set and has had a good deal to do with the spread of tenement house reform in the United States.

VALENTINE (DAVID THOMAS). A compilation of the existing ferry leases and railroad grants made by the corporation of the city of New York, together with the grants from the legislature of the state to use the streets of the city for railroad purposes. Also the various ordinances, resolutions, &c., passed by the common council, relating to, or affecting the same. New York, 1866. 8°.

The period covered is 1856-1866. An earlier edition compiled by Charles T. McClenahan was published by order of the Common Council in 1860.

VEILLER (LAWRENCE). Tenement house reform in New York, 1834-1900. Prepared for the Tenement House Commission of 1900. New York, 1900. 8°.

Has a list of books on the tenement house problem, 1842-1899. The author was secretary to the commission.

HEADLEY (JOEL TYLER). The great riots of New York, 1712 to 1873 including a full . . . account of the four days' draft riot of 1863. New York, 1873. 12°. Illustrated.

A good and readable account based upon original sources. Official reports on the draft riots are printed on pp. 331-359.

HILLARD D'AUBERTIEUL (M. R.). Essai historique et politique sur les Anglo-Américains. Bruxelles, 1781-1782. 2 vols.

Vol. 2, pt. 1, p. 30, has an account of the burning of New York City by the Americans, Sept. 20-21, 1776, with a picture.

[HORSMANDEN (DANIEL).] A journal of the proceedings in the detection of the conspiracy formed by some white people, in conjunction with negro and other slaves, for burning the city of New-York in America, and murdering the inhabitants. Which conspiracy was partly put in execution, by burning his majesty's house in Fort George . . . on . . . the eighteenth of March, 1741, and setting fire to several dwelling and other houses there, within a few days succeeding. And by another attempt made . . . on the fifteenth day of February, 1742. New York: Printed by James Parker . . . 1744. 4°.

This is the original edition of one of the landmark books in the history of the city of New York written by the city's Recorder. It is counted among the rarities and is particularly rare with a half-title. The New York Public Library has the George Bancroft copy and on the verso of the half-title is written: "August 23rd, 1744. This Book was receiv'd with a Lett^r from M^r Horsmanden, one of the Judges of the Supreme Court at New York." Other copies of the original edition are in New York Historical Society, New York Society Library, Library Company of Phila., Harvard University, John Carter Brown Library, Pequot Library at Southport, Conn., Henry E. Huntington Library, British Museum, and in the several private collections.

The other editions of the work are London, reprinted and sold by John Clarke, 1747. 8°; New York, 1810. 8°, which is a reprint of the first edition; New York, 1851. 8°, edited by W. B. Wedgwood. An abridgment from the 1810 edition was published at Philadelphia, 1899, under the title: The trial of John Ury . . . one of the conspirators in the Negro plot to burn the city of New York, 1741.

—The New-York conspiracy, or a history of the negro plot . . . 1741-2. New-York, 1810. 8°.

The reprint edition, in the preface of which reference is made to the fact that already in 1810 the original edition of 1744 "had become so extremely scarce, that it was with the utmost difficulty a perfect copy could be obtained for the present edition."

INGERSOLL (HENRY H.). The New York negro plot of 1741, in Green Bag, vol. 20 (1908), pp. 130-138.

A very good summary of the case in this legal periodical.

MILLER (EDWARD). Report on the malignant disease, which prevailed in the city of New York, in the autumn of 1805: addressed to the governor of the State of New York. [New York, 1806.] 12°.

The author was resident physician for the city. His introductory note is a physiographic description of Manhattan Island. Recommendations are made with respect to improvements of wharves, docks, sewers, etc. On pp. 91ff. is a "Report of the General Committee of Health," in which important plans are made, including physical changes of the city. On p. 98 is a census of the inhabitants by wards.

RIOTS. On the Astor Place riot of May, 1849, consult Account of the terrific and fatal riot at New-York Astor Place Opera House (New York, 1849). For the draft riots of July, 1863, see The draft riots in New York, by D. M. Barnes (New York, 1863); New York and the conscription of 1863, by J. B. On the riot of August, 1900, consult The story of the riot, by Frank Moss and others, issued by the Citizens' Protective League (New York, 1900). Original official records exist, recorded in Reports on the City and County Archives, supra, I-A (c), etc.

EVJEN (JOHN OLUF). Scandinavian immigrants in New York, 1630-1674. . . some Scandinavians in New York in the eighteenth century, German immigrants in New York, 1630-1674. Minneapolis, 1916. 8°. Illustrated.

This volume "is in the main based on primary sources." The author's preface is a good discussion of these sources. He has made a collection of biographical articles of value for the social and cultural history of New Netherlands. The chapter "Retrospect" on pp. 346ff. is particularly commendable; but there are a number of bogus pictures in the volume.

HOFFMAN (CHARLES FENNO). The pioneers of New-York. An anniversary discourse delivered before the St. Nicholas Society of Manhattan, December 6, 1847. New York, 1848. 8°.

A defence of the old New Yorkers against the New England historians. It is regrettable that this inaccurate work should have been reissued, in 1912, by the St. Nicholas Society, in imitation of the original pamphlet and without correction by annotation.

OGDEN (JAMES DE PEYSTER). The founders of New-York; being the anniversary address . . . before the St. Nicholas Society. New York, 1846. 8°.

Illustrates a trait of the period of addresses pleasantly written, but not much on facts.

OPPENHEIM (SAMUEL). The early history of the Jews in New York, 1654-1664. Some new matter on the subject. New York, 1909. 8°. Also in Publications of the American Jewish Historical Society, no. 18 (1909).

Valuable for the subject of the arrival and subsequent treatment of the Jews in the Dutch province, as well as for the first publication of certain Dutch documents and careful translations. The sparsity of data and their faulty use by previous writers has led Mr. Oppenheim into a pardonable argumentative method of presentation. This process has helped to bring forward convincing although careful conclusions.

As a supplement to this work, see his "More about Jacob Barsimson, the first Jewish settler in New York," in Publications of the American Jewish Historical Society (1925), no. 29.

PUTNAM (RUTH). The Dutch element in the United States, in Bijdragen voor Vaderlandsche Geschiedenis, vierde reeks, negende deel (1910), pp. 169.

Contains the same old errors about the first settling of New Netherlands; the first children born there, etc. As a study of the Dutch element itself it has some interest.

SINGLETON (ESTHER). Dutch New York. New York, 1909. 8°. Illustrated.

A compilation of the social history of the Dutch element in old New York.

(k) RELIGION AND CHURCHES

BAYLEY (JAMES ROOSEVELT). A brief sketch of the early history of the Catholic Church on the island of New York. 2d edition, revised and enlarged. New York, 1870. 12°.

Useful for data about church buildings. First published in 1853.

BENHAM (W. HAMILTON). The churches and clergy of colonial New York, in Proceedings of New York State Historical Association, vol. 16 (1917), pp. 82-102.

BENNETT (WILLIAM HARPER). Catholic footsteps in old New York. A chronicle of catholicity in New York from 1524 (sic) to 1808. New York, 1909. 8°. Illustrated.

BERRIAN (WILLIAM). An historical sketch of Trinity Church, New-York. New York, 1847. 8°.

An appendix (pp. 321-386) includes "Subscriptions towards building the steeple," 1711; "Subscriptions towards enlarging the church," 1736; "Grants, gifts, and loans of Trinity Church;" documents, etc. There are eight plates, lithographs and engravings on steel or wood. The author used the Minutes of the Vestry from the foundation of the parish, the Proceedings of the S. P. G., Smith's History of New York and secondary sources. For the half-century prior to publication, the author drew also from his own recollections.

BRAY (THOMAS). Apostolic Charity, its Nature and Excellence considered. In a Discourse . . . Preached at St. Pauls, Decemb. 19, 1697, at the Ordination of some Protestant Missionaries to be sent into the Plantations. To which is Prefixed, A General View of the English Colonies in America, with respect to Religion; [etc.]. London, 1698. Sm. 4°.

The "General View" is a tabulation of ecclesiastical and library statistics in each colony, with occasional elucidations. This is the first edition and is excessively rare. Copies are in the New York Public Library, Maryland Historical Society, and Henry E. Huntington Library. There were other early editions, and a modern reprint was edited by Bernard C. Steiner as Fund Publication, no. 37, of the Maryland Historical Society (Baltimore, 1901). The tract has slight historical value for New York. It has the first printed mention of the existence of a library in the city of New York.

CASE (THE) of the Scotch Presbyterians, of the city of New-York. New-York, 1773. 8°.

Relates to the successive but unsuccessful attempts made from 1720 to 1766 by the Presbyterians to obtain a charter of incorporation for their church. The "Case" is stated on pp. 3-10, whilst petitions and other important documents, of primary evidence, are in an appendix, pp. 11-36; also mentions the early houses of worship. Copies are in the New York Public Library and the Library of Congress.

CORWIN (EDWARD TANJORE). A manual of the Reformed Church in America, (formerly Ref. Prot. Dutch Church), 1628-1902. Fourth edition, revised and enlarged. New York, 1902. 8°. Illustrated.

This is the author's last revision of this important work, of which earlier editions were published in 1859, 1860 and 1879. It is one of the best histories of a religious denomination in the United States, but must be used with caution as it has numerous errors. A 5th edition, edited by his son, Charles Edward Corwin, was published in 1922.

DISOSWAY (GABRIEL POILLON). The earliest churches of New York and its vicinity. New York, 1865. 8°. Illustrated.

Written originally for the New York Observer in which many of the chapters appeared. The author says: "This work is not professedly a history of the earliest Churches in New York and its vicinity, but rather a contribution to such an undertaking, and one so much needed. In its composition the author has been careful to consult authentic sources, endeavoring to be as accurate and reliable as possible."

DIX (MORGAN). Historical recollections of S. Paul's Chapel, New York. To which is prefixed an account . . . of its centennial anniversary, Oct. 28th, 29th and 30th, 1866. New York, 1867. 8°. Illustrated.

—editor. A history of the parish of Trinity Church in the city of New York. Compiled by order of the Corporation. New York, 1898-1906. 4 vols. 8°. Illustrated.

Dr. Dix was mainly a general editor. The principal investigators and writers were Rev. Dr. Benjamin F. De Costa, Rev. Dr. Arthur Lowndes and Rev. Joseph Hooper. Vol. 2, pp. 285ff., relate to the title to the King's farm.

DYER (ALBION M.). The first Protestant Church in America, in The Outlook, April 21, 1894; reprinted in Collegiate Church Year Book, 1895, pp. 135-138.

EKKHOF (ALBERT). Bastiaan Jansz. Krol, kranksenbezoeker, kommissie en kommandeur van Nieuw-Nederland (1595-1645). The Hague, 1910. 8°. Map and facsimiles.

An excellent monograph in which the author's discoveries bring new light upon the civil and church history of New Netherlands in its earlier years. Of importance is a documentary appendix of 32 pages.

—De hervormde kerk in Noord-Amerika (1624-1664). Met kaart en 9 bijlagen. 's-Gravenhage, 1913. 2 vols. 8°.

Dr. Eekhof visited the United States in 1909, studied and made copies of Dutch records at Albany and at the Sage Library, New Brunswick, N. J. The Albany records were partly destroyed in the fire at the Capitol in 1911. The above volumes are the result of these researches as well as of discoveries the author made in Holland. His work is indispensable to the church historian and to him who seeks to understand the Dutch régime of New Netherlands. There are chapters concerning Krol, Michælius, Bogardus, and other Dutch ecclesiastics; of the history of the congregations at New Amsterdam and other parts of New Netherlands; and there is an appendix of Dutch documents, including the letter of Michælius to Joannes Forest, August 8, 1628, Megapoliensis letters, and the letter of Driusius announcing to the Classis at Amsterdam the surrender of New Netherlands in 1664.

—Jonas Michælius, founder of the Church in New Netherlands; his life and work. Leyden, 1926. 8°. Illustrated.

Dr. Eekhof, Professor of Church History at the University of Leyden, presents in this study much that is new about the first Dutch minister in New Netherlands, his family and his career. Notable is the discovery by him of a new letter of Michælius, written in Latin, in 1630, and two letters written to the minister. Besides giving the new Michælius letter in facsimile, the volume contains the texts and English translations of all the letters—the two of 1628, and the three newly-discovered ones. See also Michælius.

EVERGREEN (THE) or monthly church offerings: A repository [etc.]. Edited by Joseph Salkeld. New Haven and New York, 1844-1849. 6 vols. 8°.

Contains many views, steel engravings, of New York churches by Gimbrede, Prudhomme, and others.

GREENLEAF (JONATHAN). A history of the churches of all denominations, in the city of New York, from the first settlement to the year 1846. New York, 1846. 16°.

A second edition from the same plates, but enlarged by an appendix, bringing the data down to 1850, was published in the latter year.

HALL (EDWARD HAGAMAN). The first Presbyterian Church of New York; some historical notes on the beginning of the Presbyterian denomination in the city of New York, in Annual Report of American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society, vol. 22 (1917), pp. 567-667.

Relates particularly to the First Church on Wall Street, and the first Brick Church.

HUMPHREYS (DAVID). An historical account of the incorporated Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts. Containing their foundation, proceedings, and the success of their missionaries in the British colonies, to the year 1728. London, 1730. 8°. Maps.

New York figures in chapters IX and X. The author was secretary of the society and states in his preface, thus: "This Account is compiled from Papers transmitted to the Society, by Governors of Colonies, or Persons of Note abroad; or from Congregations of People, and the Missionaries in the Plantations."

II-F. (K) RELIGION AND CHURCHES (Continued)

KNAPP (SHEPHERD). A history of the Brick Presbyterian Church in the city of New York. New York, 1900. 8°. Illustrated.

KRETZMANN (KARL). The oldest Lutheran church in America. A brief chronicle of events in the history of "The Evangelical Lutheran Church of Saint Matthew in the City of New York," 1664-1914. (New York, 1914). 8°. Illustrated.

Presents a facsimile of the first charter from Governor Richard Nicolls, December 6, 1664. The vicissitudes of Lutheranism during the Dutch period is inadequate and not altogether accurate. Beyond that point the treatment is better and new facts are recorded.

LYONS (JACQUES JUDAH). The Lyons Collection, in Publications of the American Jewish Historical Society, no. 21 (1913) and no. 27 (1920).

Vol. 1 has the earliest record of minutes of the Spanish and Portuguese congregation of New York City, and a sketch of this congregation by Naphtali Phillips; and vol. 2 has transcripts and summaries of the contents of the Lyons collection, etc.

MEAD (NELSON P.). Growth of religious liberty in New York City, in Proceedings of New York State Historical Association, vol. 17 (1919), pp. 141-153.

Relates mostly to the colonial times.

MICHAELIUS (JONAS). Letter to Joannes Foreest, of Hoorn, Holland, one time a Director of the Dutch West India Company, dated from Manhattan Island, August 8, 1628.

The original manuscript was among a consignment of manuscripts, belonging to the Forest family, sold at auction in Amsterdam, in 1902. It was bought by William Harris Arnold, of Nutley, N. J., who caused it to be published in facsimile, with an English translation, and other matter, under the title Manhattan in 1628, by Dingman Versteeg, in 1904. The original letter was sold in the Arnold sale at New York, in November, 1924, and it now belongs to the Henry E. Huntington Library, at San Marino, Cal.

It is the earliest extant original letter written on Manhattan Island, by the founder of the first organized protestant church in the U. S.—Letter to Dom. Adrianus Smoutius, a pastor of the Dutch Reformed Church at Amsterdam, dated from Manhattan Island, August 11, 1628.

The original manuscript was found among the papers of Jacobus Koning, clerk of the fourth judicial district of Amsterdam. Subsequently it was owned by Dr. George H. Moore, superintendent of the Lenox Library. After his death it was sold at the auction of his manuscripts, in 1894, to the Lenox Library, since 1895 included in the consolidated New York Public Library. The Dutch text was first printed by J. C. Bodel Nijenhuis in the Kerk-historisch Archief, part 1 (1897), pp. 356ff., and the first English translation, by Henry C. Murphy, was printed as The first minister of the Dutch Reformed Church in the United States (The Hague, 1898). This translation was reprinted in N. Y. Colonial Docs., vol. 2 (1898), pp. 757-770; in Collections of New York Historical Society, vol. 13 (1881), pp. 365-387; also accompanied by a full-size facsimile of the Dutch manuscript and a transliteration (Amsterdam, 1876); likewise (Amsterdam, 1883). Murphy's translation was revised by Rev. John G. Fagg, and with a reduced facsimile of the manuscript, is included in Year Book of (Collegiate) Reformed Protestant Dutch Church, New York City (1896), from which a separate issue also was made for private circulation (New York, 1896). Fagg's revision is also in Ecclesiastical Records of the State of New York, vol. 1 (1901), pp. 49-68, and in Jameson's Narratives of New Netherland (New York, 1909), pp. 122-133. For the latest word on Michaelius and his letters, see A. Eekhof's Jonas Michaelius (Leyden, 1926).

It is the second extant original letter written on Manhattan Island.—See also Eekhof (Albert) Jonas Michaelius (1926), for Latin letter of 1630 written by Michaelius to Joannes Foreest, and two letters written by the latter to the minister.

OLD NEW YORK and Trinity Church, in Collections of New York Historical Society for 1870, pp. 145-308.

Newspaper extracts, etc., from 1730 to 1790, relating to Trinity Church affairs.

ONDERDONK (HENRY M.). History of the Protestant Episcopal Churches in the city of New York. New York, 1844-1845. 8°. Illustrated.

OSGOOD (HERBERT LEVI), editor. The Society of Dissenters founded at New York in 1769. Minutes. In American Historical Review, vol. 6, pp. 498-507.

ST. MARK'S CHURCH. Memorial of St. Mark's Church in the Bowery. . . . Historical sketch [etc.]. Published by the Vestry. New York, 1890. Royal 8°. Illustrated.

SHORT (A) historical account of the early Society of Methodists, established in the city of New-York, in the year 1763, through means of Mr. Philip Embury, Capt. Webb, and other eminently pious advocates of the doctrines and discipline first inculcated by the Rev. John Wesley, in England. Accompanied with an accurate view of the old Methodist Chapel in John-Street, the first erected in America. New-York, 1824. Folio. Folded frontispiece.

The text is of considerable interest. There are copies in the New York Public Library and the New York Historical Society. For other particulars see our vol. 1, pp. 344-346.

SMITH (JOHN TALBOT). The Catholic church in New York. A history of the New York diocese from its establishment in 1808 to the present time. New York and Boston, cop. 1905. 2 vols. Royal 8°. Illustrated.

TWO (THE) Hundred and Fiftieth Anniversary of the settlement of the Jews in the United States. Addresses delivered at Carnegie Hall, New York, on Thanksgiving Day, 1905. Together with other selected addresses and proceedings. [New York, 1906.] 12°. Commemorative of the coming of the first Jews to New Amsterdam in 1655.

STEWART (WILLIAM RHINELANDER). Grace Church and Old New York, 1924.

WARD (SUSAN HAYES). The history of the Broadway Tabernacle church, New York, 1901. 8°. Illustrated.

WILSON (JAMES GRANT), editor. The centennial history of the Protestant Episcopal church in the diocese of New York, 1785-1885. New York, 1886. 8°. Illustrated.

An historical address was contributed by Rev. Benjamin F. De Costa, D. D., entitled: "The church and state in New York during the colonial period," pp. 87-103. Historical articles or notices of the parishes appear on pp. 203-305, including Trinity and other parishes on Manhattan Island; likewise institutions of learning and charity, on pp. 359-439. Useful is a chapter on "Church literature of the century," by Jesse Ames Spencer, pp. 433-443.

WITTMAYER (ALFRED V.), editor. Registers of the births, marriages, and deaths of the "Eglise Française à la Nouvelle York," from 1688 to 1804. . . . and historical documents relating to the French protestants in New York during the same period. New York, 1886. 8°. Illustrated. (Forms Collections of Huguenot Society of America, vol. 1.)

The illustrations are of the second, third, and fourth churches, and a facsimile record of 1709. A valuable historical introduction covers about eighty pages. The illustrative historical documents were gathered by a committee of the Huguenot Society and the notes to them were contributed by Edward F. de Lancy, its chairman. Dr. Wittmayer in a footnote on p. lxxxviii says: "The archives of the French church of New York are comparatively rich." He mentions the church registers and says, that "besides these registers, the church possesses valuable minute books, the first one of which begins, however, only in 1743; an almost unbroken series of account books, and numerous deeds, letters, reports, &c., &c." See this BIBLIOGRAPHY, division I, subdivision B, sub-group (i) 5.

II-F. (I) SOCIAL AND INSTITUTIONAL HISTORY (Continued)

As most of these letters were written from New York City, they contain a good deal of local matter for the social history of the period. There is very little of topographic interest.
- BOLTON (REGINALD PELHAM). Military camp life on upper Manhattan Island and adjacent mainland during the American Revolution, disclosed by recent archaeological excavations. With illustrations and military notes contributed by W. L. Calver, in Annual Report of American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society, vol. 20 (1915), pp. 347-501.
- Relics of the Revolution; the story of the discovery of the buried remains of military life in forts and camps on Manhattan Island. New York, 1916. 8°. Illustrated.
- BRIDGE (SAMUEL SOUTHBY). New York a hundred years ago: extracts from the diary of an English merchant who visited America in 1809, in Munsey's Magazine, vol. 40 (1909), pp. 196-205. Illustrated.
- He was in New York City from Oct. 30 to Nov. 11. Refers to public and other places, a visit to the State Prison in Greenwich village, the pedestal on which stood the statue of George III, etc.
- BROWN (THOMAS ALSTON). History of the New York stage from the first performance in 1732 to 1901. New York, 1903. 3 vols. 8°. In the form of annals of individual playhouses; revised, rewritten and extended from a series of articles contributed by him to The New York Clipper, begun in March, 1888, and continued for about five years thereafter.
- DALY (CHARLES PATRICK). First theater in America. When was the drama first introduced in America? An inquiry. New York, 1896. 8°. (Publications of Dunlap Society, new ser., no. 1.) Edition 260 copies. An earlier presentation on the subject by Daly was made to the New York Historical Society, on Nov. 3, 1893 (New York, 1894).
- DAYTON (ABRAM C.). Last days of Knickerbocker life in New York. New York, 1882. 16°. Portrait.
- Illustrated edition. New York and London, 1897. 8°. Sketches the social life, etc. of New York about 1840. Prof. H. L. Osgood estimates it thus: "The book has the limitations which are characteristic of personal memoirs, viz., it deals exclusively with the social classes among which the author moved, while the material is presented without regard to logical order or to completeness in itself." —Larned's Literature of Amer. Hist., 367.
- DE PEYSTER (FREDERICK). History of the Tontine building. Founded 1792. Demolished in May, 1855. New York, 1855. 24°. Published for gratuitous circulation by Geo. F. Nesbitt & Co., printers, etc., who occupied the old building. The article is a reprint from Valentine's Manual for 1852, with additions. It has views of the old and the new Tontine building.
- DUNLAP (WILLIAM). A history of the American theatre. New York, 1832. 8°. It was reprinted in London, 1833, in larger type, leaded, spreading over two volumes. The English edition, therefore, is the best for practical purposes.
- History of the rise and progress of the arts of design in the United States. New York, 1834. 2 vols. 8°. It is a chronological-biographical history of the progress of improvement in the arts of design (painting, engraving, etc.) in the United States from the colonial period to 1834. There is a set in the New York Public Library (Stuart collection) extended to six volumes by insertion of about five hundred portraits, views, pictures, facsimiles, letters, etc., among them many fine specimens by the early American engravers.

- HONE (PHILIP). Diary . . . 1828-1851. Edited with an introduction by Bayard Tuckerman. New York, 1889. 2 vols. 8°. The diary was begun after the termination of his mayoralty (1826-1827), and without any view to publication. The original manuscript consists of twenty-eight quarto volumes, closely written on both sides of the leaves. The printed volumes give about one-fourth of the work. The editor says: "The portions of the Diary relating to industrial changes, to political and social life, to public men and other individuals of note, to the history of the city of New York, have been retained as far as allowed by the limits of the two volumes." It was reissued, two parts in one volume, New York, 1910. Another selection

- was edited by Allan Nevins (New York, 1927). The original manuscript volumes of the Diary are owned by the New York Historical Society.
- HONE (PHILIP). Diary . . . 1828-1851. Edited with an introduction by Allan Nevins, New York, 1927. 2 vols. 8°.

WERNER (M. R.). Tammany Hall. Garden City and New York, 1928. 8^p. Illustrated.

Described as an "accurate, merciless, cold-blooded, impartial . . . authentic, documented record of Tammany Hall," from its beginning in the eighteenth century to the death of Charles F. Murphy in 1924.

(m) MISCELLANEOUS, INCLUDING PERSONALIA

ABBOTT (WILBUR CORTEZ). Colonel John Scott of Long Island 1634 (?)—1696. New Haven, 1918. 8^p.

Printed for the Society of Colonial Wars in the State of New York, as publication no. 30, and also issued separately for independent sale by the author.

The author has brought together all known data about Scott and his ventures, resulting in a scholarly analysis which sets up Scott in a new light. Professor Abbott says of Scott that he was "sometimes colonist and soldier, sometime royal geographer and the agent if not the confidant of the great; always adventurer, and, save for circumstances beyond his wit and skill, and, we may add, perhaps beyond his character, lord of Long Island, and the founder of a fourteenth original colony in North America; now but the shadow of a shade of a dead rascal, whose life serves to while away an hour or two, perhaps at best to point a moral and adorn a tale." This was not all. "The story of Scott did not end with his departure from the scene of his earthly activities. However numerous those activities while he was alive, they pale to insignificance before the achievements even he was in his grave; and it is in these no less, perhaps even more, than in the extraordinary circumstances of his life, that there lies whatever of value such a study as this contains of contribution of ultimate truth."

ANDREWS (WILLIAM LORING), editor. Jacob Steendam noch vaster. A memoir of the first poet in New Netherland with translations of his poems descriptive of the colony. New York, 1908. 12^p. Illustrated.

The translations are Henry C. Murphy's (q. v.); otherwise this little volume has a sketch of Murphy, a memoir of Jacob Steendam, notices of Sandys and Morrell, respectively first poets of Virginia and New England. The edition consisted of 115 copies on Van Gelder hand-made paper. Andrews had an earlier article on "The first poet of New Netherland" in The Bookman, vol. 19 (1904), pp. 464-471.

ARMSTRONG (HAMILTON FISH), editor. The book of New York versus New York, 1917. 8^p.

BAUDET (P. J. H.). Leven en werken van Willem Jansz. Blaeu. Uitgegeven door het Provinciaal Utrechtsch Genootschap van Kunsten en Wetenschappen. Utrecht, 1871. 8^p. Portrait and plates.
A standard biography of this famous maker of maps and globes, so intimately connected with the cartography of America.

CLARK (EMMONS). History of the Seventh Regiment of New York, 1806-1880. New York, 1880. 2 vols. 8^p.

The author was for twenty-five years the commandant of the regiment. An introductory chapter is devoted to the history of the militia, etc., from 1609-1805.

COLDEN (CADWALLADER D.). The life of Robert Fulton. New York, 1817. 8^p.

Read originally in condensed form before the Literary and Philosophical Society of New York. It is the first regular biography of Fulton, by a sympathetic friend. The book involved Colden in a controversy with William A. Duer. For the best biography of Fulton see Sutcliffe (Alice Crary).

DE FOREST (ROBERT W.). Jesse de Forrest, the leader of the Walloon emigration to America. New York, 1923. 8^p.

This article is a reprint from vol. 5 of Proceedings of the Huguenot Society of Pennsylvania, and was issued by the National Huguenot-Walloon New Netherland Tercentenary Commission.

JESSURUN (J. SPINOZA CATELLA). Kiliaen van Rensselaer van 1623 tot 1636. 's-Gravenhage, 1917. 8^p.

The title of this volume is misleading. It is not primarily a biography, but treats of the planning, planting, and development of Kiliaen van Rensselaer's colony of Rensselaerswyck. Manhattan Island figures in the narrative as the port of entry and the seat of the provincial government. It cannot be said that the book presents much new evidence. Its value lies in a reinterpretation of the sources. The author has used the most recent researches and new data of De Roeve, Van Laer, and Eekhof. Important is the documentary appendix, particularly the text of the Provisional Order for planting colonies in New Netherland, March 28, 1624. This seems to be the first printing of this text; but we had a transcript since 1912, discovered for us by Dr. Wieder. This appendix, too, has a liberal extract of the Dutch text of the letter of De Raskiere to Blommaert. The book ought to be translated into English for American students.

INTRODUCTION

THE dated items in the Index refer to the Chronology or to the Chronology, Addenda (Vol. 4 A or Vol. 6 A). These dates do not in every case indicate the exact day when the event indexed occurred, but may refer to a date in the Chronology where a summary of events includes the one indexed. Such summary may embrace a period of several months, or even years.

In the belief that the reader will generally be able to find a given subject more readily if it is grouped with similar subjects under a generic heading, certain group titles covering the more important group subjects have been introduced. These are given on the following page.

In so far as these group titles relate to landmarks, they correspond with similar headings in the Landmark Map Reference Key, in Vol. III, which is cited in each case for additional information.

The subjects mentioned under these headings are concrete and specific. For example, under Churches will be found the names of particular churches, arranged alphabetically by denominations. The subject of Churches in general is indexed separately. It will also be observed that the subjects covered by these group titles embrace only those which relate to Manhattan Island; landmarks, organizations, etc., outside of Manhattan Island are left under their individual titles in the general index.

A particular, although not always successful, effort has been made to include each subject under the logical title, and thus, as much as possible, to eliminate a multiplication of entries. Notwithstanding this general rule, it has been found that many subjects require two entries, a few more than two.

If the reader seeks information regarding some specific transaction of a legislative or other body, he should turn to the subject of the transaction, and not to the name of the body. For example, if he is looking for a city ordinance relating to streets, he should look, not under Common Council, the body issuing the ordinance, but either under the general subject title Streets, or under the group title Streets, where the name of the particular street or streets to which the ordinance especially refers should be found. If, however, the reader is looking for orders, ordinances, transactions, or other information relating to the legislative or other body itself, he should look under the name of that particular body.

The abbreviation C. C., for Common Council, has been used throughout the Index.

In the final revision of the Index a few items inadvertently omitted from the Chronology, and its Addenda, have been briefly entered under the appropriate headings, generally with references to original sources.
